

All Is Harmony At Caucus Of Township Republicans

The old-timers who attended the Bloomfield Township Republican caucus at the township garage Saturday afternoon shrugged their shoulders and were heard to mumble under their breaths something about things not being the same as they used to be.

There was really too much harmony, it seemed—gave things the appearance of a social gathering rather than a political caucus. All incumbents were nominated for reelection unanimously, and there wasn't even any opposition offered as a joke or to make things interesting.

And this, in view of the fact that there hasn't been and isn't now any Democratic caucus, means that all present office-holders will keep their jobs for another year, barring the unlikely possibility that stalker candidates will make their appearance and win out at the election April 2.

Those who were nominated without even the semblance of a struggle were Supervisor Perry A. Vaughan, Clerk James V. Bailey, Treasurer David E. Anderson, Highway Commissioner Jack E. Wilson, A. L. Hulet, justice of the peace, and William Foreman, Fred Lincoln, Frank Lockhart and Francis Theinerger, constables.

WILL MEET B. A. C. BERGMAN WINNER FOR Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE TITLE

By virtue of a 21 to 17 victory over Stroup's Market last night in the Barnum School gym, the winners will play the winner of a Bergman-Drug-Birmingham Athletic Club club in the final round of the Y. M. C. A. league basketball championship next Wednesday night. The B. A. C. will play the Drummen in a semi-final round at 7:30 P. M. Monday on the Baldwin School.

In playing basketball, Stroup's had it all over the Mists last night, but in the final round of the basketball, and in the third period held, the Stroup outscored the Mists. They scored eight points in the first chapter before the market team was able to find the hoop, and at one time in the last frame led by 10 points, 19 to 8.

"Red" Hallock was the main cog in the Mists' offense, and with a total of eight points led both teams in individual scoring. The play of Vic Canever, former State High School star, stood out in the Stroup lineup. Canever swished the nets with two long shots in the first quarter and brought his total scoring to seven with three foul throws later in the game.

An audience of less than 40 persons gave proof that interest in commercial basketball in Birmingham is not as high as it once was. A few years ago this game would have brought out enough spectators to fill the stadium.

In a preliminary game, the B. A. C. won a 24 to 20 decision over the Stroup team. The varsity handled the game more expertly and in general played a better game than the Stroup team, but B. A. C. was more accurate in shooting.

Summary of the Mifflin-Stroup game follows:

Mists	G	F	T
Bowling	2	0	4
Hallock, Jr.	2	0	4
Bell, C.	2	1	5

What The Women Think About It
Each week, The Eccentric asks several women, chosen at random from the telephone book, to answer a question of general interest in Birmingham.

What is your opinion of the modern movie?
Mrs. Charles A. Dann, 607 Pilgrim road, "I am quite approving and often I object to being put before the rising generation. George Arliss is very good, but some of the other actors and actresses are not so good. I haven't seen a man in a movie, but I am basing my judgments on the stories I have read concerning them. 'Little Women' was wonderful."

Mrs. F. B. Dickerson, 455 Harmon avenue: "I'm not so much impressed with them. I rarely see go, but even in the best scenes one finds some objectionable things. They are not so bad for adults, but they are not healthy for the minds of children. They might do them their imaginations, but they also awaken things not altogether desirable. Many things which are happening every day can be traced directly to the movies."

Mrs. F. H. Eddy, Fourteen-Mile road: "To begin with, I do not believe in movies and I personally think that the general run of movies today leads many young people astray. I believe with all my heart and soul that if people would see the Lord they would find He has much more for them and would give their lives an entirely different color than the movies."

Mrs. Robert Essig, 1586 Birmingham boulevard: "The movies are entirely 'out' for children. The few movies the children see the better."

Mrs. Clarence Gail, 823 Pierce street: "Some movies are perfectly all right, but the majority I don't care for. 'Moulin Rouge' and 'The Artist' is the type I do not like."

Mrs. Vernon C. Fry, West Maple road: "I just go to the movies to see the stars. The other I don't see at all. George Arliss and the Barrymores are very good, but I don't bother to go to anything that I don't know anything about."

Mrs. G. R. Fuller, 1936 Fairview road: "I think that the movies are being less captured every day. The censors seem to be allowing more and more things that the younger generation shouldn't be looking at. Some movies, however, are very good. It is the acting that is especially good. The Mickey Mouse pictures don't mean much to adults, although they are a splendid piece

Mrs. MARIANNA CARROLL
All three weeks with a heart ailment, Mrs. M. Carroll, 88 years old, died Friday afternoon at the home of her niece, Mrs. M. Warrick, 513 South Woodward. She had lived the past 21 years at her home in Upper Fairmont, Md., where funeral services and burial were held of work and children like them."

Mrs. Joseph S. Green, 227 West Frank street: "Movies are a marvelous thing and they would be very educational for children if they could be censored more closely. Children learn quickly and impressions remain. For that reason the movies should be closely watched."

Mrs. N. F. Hadley, Arlington drive: "My children aren't old enough to go to the movies, or I would be more concerned. Some of the pictures that are shown must be a live reaction for nervous children. I pick out certain movies and go to see those only so I can't give an opinion on all of them. I might feel differently if my children were older."

Mrs. Fred D. Hendrick, 475 Pilgrim road: "I don't think we get very good movies out here in Birmingham. They often seem to be second class and it takes so long for the new pictures to be shown here."

Mrs. T. C. Hotelling, 187 Merrill street: "It is hard to say what I think. The actors I like best are rather old fashioned—Marie Dressler, Will Rogers, and Eddie Candler are my favorites."

Mrs. Donald L. Cumming, 243 North Woodward avenue: "The well-made picture is fine entertainment. The writing and photography are beautiful in the pictures we have today. But there are also some very poor ones and very few of any kind suitable for the young child."

She'll Keep Him—Hopping

The look Betty Barthell gives you in this photo hardly coincides with the impression one gains when Betty sings over the radio. She looks a bit demure and shy here, but her voice doesn't indicate any shyness when she is vocalizing current popular tunes on the ether.
