

We are entering another autumn season, when summer slips away with the alchemy of uncertainty and universal change. Without a single help from man, the trees about us will adorn themselves in colorful robes, as they prepare to fashion next year's clothing. Marvel, and be glad!

The World At A Glance

Gold Being Sought—And Bought
Steel Backing Down
Inflation Feared

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The world that invests—here, abroad, everywhere—is buying gold, shares in gold companies, and shares in gold bonds. The financier who is international, who has no regard for sentimentalities, sees currency depreciation ahead. He visions the American recovery program as incapable of bringing about sufficient recovery, to ward off inflation.

Students who have applied for admission to the University of Michigan include Phyllis Huston, James Walker, Adelaide Ely, Betty Quorton, Jack Fayton, Clayton Brelsford, Harry Brelsford, Marjorie Swan, Alice Osterman, John Morrow, Richard Coombs, Arthur Staebler, Rita Wellman, Stanley Thomas, Jr., George Flynn, Jr., Mary Louise Johns, Mary Lambert, Donald Parry, Betty Roura and Eleanor Wasey.

Only Three Weeks Left In Puzzle Contest

"Puzzle That Pays" contest entrants took the home stretch this week, with only three more weeks, including this one, remaining in this fascinating competition sponsored by the Eccentric in cooperation with Birmingham merchants.

Last week's winners were Mrs. Charles T. Deals, 212 Catalpa drive, first; Mrs. C. F. Butters, 343 Ferndale avenue, second; and Dorothy Prussing, Bryn Mawr road, third.

As the contest draws to a close, it seems as though the answers to the puzzles are getting easier and easier. You'll be surprised to find how easy this week's is. But no matter how simple, remember there are three attractive prizes awaiting the winners, as usual, and the fun of working the puzzle will more than repay the effort. So get in and try your luck—it isn't too late yet!

Hollywood Overcrowded? Not With Talent, Star Says

Still Plenty Of Room For That, Betty Compson Believes

By ALLEN TENNY

Despite all the talk of overcrowding in the movie industry, and the stories of thousands of Hollywood "extras" who are having a time of it to keep from starving, the film capital is still the Mecca of opportunity for young men and women of talent, in the opinion of Betty Compson, who has been a familiar screen figure for 15 years.

Miss Compson, blonde, petite and still convinced, even after 15 years, that the show business is "the greatest thing in the world," inaugurated a series of weekly personal appearances of famous movie stars at the Birmingham Theater Saturday and Sunday nights. The plan will be continued indefinitely, with Tom Brown, star of "Tom Brown of Culver," appearing next Saturday and Sunday.

"They are the kind of people who would be 'extras' anywhere they went. They don't try to get their parts or to make themselves known. They just seem to be satisfied with what they are. "Some people, you know, have to run as fast as they can to stay where they are. But there's always room for talent—even in Hollywood. So if you've got a speck of it, go ahead. Take a chance. You know, nothing ventured, nothing gained."

When she leaves Detroit, Miss Compson will go to New York where she is under contract with Anton Scabilla to appear in his forthcoming revue, "Highlights of Hollywood," to open in Herkulesburg, Pa., before its New York run. When that closes, she'll return to Hollywood.

Talks An Improvement

She thinks the talkies are a great improvement over the silent movies, although her own greatest success was scored in one of the latter—"Miraculous," in which she appeared with Lou Chaney.

Introduction of the sound principle, she believes, set the industry back about two years, but "winners in anything suffer a little, and now there's no comparison."

Furthermore, she believes they're improving all the time, and that the movies have entirely revolutionized acting technique, not only on the screen but on the stage as well. "People don't act any more," she said, "at least in the sense that we used to think of acting." They just appear as their natural selves. She called it a "revival of acting."

She hasn't enough stage experience to know whether she would prefer to be on the screen, but she would because of the direct contact with audiences.

"The 'talk' is a show business despite the long hours. Has worked as much as 18 hours at a stretch on the 'talk,' and generally averages 10 hours a day when in Hollywood. Plays the violin, but doesn't have time to practice any more. Work is her chief "hobby," although she does find time for horseback riding, generally on Sundays.

Lucky "Accident"

For her, the transition from silent to talking pictures was made easily through what she calls an "accident." She had appeared in "The Barker," when it was made as a silent, and got her break when the producers decided to re-make it into a talkie without giving the expense of hiring new players. Her last picture was "Notorious Nice," which she recently released. She is still "a very good friend" of James Cruze, the director, although they were divorced two years ago. Has no children, but thinks families are "nice." Her particular Hollywood friends are Bobe Danne, Ben Lyons, Richard Dix and Winifred Cow, and she adores Joan Crawford and Ruth Chatterton.

Miss Compson has advertised Lucky Strikes for years and smokes nothing else. During the interview she graciously refused a Camel.

"They might arrest me for perjury or something," she said laughingly.

HOPKINS IN YPSILANTI FOR M. E. CONFERENCE

The Rev. R. D. Hopkins, pastor of the First Methodist Church, left Wednesday for Ypsilanti to attend the annual Detroit Conference of the church, which will be in session there through Sunday. Miss Margaret McCarroll will represent the local church as its lay delegate at the conference.

Several women members of the congregation are planning to attend the anniversary meeting of the Conference Woman's Foreign and Woman's Home Missionary Societies, to be held Thursday.

"Dodge Mono-Piece Steel Body SAVED OUR LIVES"

—says J. F. Hutchinson, Iowa Minister

"I was driving to Chicago with my family to attend the World's Fair," says the Rev. J. F. Hutchinson, minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Storm Lake, Iowa, "but near Fort Dodge, another car suddenly cut across our path, forcing us into a deep ditch.

"My Dodge slid down the embankment, turning over several times, struck a telephone pole, breaking it off, then landed in the ditch right-side up.

"I feel certain that had it not been for the steel body of my Dodge car, my entire family would have been killed. The Dodge car saved us. We came through with no serious permanent injuries, miraculously as it seems.

"I have my dear family all with me, alive and getting well. My gratitude is deep and moving.
