Birmingham Men Will Turn "Newsies" For Sake Of Poor Children

Billv Has Been First Paper Buyer For Six Years; Different Story Now

For the last six years Billy Forman has been saving his pennies for a real purpose—to buy the first copy of the Goodfellows edition sold each year at this time to help buy toys and clothing for Birmingham boys and girls. Forman, a fireman, policeman, businessman, member of the lodges and veterans' groups, doctors, lawyers, mechanics and all—will turn "newsies" for exactly twelve hours next Saturday, December 14th. "That's the last day of the wise wouldn't have a very merry Christmas. Billy has had a personal interest in the annual paper sale, for his Uncle John, formerly a member of the volunteer fire department, was always one of the best of the volunteer salesmen. This year it's a different story. Last spring Uncle John Harmon his way to Pontiac to look for a job. He won't sell papers this year. But Billy has saved his pennies, and again he will be the first to buy a Goodfellow edition when the boys and girls who have little chance of getting a thrill out of the holiday unless the Goodfellows help them.

He's been saving his pennies more earnestly than ever before, because he feels that the Capital lows will need all he can give them, to help make up for the fact that Uncle John won't be here to help the sale along.

Billy's real name is Gaylor Forman, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland T. Forman of Birmingham. Headquarters for the "newies" will be the old Wilsonson Drug Store on Woodward avenue just north of Maple.

Election Friday Is Contest
Between Don Clark
(And Harrington)

Exchange club Goodfellow committee has been asked to let all Goodfellows who have sold the papers in former years, plus who will volunteer for even a few minutes work, to turn out Saturday. "We have to set a high goal, and we can reach it if all who worked so faithfully last year and former years will do their bit this year to put over the sale," he said. "The Exchange club is sponsoring the annual campaign in order to insure permanent sale; it's up to you, all the old Goodfellows, and all the new

Robert Harrington Jr., a two-year letterman who divided his time between his studies and his job at the bank, will captain the 1936 Baldwin high school football team. He will play Friday, following the election of the new members of the '35 squad at the high school.

Six boys were nominated on the list, and the voting narrowed down to a close race between the two top candidates, the stellar Maroon and White ends. On the final ballot, Harrington carried the election.

Mrs. Harry S. Stark, in charge of the dolls which will be given to the poor children of the city, said: "We need more dolls. We need around 100, but that is not enough. People who want to help the poor girls, please bring on Christmas can do so by bringing dolls, either to my home or to the Birmingham Community House the day before Christmas."

The dolls will be distributed under the direction of Mrs. Edith Wall and the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce Chairman Taylor announces.

CORRECTION

The Eccentric wishes to correct an error published last week regarding the promotion of Dorval Symone to the assistant pastor position at the White Chapel Memorial Cemetery. Last week's statement declared that "Mr. Symone has been with the White Chapel superintendent, for nearly a year, as embalmer."

White Chapel, on the staff, but not at any time performed the services as embalmer. He had been, previously so connected with the local funeral home of S. O. Wylie Bell.
