

Human beings are always on the move. They are as restless as wild animals, on most occasions. Even the tourist here in Florida, who have not a thing to do but wait until Old Sam comes closer to northern states, move about from green benches to green benches; from one smoking or shady spot to another.

Mr. Shain
There are those who say that wars are good; most of us and all like who would like to see them end. But there are those who say that wars are bad; most of us and all like who would like to see them end.

Tangled Emotions
One does not get tangled up in his emotions if he has any menacity at all. He remembers so well that day his particular set of friends gathered at the station to see the first contingent start away. He didn't know they didn't know how many would eventually foot on that station platform.

German Attack Recalled
In the World War, German attacks upon our trading ships at last drew us in. In Japan and Russia go to war and we insist upon trade, let us say, with Russia, sinking of our supply ships by Japan would involve us in that war.

Question Expediency
But nations can get together when they find it expedient. Their traditional enmities "blow away" fast enough when they find a big reason for forgetting it. Poland and Germany hated enemies as they were day before yesterday, are going it arm-in-arm now.

Men rarely feel as though women had much real information. As though there were some magic birthright to the possession of accuracy. Women get tolerated largely because "what good men know, about the only way to live with them." The article in March Fortune, a man's magazine, in which "The conditions" has been an eye opener to many men. Had women told them the facts revealed there, and many of us have been following such things for years, we would have been told we were talking through our hats.

No Common Cause
In fact, men and women have found few common causes in this field of work for peace. Business men do little studying in the realm of international relations, too much of a generalization. At least there are very few adult men's study groups in this country, and there are hundreds of women's groups. Even Rotary International, which has its study group, object the promotion of peace, so far as I know never has any study course or study groups on the causes of war.

WAR FAVORABLE BY MAJORITY

Majority Knows Its Horror, Yet Where Is Hope For Peace? Writer Asks

(Note: This is the seventh of eight articles on war, peace being written for The Eclectic by Mrs. Charles J. Shain, Birmingham clubwoman and student of international affairs.)

By Mrs. CHARLES J. SHAIN
People in general don't like to be persuaded that peace is desirable and that war is horrible. Some "down-and-outers," youth who seek adventure, "escape" to camps, to wars, to a sort of a "no other"—the "no other" is a release. But there are those who say that wars are good; most of us and all like who would like to see them end.
