Signs Just Hokey To Mayor Of Hills

He Doesn't Believe In Them Until Commission's Arguments Bring Him Around

Mayor Donald D. James of Bloomfield Hills doesn't believe in the signs in the parkway between the two traffic lanes on Woodward avenue.

He said so Tuesday night when the Bloomfield Commission received a request from A. M. Gault, business manager of Cranbrook School, to erect one in the center of the highway at Lone Pine road, and another at Lone Pine and Laker roads. The signs were to be attractive ones, harmonizing with the city's traffic signs. Mr. Gault's other—just big enough for the eye of the school, with an arrow pointing down Lone Pine road. "But the Mayor was against it."

"If it will be a dignified sign, showing the way to an institution that is one of the finest of its kind in America," Commissioner Clarence E. Otter pleaded.

"But we might have to put up signs for riding academies and live-cripples, too, if we did that," the Mayor argued. "Besides, it's not in the right place. That place on Woodward is going to be a park someday—a real park, with trees and shrubbery. We won't put the signs on the side of the road."

"I wouldn't like to have them here," said Commissioner Frank W. Atkinson, frankly.

"Neither would I," echoed Mr. Otter.

The Mayor grew a trifle sarcastic.

"All right, then, maybe we can have a Neon sign," he suggested. Then he shook his head. "And I think, too," he growled, "that I voted along with you fellows for Mayor Commissioner Luther D. Allen authorized to console him. "Never mind the sign over with an automobile within six months, will have it up in his room." Mr. Otter protested.

"This kind of psychology finally brought the Mayor around. He smiled, and "Okay," and the proposition was unanimous.

EXCHANGITES BEAT ROTARY GOLFERS

Win Inter-Club Trophy, 737 to 776, in Seventh Annual Match

The Birmingham Exchange Club made its mastery over interservice club golf circles complete yesterday with a victory over the Rotary Club in the annual tournament between the two groups for the inter-club trophy at the Birmingham Golf Club. The Exchangeers, previously this summer had won the Workingmen's Trophy for which the Rotarians and Lions also competed.

The score in Woodward's match was 737 to 776, the individual scores of the low eight men playing in the Birmingham being added to compute the gross score. It was the seventh successive year in which the two clubs have played for the trophy, and the fourth in which the Exchangeites have been the victors.

Although the Exchangeites won the cup, it was a member of the Lions Club who held low individual score for the day. He was D. E. Norton, who shot an 81 for the 9 holes. Member of the Lions club, who was not competing for the cup, were invited by the other two clubs to join in the play.

OPERATING COSTS HELD TO BUDGET

Commission Studies Statement Of City Expenses For July

And August

City of Birmingham expenditures for July and August, respectively were $4,316,78 over the budget allowance for those months, but inasmuch as an item of $3,461.30, covering bonds of future maturity which have been accepted in payment of taxes, is listed in the expense column the total operating expense for the two months was for practical purposes $1,114.52 under budget allowance, according to the Commission report, which was presented Monday night by City Treasurer Harold H. Corson. The bonds must be listed as an expense to keep the books in balance, he explained.

The statement showed that expenditures for the two months, including the bond item, were $28,345.14. One-sixth of the year's budget allowance for the year's operating costs would be $24,028.66.

On 11 different items, this expense exceeded the allowance, while on 19 items the expense was under the allowance for the two months, according to the statement. Besides the item for general administrative expenses, other items are listed, items which exceeded the allowance included welfare, which was $1,057.27 over the budget, and street lighting, which was $410 over the budget.

Welfare expenditures showed an excess over the allowance, Mr. Corson said, because all money received from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for welfare purposes is still listed as a debt of the city to the R. F. C.

"We have not yet received any authorization to write off any of that money, but we expect authorization to write off one-third to the Federal Government and one-third to the State," he said.

Welfare department costs in August totaled $2,287.18, whereas the budget allowance was $2,091.67, the statement showed.

Street lighting costs for the two months in June but turned out months exceeded the allowance because some lights which were turned on in June but turned out in July were paid for in the latter month, City Manager James W. Parry explained.

Four Youths Held For Stealing Gas

The two arraigned in Municipal Court were Leonard Wade, 20 years old of 627 Henrietta street, who was sentenced to serve 15 days in the County Jail for simple larceny, and Billy E. Bissell, 19, of Orchard Ridge road, Blount field Hills, who was placed on probation for two years. In the latter case the two youths who will be arraigned in Probate Court are both 16 years old.
