WOMEN'S CLUB DANCE TO BE GALA AFFAIR

Winn Reputation For Hospitality To Guests At Annual Event

Each year at Christmas time members of the Birmingham Women's Club, their wives and guests, get together at the Community house for one of those gala evening and informal dances for which the organization has developed a reputation of hospitality.

Judging from dances of other years, everything is done by the committee in charge to provide a most enjoyable evening for the guests in the matter of music and decorations.

As last year, there will be a dinner for members, their wives and guests, only, before the dance, at the house. For the party, the invitation is extended to those who enjoy informal affairs of this nature.

Omer Lewis is in charge of tickets for the dance. C. J. Brantley is making arrangements for the music, and Elizabeth McBrine and Paul Neal Averill are planning the entertainment for the evening.
