SINGLE POINT BEATS CRANES

Floor-Length Pass In Overtime Gives Windsor Tech 18-17 Victory

Cranbrook School's basketball quintet lost a heartbreaking, overtime game to Windsor-Walkerville Tech of Canada Tuesday afternoon on the Cranbrook floor, 18 to 17.

The game was undoubtedly the best played on the Cranes' floor this year, both teams fighting hard, though passing poorly. At the end of the fourth period the count was tied at 16 to 16 and for a time it seemed that a second 3-minute overtime period would be required to break it.

With half of the extra time gone, Chittem of Tech threw a pass the length of the court to Bill Clark, high scorer and fast forward, who was standing under the hoop and who easily sank the shot. MacDonald of Cranbrook then sank a charity toss and with 30 seconds left to play, Jack Metzger of the same team barely missed a free throw that would have again knotted the count.

The Canadians opened fast and were leading, 6 to 4, at the quarter, but the Blue and Gray came back with a rush, forcing the play to even the score, 10 to 10, at the half. The third period was unusual in that only foul shots were successful for both teams, Tech sinking five and Cranbrook three.

In the fourth period, both quintets played hard and wild and missed easy shots frequently, Metzger making a basket and foul for the Cranes and Little a charity toss for Tech.

Clark was high point man for Windsor-Walkerville with three field goals and four free tosses for a count of 10, while Metzger led the Cranbrook scoring with a total of seven points. Much of the credit for the Cranes' fine showing must be given to MacDonald, lanky center, and Seeley, guard, both of whom played excellent basketball and were the only members of their team to play the whole game. Cranbrook committed 14 personal fouls and sank seven free throws, while Tech committed nine fouls and made eight free shots good.

This was the second defeat administered to Cranbrook by Tech, which won earlier in the season by another one-point margin, 28 to 26. The Cranes' next contest and their last of the season will be with Western Reserve Academy Saturday at Cranbrook.

Cranbrook Singers Give Flint Concert

The Hotel Durand in Flint was the scene of a concert by the Cranbrook School Glee Club Friday evening, sponsored by the Flint Junior League and directed by Vernon Kellett. After the concert, the Cranbrook orchestra provided dance music for the guests.

A joint concert by the Cranbrook Glee Club and the Western Reserve Academy Glee Club of Hudson, O., will be given in Cranbrook Auditorium Saturday evening. Numbers will be sung together and seperately by the two clubs. Mr. Kellett will again direct.

PLAY, SONGS FEATURE ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

A play entitled "Captain Percy of the Slovenly Sloop" featured an assembly program given by students of the ninth and 10th grade biology classes at Bloomfield Hills School on Vaughn road Friday afternoon. The cast included Michael Gollogly as the captain, John Saunders, Charles Matheson, Frederick Gibson, Bill Bawden and Arthur Gibson.

A vocal solo by Mary Lesiak and a group of songs by the girls of the classes completed the program.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Under the direction of the Student Council, a new student monitor plan has been put into effect at Barnum School. Two students from each of the six home rooms are on hall duty between all classes and before school both in the morning and at noon. In the past, these monitors have been on duty only before school. Hall supervision between classes is expected to eliminate much of the congestion.

Forty students from Barnum and Pierce Schools attended the Detroit Symphony Orchestra concert for school children Tuesday afternoon, and 40 more students from Quarton and Adams Schools will hear the orchestra today. This week's concerts conclude the series.

Under the supervision of Mgs. Edith Coryell, an all-musical assembly was held in the Barnum Auditorium for Barnum Junior High students Wednesday afternoon.

The idea that only boys are interested in working with wood and tools was dispelled last week at Adams School when nearly 25 junior high girls got together and formed an Arts and Crafts club. The club will meet each week under the supervision of Merlyn Smiley, manual arts instructor.

DECISION CHANGED AGAINST MAROONS

Scorer's Mistake Leaves Baldwin With False Thoughts Of Victory In Practice Tilt

After leaving Pontiac last Saturday night believing they had defeated the Pontiac High School reserves in a practice game, the Baldwin High School cagers learned the official score keeper had reversed his decision and that by virtue of the point system the Pontiac team had won, 30 to 29.

The Maples battled the Chiefs to a 26-all tie at the end of the regular playing time, and at the completion of an overtime period each team had scored three points, knotting the score at 29-all. The Michigan High School Athletic Association has ruled that only one overtime period may be played, and that then a point system must be used to determine the winner.

Birmingham, for making the most baskets, was awarded five points. Four points were awarded the Chiefs for committing the smallest number of personal fouls. As the team that makes the largest percentage of its free throws is awarded three points and the official scorer had figured that the Maples had found the hoop on their free tosses more frequently than the Chiefs, the game was awarded to Baldwin. After the Baldwin team had left, however, the scorer stated that he had marked a missed free throw against a member of the Pontiac team by mistake, and that the point, given to the team with the largest number of units under this system, was awarded to the Pontiac five.

The Maroon reserves lost two tilts during the past week. Wednesday afternoon the University of Detroit High School reserves handed them a 16 to 8 defeat, and on Friday evening in a preliminary tilt preceding the Ferndale-Baldwin game, the Lincoln second team downed the local reserve club, 21 to 12.

William Harvey, English anatomist, was celebrated as the discoverer of the circulation of the blood.

FACTS REVEAL TRUTH OF WAR

spent $60,000,000 more on our Navy than the combined navies of France, Italy and Japan. And twice the sum Great Britain has spent on hers."

A Starved Navy?

He continues, "Since the Washington Conference, more than nine thousand million ($9,000,000,000) have been spent on our Army and Navy." And still the gentleman says "We have starved our Navy." Does he know that this amount would redeem every farm mortgage within the United States, that it would build an 18-foot road at the cost of $20,000 a mile, 117,000 miles long, a distance equal to 36 through highways from New York City to San Francisco? Have these appropriations any realistic relation to national defense? Besides these capital costs, it takes $500,000,000 a year to keep up this navy.

As to a project that is being starved, we might look for a moment at the 175,000 children who have no schooling this year, the 200,000 certified teachers out of work and the additional 45,000 who will receive less than $300 this year. At that, if we needed a navy of this size and couldn't have schools, too, it would be merely a question of which we wanted more. But there seems to be a lot more to it than that.

A pamphlet put out by the Bureau of Labor Statistics says that ship-building companies, gun-building companies and their ilk get profits of from 200 to 300 per cent for their wares. One incredible column shows the American Woolen Mills in 1918, due to war time orders, making as high as 15,536 per cent profit! (I got my magnifying glass to see whether I hadn't read that wrong). Those who want these vast sums spent on the navy have a common cause here with those who want a defense navy only—they both deplore the confiscation of the people's taxes by the ravenous armament makers.

"Real Scandal"

On Feb. 8, Senator Nye of North Dakota proposed a Senate investigation of munition makers. If you want to hear some real scandal, let this investigation proceed! Let's put the "Merchants of Death" on the spot. An editorial in last week's Eccentric by the Rev. Earl Jackson needs pondering over, and another recently in The Detroit News called "Militaristic Propaganda" shows plainly where they stand.

But it is to the interest of certain "bought and paid for newspapers" to create a cynicism and indifference toward the few constructive efforts the poor old world has advanced toward the common world cause. When they see audiences yawning at the mention of Geneva, that is what the munition-controlled press wants.

In closing I relate an experience told by Beverly Nichols in "Cry Havoc". The author visited Geneva. He was present at the League session on Japan-Manchuria with a famous reporter. This was the conversation, the reporter and author talking together:

"'We talked of disarmament in its relation to the general problem.

"'Something really is being done,' said X.

"'I wish I could think the same,' I said.

"'Well, at least we've reached this position that the nation which increases its armament has d—well got to explain itself to the rest of the world. Isn't that something?' said X.

"'If only the people could be made to realize that,' I said. 'If only the press of the world wouldn't always sneer. Now you're all right. I don't read your newspaper but, I imagine you'll...cable back a pretty encouraging report.'

A Surprise

"'Do you?' there was a curious look in X's eyes.

"'Well, after what you've been saying' . . . . I countered.

"X looked away from me. In a cold, dry voice he said, 'do you know what the main title of my story will be tonight?'

"'No'.

"'Geneva asleep! The League Discredited'.

"'I don't understand', I said.

"'Don't you? Very well, here's the beginning of the story: "Another staggering blow was dealt to the moribund League of Nations this afternoon when". . . .

"He crumpled up the manuscript and put it in his pocket. He grinned.

"'You see,' he said. 'My paper doesn't like the League of Nations'.

"'But you', I said.

"'Oh, me, I'm a newspaper man. And a cracking good one, too'.

"He was."
