

Any man at the head of a family who refuses to assume the obligations of caring for that family must be taken into court and forced to live. Citizens have obligations, too—and when they refuse to measure up to them their freedom is impoverished.

COMMISSION UPHOLDS REFUSAL OF PERMIT

The City Commission Monday night upheld Building Inspector Donald Ebert in refusing a building permit to George Rohlf for constructing an addition on the front of his home at 1159 Chapin street. The permit was refused because the proposed addition would have extended over the building line in violation of the building code.

BOND-FOR-TAX USE CURTAILED

City Prohibits Payment Of Moore-Holbeck Installments With Bonds

Birmingham property owners who take advantage of the Moore-Holbeck Law to refund their delinquent city taxes of 1932 and prior years over a 10-year period beginning Sept. 1 will not be given the opportunity of paying the installments with bonds.

On the recommendation of City Treasurer Harold H. Corson, the City Commission Monday night adopted a resolution prohibiting the payment by bonds of taxes affected by the Moore-Holbeck Law, unless the entire amount of the delinquency is paid at one time, rather than in installments. Payment of the various installments by bonds would necessitate new bookkeeping complications which would prove costly, Mr. Corson said.

Members of the Commission also objected to this method of payment as being another concession to delinquent taxpayers, penalizing those who have already paid. "It would just be another form of inequality in the payment of taxes," Commissioner Lawrence Hulbert declared.

The resolution reads as follows: "Whereas, the acceptance of bonds and other obligations of the city for delinquent taxes for the years 1932 and prior was authorized as an incentive to taxpayers to pay such taxes as are affected by the Moore-Holbeck Act in full, rather than to spread them over the 10-year moratorium, now in effect; and Whereas, it is resolved that the payment of one or more installments, less than the whole, be prohibited under the Moore-Holbeck Law, by obligations of the city, be the same is hereby prohibited."

CEMETERY OWNERS HEAR DR. ERICHSEN

Birmingham Man Cites Progress Of Cremation As Law Basis At National Convention

Dr. Hugo Erichsen, of 415 Harmon avenue, addressed the American Cemetery Owners' Association at the annual convention of the Detroit Stadler, Detroit, Tuesday afternoon. The annual convention of the Association will close with a banquet tonight.

Dwelling on the progress made by cremation in this country, Dr. Erichsen pointed out that in the nine years following the initial cremation in 1876, there were only 28 incinerations, whereas at present approximately 30,000 bodies are cremated yearly.

There are now 114 crematoriums in the United States, according to Dr. Erichsen, who declared that only Japan, Switzerland and Zurich, Germany, and predicted that this type of reform would eventually replace the old-burning crematorium apparatus still used in Canada and the United States.

In conclusion, Dr. Erichsen called attention to the technical advance scored by the electrical cremation furnaces at the crematoria of Biel, Switzerland, and Zurich, Germany, and predicted that this type of reform would eventually replace the old-burning crematorium apparatus still used in Canada and the United States.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. F. W. Abicht of Trinity Lutheran Church, Clawson. Burial was in Crooks Cemetery.

Mrs. Melroy, who scored 210 out of a possible 240 points in the 21-week competition, received a cash prize of $5. Second prize of $3 in cash goes to George DeGraff, 945 Woodland avenue, who scored 200 points. Miss Margaret Young, Beverly road, Beverly Hills, who scored a prize of $2 in cash. Her score of 198 indicates that she failed to identify four of the proverbs, and partially failed on a fifth.
