Another Public Enemy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Senate of the Republic

The "Public Enemy No. 1" of our criminal records is growing shorter-lived. The stern hand of justice, backed by an aroused indignation, makes both brief and infamous his flash across the front page. As with all transgressors, his way is hard. But there is another Public Enemy, enjoying a softer, more pampered life. It is Public Debt—national, state and local. Fed and pampered by politicians, it has expanded in girth as the rest of the country pulled in its belt.

In discussing it one must talk big money. Today, for example, the Public Debt of the United States government exceeds $29,000,000,000. Count in the gross debt of all divisions of government in the country, and the total mounts to many billions more. Among the enemies of the American people it probably ranks No. 1. Why?

Because the public debt, along with its twin—current expenses of government—constitutes a claim on the earnings and the property of every American citizen. Both must be paid. How? By whom?

The answer is simple. By taxes—neither hidden or open—clipped from the earnings of every man or woman who labors, of every family that contributes its strength, its courage and its spirit to the building and preservation of a free, productive America.

This public enemy is an insidious one. He leaves his calling card—the tax bill—with comparatively few of his victims. From the great majority of workers he pilfers unawakened—by increasing the cost of the bread they eat, of the rent bill they pay, of the insurance premium they meet, of the tools and equipment they buy, and of virtually every other necessity in normal, active American life.

For protection against the public enemy who robs us with a gun, we can turn to the police. For relief against the enemy who uses the tax levy, we must turn to the polls, and there elect public servants pledged to the same reasonable economy that the farmer, the business man, or the housewife exercise.

America needs the G-man type in public office, as well as in crime prevention.
