Committees Speed Work As Mart Opening Draws Near

As time slips by, and the date approaches for the opening of the Village Mart at the Community House Dec. 8, and bridges and various other social activities are suspended while members of the committees in charge of booths complete necessary preparations. The Mart gives local churches and organizations an opportunity each year to raise funds for maintenance and for the support of their activities. Expenses of the Mart are defrayed each year by the proceeds of the White Elephant booth, which, as its name implies, offers for sale an odd collection of articles. These are gleaned from a number of sources, depending on the contributions of those who wish to add to the variety of the booth. Unique among the booths will be that in which the American Association of University Women and the Student Loan Fund are co-operating. In it will be found musical toys and strings for all manner of string instruments. There will also be interesting toys and a continuous movie showing, the antics of "Mickey Mouse." Mrs. Mason Barr is chairman of arrangements. An assortment of candy, tea, sangeerie and miscellaneous articles will be sold at the booth, sponsored by the Rotary Association. Mrs. Walter T. Elliott is chairman.

FRANKLIN

Five Birmingham Women Win Honors At Art Exhibit

Letters of recognition have been awarded to five Birmingham women whose work, exhibited at the third annual Oakland County Art Exhibit held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Community House under the auspices of the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs, won the greatest number of votes. One hundred and twenty-five ballots were cast by the 200 or more spectators who viewed the exhibit. The five women winning recognition were Mrs. Leo Gibbons, 764 Pierce street, for a pastel, "The Cider Jug"; Mrs. Florence Etter, 127 Fairfax road, for a landscape entitled "The Barn"; Mrs. Edgar A. Parks, 336 Fureed street, for "The Village Church," a water color; Miss Eva Fowler, Moor road, for "October in Michigan," also a landscape; and Mrs. Dorothy Beale, 212 Catalpa drive, for a group of children's illustrations. Thirty-seven Oakland County artists contributed their work to the exhibit. Each of the women winning recognition have had work on exhibition at various times in Birmingham and Detroit. Mrs. Gibbons, last year, won fourth place in the Oakland county exhibit for her "Wooded Terrace," while Mrs. Etter's work was on display in the Michigan Exhibit at the Detroit Institute of Arts last January. Two still life subjects in water color, the water color "Lilies," on display, also last January, at the Independent Artists Exhibit in Detroit. Miss Fowler, a well-known
