Plan Vocational Group Interviews

Young People To Get Occupational Guidance From Business, Professional Men

Local business and professional men and women will be interviewed in group meetings of young people between the ages of 15 and 21 at the Community House Monday evening as the next step in the program of the Community Council for Guidance. Which was formed several weeks ago to make free vocational information and advice available to boys and girls out of school.

The men and women who will give the interviews and lead the discussions have donated their services in carrying out the Council's program. The interviewees will include the 20 young people who applied to the Council for assistance at a meeting three weeks ago and filled out questionnaires indicating their vocational interests. Others who have not answered the questionnaires may also attend, however, according to Robert D. Lynd, secretary of the Council.

The groups, each with an adult leader in charge, will include one devoted to a discussion of the opportunities offered by and training and equipment needed for law, another for medicine, and others for nursing, business administration, general office work, Girl Scout training, journalism and teaching. Mr. Lynd said.

PRINTING CODE OFFICIALS ACT

Michigan Press Association Is State Authority For Graphic Arts

In compliance with the provisions of the graphic arts code, which covers the conduct of all printing and publishing businesses with the exception of large daily newspapers, the Michigan Press Association, which is the Regional code authority for the state, has prepared a complete administrative plan and details are being worked out for its operation.

While the code is already in effect and the provisions are now being observed by the publishers of the smaller daily and weekly newspapers, there are still a multitude of administrative details requiring the time and attention of publishers and printers.

George R. Averill, publisher of The Excitee and former president of the Michigan Press Association, has been named chairman of the code administration committee of the Michigan regional code authority.

Committees Named
The officers of the Michigan Press Association comprise the regional code authority for the state. The regional code authority, presided by Paul McDonald, Gaylord, vice-president, Albert Brown, Bellevue, secretary-treasurer.

The administration committee includes, besides Mr. Averill, Adlai W. Kovering, Zeeland, secretary; T. O. Huckle, Cadillac, Evening News; Oscar Schumann, Grayling, Avianer; G. E. Gavron, Petoskey, Evening News; C. E. Kleindinst, Coldwater, commercial printer; and William H. Berkey, Cassopolis, Vigilant.

Other committees have been named as follows:
Finance—Phil P. Rich, chairman, Midland Republican; Joe S. Sturgeon, Delta Reporter, Gladstone; James Gallery, Tuscola County Advertiser; Harry Myers, Lapeer County Press; Chester Howell, Cheaning, Argus.

Labor compliance—Floyd Miller, chairman, Royal Oak Tribune; Arthur Finch, Adrian, commercial printing; Mark Haines, Starburg, Journal; L. R. Henderson, Troy, City commercial printing; Vernon J. Brown, Ingham County News, Mason.

Fair competition compliance—G. E. Kleindinst, chairman, Coldwater, commercial printing; Frank R. Moses, Marshall Chronicle; Carl Rauch, Cadillac, commercial printer; Joe Hays, Holly, Walter Kennedy, Albion Recorder.

Education—Scarth Inglis, chairman, Galesburg, Argus; William Canfield, Livingston County Republican; Howell; E. J. McClure, Grand Haven; W. M. McClure, Chelsea, Standard; Richard Cook, Hastings Banner.

Stabilization—H. A. Whiteley, chairman, Rogers City Advance; Earl T. McGrath, Charlotte Republican-Tribune; Adrian Van Kovering, Zeeland, Record; Thomas A. Conlin, Crystal Falls, Diamond Drill; Epoch Chapels, Alpena, commercial printing.

For more convenient administration of the code, the state has been divided into six districts. Oakland County is in the first district, which also includes Livingston, Washtenaw, Lenawee, Monroe, Wayne and Macomb Counties.

Herbert Gillette, Livingston County Republican; Howell, is chairman of the first district committee. The other members are: Chairman, Henry Brown, Standard; W. M. McClure, Chelsea Press; Floyd S. Miller, Royal Oak Tribune; and S. E. Millen, McMillen Printing Company, Monroe.

Cycle Of Exposures Expose Of Economic Warfare Next? Rail Labor Settlement A Surprise

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 3.—Exposures come in cycles. At least three books are to appear, barring in detail how armament concerns stir up hatreds, breed wars and reap the profits.

ANOTHER
An exposure of economic warfare also will be published if the Roosevelt administration has its way.

The lengths to which Wall Street has gone to defeat the bill regulating stock exchanges and the Wagner Labor Bill are beyond comprehension of the average citizen.

The House of Morgan is interested in both, and is today the most potent enemy of the Roosevelt administration.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, is a brother of George Whitney, most active partner of J. P. Morgan and Company.

As for labor, the House of Morgan, the United States Steel, General Motors and other large corporations, including public utilities.

RAILROAD LABOR
Wall Street, while surprised at the aggressiveness of railroad labor in its refusal to let the 10 per cent wage reduction continue, was prepared to compromise.

The compromise figure was to be 5 per cent.

Therefore announcement of full retraction of the 10 per cent cut over a period of one year was surprise.

MINUTE BIOGRAPHY
We hope to give brief biographies of some of our national figures hereafter.

Here is the first:
Kathryn O'Loughlin McCarthy, of Hays, Kas., representative in Congress from the sixth Kansas district, was a school teacher prior to her marriage to a Democrat.

She was 40 last month. If life for her begins at 40, she probably will go a long time (than those Democrats remain in power).

She is a graduate of the Hays High School, the State Teachers College, at Hays, and the University of Chicago Law School.

She became a member of the Kansas Legislature in 1931 and was swept into Congress on the Roosevelt landslide.

Even with life as busy as it was, she found time to marry.

BREAD
Rise in bread price is a blow to the administration, for it comes with falling wheat prices.

Calling the Brain Trust communistic is not looked upon in Washington as other than assuring the people that the Roosevelt administration is on their side.

But it is different when the statistics of life rise while the sum which the producer obtains drops. That does more damage than propaganda.

Incidentally some sources close to the administration express fear that the constant cries of "Communism" by Wall Street may arouse uncounted proletarians and turn people upon one another, instead of any culprits who may seek to undermine the republic.

There is some talk that President Roosevelt himself may assert that Wall Street interests are trying to divert the people from the main issues in order to retard completion of the New Deal.

At present, the situation is evoking considerable discussion in both New York and Washington, and is likewise being observed with rapid interest in European capitals. Fascist, nationalist and dictator governments naturally are in sympathy with elements of the Roosevelt social policies. The people have no voice in dictator countries.

And the people lost their say when they were swept into dictatorship by cries of "Communism!"

That, at least, is the view expressed in liberal circles.

TURKEY
It is being remarked in New York that Turkey rapidly is becoming an outstanding nation again.

Its dictator—Kemal Pasha—virtually imposed modernity and progressive measures on a backward country.

Now it is noted for its liberalism, both of thought and of action.

HOUSE RUINED BY $10,000 FIRE

Home Owners South Of Birmingham Begin Agitation For Protection

Residents of that portion of Southfield Township just south of Birmingham had begun agitation for fire protection today, following a $10,000 blaze Friday evening at a home on Beverly road into which the family of C. W. Hungerford, publicity and advertising manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, had moved less than 12 hours before it broke out.

Southfield Township has no fire protection, and neither the Birmingham nor Royal Oak city departments would respond to the alarm, in conformance with a policy which prevents them from answering calls outside the limits of the cities they serve except in cases where neighboring cities have agreements for exchanges of service.

Following the fire, residents of the district indicated they would send a delegation to the Southfield Township Board to determine whether fire protection could be provided, either by contract with Birmingham or by some other arrangement.

Although Birmingham failed to protect in its department to the alarm, several individual firemen off duty at the time went to the scene and added the Royal Oak Township department, which travelled 10 miles in answering the call, to attempt to extinguish the blaze. The Bloomfield Hills department also responded, but was sent back immediately when Fire Chief Russell V. Moore saw that his chemical equipment would be of no use, inasmuch as the fire had gained immense headway before the truck arrived.

The fire broke out about 6 P. M. when Mrs. Hungerford, her son Sidney, and two of his friends were in the house alone. Mr. Hungerford was in Lansing. The fire, believed to have started in the attic, had enveloped the roof in flames before it was noticed by neighbors.

Practically the entire house was destroyed in addition to about $10,000 worth of furniture. Most of the furniture however, was still packed in wooden crates when it had been moved that day from the Hungerford's former home in Franklin and was carried out by firemen and neighbors who worked until nearly midnight before leaving the scene.

Boston Corporation Elects Local Man

John E. Martin Named To Directorate Of American Zinc Company

Financial publications last week contained information of the election of John E. Martin, 815 Oakland avenue, to the board of directors of the American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Corporation at the annual meeting held at the company's offices in Boston, Mass. The American Zinc Corporation and its subsidiaries have for several years been the largest producing manufacturer of zinc and by-products in the country's best known field, the Tri-State. Its manufacturing plants are in Tennessee, Oklahoma and Missouri, and smelting and refining and manufacturing plants in East St. Louis and Hillsboro, Ill., and Columbus, O.

Other directors include Charles A. Right, Brookline, Mass., who is president of United States Smelting and Refining Company; Edward M. Hamlin, Boston broker; William H. Coolidge, Manchester, Mass., attorney; and Howard I. Young, president of American Zinc Corporation, who is in charge of the company's mining and manufacturing activities.

Mr. Martin, who has resided in Birmingham for the past 10 years, has been a director of the Birmingham National Bank since its organization a year ago.

Student Congress Articles Revised

The difficulties which arose over the proposed constitution of the new Student Congress at Baldwin High School appeared to be ironed out when members of a faculty committee, appointed by Principal Melvin C. Hart, met with a group of students representing the Congress Monday afternoon.

Teachers had asked that a section be added to the constitution to define their powers in the Congress, and a paragraph was inserted which provides that the faculty can, if it sees fit, force the dropping of any measure that might come before the body.

Election of officers in the Congress was postponed at the request of the teachers so that the new clause might be added, and a new date has not yet been set. The student committee plans to work with faculty representatives again Friday afternoon to discuss the matter further.
