Exchange Club's Scrubs To Play In Final Tourney

Bob Allen, head man of the Exchange Club's golf team, announced yesterday that he intends to use his scrubs—and possibly also a few of his dubs—in the third and last inter-club match of the season, to be played next afternoon at the Birmingham Golf Club. The reason for Bob's readiness to bench his best golfers in favor of the non-experts is, he admits, a purely sporting one. For the Exchange Club and Lions Club rivals as the result of their performances in the first two matches of the season. This is not altogether boastful, either, for the Exchange Club did tie it on to the other two teams in fine style the last time out, bringing up with a low total of 727 for the first eight players, while the Lions Club was second with 787 and the Rotarians third with 802.

The Exchange won the first match, too. This is generally conceded, as well as by Bob and his teammates, despite the fact that the official score for the tourney has been lost. Nobody has ever so much as breathed the suspicion that the Exchange lost it deliberately. However that may be, a good, healthy lead over their rivals as they go into the final match next week, and unless something just short of disastrous happens to Bob and his dubs, or—scrubs—at Birmingham, they should qualify for another year's possession of the Weyhing Brothers' Trophy.

Local Golfer Sinks Ace At Ferndale

At least a dozen out-of-town players have shot hole-in-one at Springdale Park in the past few years, but not until last week was the trick ever turned by a Birmingham golfer. He was J. S. Pavey, 240 North Woodward avenue, who used a spoon for sinking an ace on the 115-yard seventh hole. The ball landed on the green, rolled straight towards the cup, struck the flag pole and dropped in. Pavey, a local furniture dealer, was playing with J. R. Castle, 453 Greenwood avenue. It was the fifth hole-in-one registered at Springdale this season, and qualified Pavey to shoot a 33 for the course, one over par. His card also showed a birdie on the third hole, resulting from a 75-yard chip shot.

HEALTH INSPECTION OF LAKE ORDERED

Mayor Asks Kamp To Investigate "Unsanitary" Conditions Of Quanton District A flood of letters addressed to Mayor Harry Allen, protesting against the condition of Quanton Lake and its environs, caused the Mayor Monday night to instruct City Manager James W. Parry to ask Dr. William Lloyd Kemp, city health officer, to make a survey of the district to determine whether conditions there are unsanitary and detrimental to health, as the authors of the letters claim. The letters, all of which are being answered by the Mayor, are apparently inspired by one source, since many of their phrases are identical. They were all written, Mr. Allen said, by persons who assumed the city could obtain government funds with which to clean up the lake and its shores, removing unsightly and unsanitary conditions. No such funds are available at present, and even if they were, the city would probably not be able to secure them for this purpose, inasmuch as the property is still owned by a group of subdividers. Mr. Allen added, however, that he believed the owners "are now willing to deed it to the city without any conditions or restrictions whatsoever, providing we will assume the obligations incident to our taking it over." He indicated that the city would undoubtedly welcome such a deed if and when government funds are at any time available for improving the property. Surplus labor, if available, might be used on the project this fall, he added. The owners of the property offered to deed the lake to the city about three years ago, but on condition it would not be turned into a public park, and the city refused the offer.
