

LOOP LEADERS CLASH TONIGHT

Hillbillies To Meet Mulholland's; De Molays Play Sire's Market

Leaders will clash with leaders, and tail-enders with tail-enders tonight in what should prove to be one of the most interesting cards to date on the Birmingham Athletic Club basketball league schedule. The outcome of the games may have an important bearing on the championship, although they are eight weeks of play remaining in the schedule.

The prize exhibit tonight promises to be the fray between Mulholland's and the Hillbillies. The Hillbillies have been going great guns the past three weeks, even defeating the De Molays, who have a conquest over Mulholland's to their credit.

The De Molays are matched tonight against Sire's Market, which is tied with the Hillbillies for third place in the league standings. Mulholland's and De Molays, each with one defeat, are deadlocked at the top of the heap. The third contest tonight will find the two tag-teams, Birmingham Fruit and Lions Club, pitted against each other. Williams' Boot Shop draws a bye.

The Hillbillies ran their winning streak to three games last Thursday when they topped Williams' in a 33 to 21 thriller. Superior floor work gave the Hillbillies their victory, although they came near losing it.

ing it is the last half after leading at the end of the first two periods, 21 to 16. Wuerfel, right forward, for the winners, demonstrated again his ability as a point-getter by dropping five field goals and two free throws. Miles Robinson, Williams' center, was high scorer, however, with 14 points.

The Sire's Market five had everything its own way against Birmingham Fruit, running up a lead of 26 to 8 in the first half, and adding to it constantly in the last two quarters. Ken McBride, Bunyan and Jewell led the attack for Sire's. The Lions Club-DeMolay encounter was another lop-sided affair, with the Lions dropping their fifth straight game. Norton registered 17 points for the De Molays.

STORY OF SLUGGING FALSE, GIRL ADMITS

Throws Self in Snowbank, Feigns Unconsciousness, After Scolding From Parents

A story of being slugged unconscious by an unknown person who attacked her from behind was admitted to be false by Evelyn Bailey, 20 years old, of Pontiac, when she was questioned Monday morning by Bloomfield Hills police.

The girl was found lying in a snow bank beside Vaughan road, near Country Club drive, last Thursday night by Sergeant Stanley Kevern. She feigned unconsciousness, but an examination at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, revealed she was not injured, and she admitted to Kevern and Sergeant Ima Banks the next morning that she faked the story to gain sympathy from her stepfather and mother. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Button, employees on the C. W. Matheson estate in Bloomfield Hills.

According to the officer, the girl had been substituting for her mother at the estate since the previous Sunday, but had taken

Thursday off and spent most of the day in company with Edward French, 104 1/2 South Saginaw street, Pontiac. They returned to the house at about 10 P. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Button scolded the girl for drinking, the officers said. Hoping that French would follow her, and that she would win sympathy from her mother and stepfather, she dashed out of the house and threw herself on the snowbank when she saw the lights of an automobile approaching. The car happened to be a police scout car driven by Kevern.

MUSIC

By CAROLINE REILLY
Walt Whitman saw America singing. We saw Birmingham singing on Tuesday evening at the Baptist Church when the Birmingham Oratorio Society presented Haydn's fine old work, "The Creation." Frederick A. Protheroe has done a great thing for the community life by interesting so many people in the actual participation in the standard classics of musical literature. Birmingham is a better place for such interests. I mean it is a pleasant place to live in when people get together and sing. But when they sing together, in fine choral style, music of such accepted standard, this city has reason to point with pride.

We point again with pride to a new musical adventure. In the light of John Erskine's recent pertinent remarks in Detroit, it has even more significance.

It stressed the importance of music for the young, its deep psychological need and its ultimate boomerang return to the cultural life of the community. Were you to drop in at the Community House on alternate Sundays from 3 to 5 o'clock you would be inundated by a great battle and stirring action. It might be the placing of chairs and stands for a woodwind ensemble, or perhaps the tuning of strings for a trio or quartet. And if you stopped to listen you would be impressed by the earnest interest of every one in the room. No great harm done if a reed falls at the crucial moment, for another can be improvised—not so good, perhaps, but it does. A string may pop, but that, too, is within the experience of even the greatest of fiddlers. The audience understands, because it, too, has its turn at performing.

For this group, sponsored by our Thursday Musicals, is primarily a practice club. Here is offered a place where the more or less serious student may, by playing before his contemporaries, gain poise and confidence. Here he may also find such stimulus as can only come when two or more are gathered together to make music. Here, as well, one listens creatively.

Walt Whitman heard America singing. I hear Birmingham singing and playing.

CAR OVERTURNS, LOCAL YOUTHS ESCAPE INJURY

Two Birmingham youths escaped with slight bruises yesterday morning when the car in which they were riding overturned on Woodward avenue in front of the Benedict place in Bloomfield Hills. They were Robert McKee, 18 years old, of 1008 Floyd street, the driver, and Margaret Lantz, 18, of 967 Forest avenue. According to Harry Starr, acting chief of police, McKee said he and Miss Lantz were late for class at a business school in Pontiac, and were traveling at a high rate of speed when the car skidded on the ice, overturned and slid 75 to 100 feet on its side before coming to a stop.
