Among the younger golfers contending for this year's title are Miss Jean Kror of Ann Arbor and Miss Margaret Russell of Detroit. ## Catherine Brown Becomes Bride At Church Ceremony

A pretty mid-summer wedding was celebrated in St. Charles Catholic Church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Miss Catherine Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Brown of Greenwood avenue, and Arthur Irving Philip, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Irving Philip of Quanton road, spoke their nuptial vows.

Disposals of white Shasta daisies, white snapdragons and white flocks were used with cathedral candles in the decoration of the altar for the ceremony. The Rev. W. Hamilton Aulenbach, assistant rector of Christ Church Cathedral, read the service.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white organza, fashioned on the Princess mode with a high cowl neckline, the skirt ending in a short train. She wore one of the new short veils, and carried a bouquet of gardenias, white roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Frederick C. Detler of Cincinnati acted as her sister's matron of honor, wearing a blue lace gown and wide-brimmed white straw hat. She carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Helen and Shirley Brown, wore of beige and peach organdie, fashioned alike. Barbara Bee, the diminutive flower girl, wore a frock of pink crepe, and carried a basket of pink roses. Frederick Mallerder, the small son of Milton F. Mallerder, who acted as best man to Mr. Postman, bore the ring on a white satin cushion.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the bride, wore an afternoon dress of beige lace, with burnt orange accents, and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Philip wore a gown of blue lace, with a brown hat and accessories.

Those ushering were Stuart Rainey, Charles Weston and Ray

Phillips of Detroit and Roy Brown, brother of the bride.
