SCHOOL REFUNDING EYED BY SCHIMMEL
Author Of City's Proposed Program Approaches Board Of Education

Louis H. Schimmel, who drafted the City of Birmingham's proposed refunding program as a representative of the Michigan Municipal League, would like to submit a bid for his services on a similar program for the Board of Education, he told members of the Board at a special meeting Thursday night.

Mr. Schimmel told the Board he understood it had entered into no negotiations with Cutler, Moeller and Hubbel, Inc., regarding refunding, and asked the direct question as to whether it had made a definite commitment with that firm for proceeding with a program.

After considerable hesitation, Mr. Schimmel was informed that no commitment had been made which would prevent others from submitting bids for the work, but that the matter should be brought to the attention of the Board when all members were present. Ray A. Palmer, president, and Earl G. Potter, secretary, were absent last Thursday.

Referring to the fact that Mr. Schimmel has yet given no indication of what the Municipal League will charge for his services on the city's refunding program, John S. Black, trustee, said the Board would "not be interested in buying a pig in a poke."

Mr. Schimmel assured him that the circumstances were such that he would be able to quote the Board a definite estimate of expense before starting the work.

"Your situation is much different than the city's," he said. "You have no special assessment bonds and no threats of legal action from your creditors."

The city's proposed program has not yet been accepted by the bondholders, but Mr. Schimmel said he expected an agreement would be reached in the near future.

Baldwin Public Library Notes

Brief reviews of new books at the library:

"For De Lancey," by Rex Stout, introduces, in technique, what will command interest, the fascinating, eccentric figure of Nero Wolfe in a daring story of crime. By his temperament, his super-psychology and his admirable wit, Nero Wolfe distinguishes himself as a master of sleuths. From the outset of this excellent adventure Wolfe is as consistently entertaining as he is amusing. An artist and a man of leisure, he startles and entertains by his mannerisms and manipulates crime into his unalterable convenience.

"The Story of an African Chief," by Prince Nyabongo, begins 15 years before the birth of Mungu, its hero, when Stanley, in search of Livingstonia, enters the Buganda country. The events following the coming of the white man and his antagonistic religion are described and then, with the birth of Abala Stanley Mungu, named for the good White Man who "could read from a Book he always carried with him and who could make games the narrative really begins. It tells of Mungu's childhood and the efforts of his father's several hundred wives to raise him properly; his training as a hunter and his school days at the mission, which ended in expulsion; and finally, his return to the tribal village upon his father's death, to become chief of the tribe. As a chief he tries to make his subjects conform to the European teachings of the missionaries and finds it hard to do. The simple wisdom and natural ways of the tribesmen and women is contrasted with western theories in a way that raises doubts as to which civilization is "inferior." The book is recommended by the Book of the Month Club.

"The Curtain Falls," by Joseph Verner Reed, is "one of the most amusing volumes that the theater has recently yielded," according to Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times. Joseph Verner Reed, partner in the now extinct theatrical firm of Macgowan and Reed, has an interesting and forthright story to tell about the inside of the theater business. As a young man, out of college, wealthy, but sadly mal-adjusted in the super-hygienic offices of a Wall Street bank, he decided to become an active, co-operating, and supporting member of the limited cast of Macgowan and Reed. This is an honest and sane book about Broadway, about plays, players, and theater problems.

City To Get Introduction To Baseball On Donkeys

"Oops there, careful—think of your dignity!"

Seems like this will undoubtedly be repeated frequently on the streets of Birmingham on Monday evenings, July 13 and 15, when teams representing the Birmingham and the Charles Edwards Post of the American Legion introduced the city to the new method of "Donkey Baseball."

"Donkey Baseball" is a sport that has gained favor rapidly in several different parts of the country since its inception only a short time ago. The game offers limitless opportunities for comedy and hilarity, and has drawn tremendous crowds in other towns, including several in Michigan.

Without the donkeys, the Legionnaires and Boy Scout Company's teams might be fair to middle-class players, but on the backs of the ornery burros there's no telling what may happen. The game is played with all contestants except the umpire, catcher, and batter, glomping punting donkeys, none of which, as yet, have been trained to the game, seem to race at a tang whether their team wins or not.

When and if a batter hits the ball, he promptly mounts a donkey and starts the round of the bases at least he starts as soon as he can get his burro into motion. While this is going on, the umpire, also mounted on a donkey, starts in pursuit of the ball.

Base runners must transport themselves around the bases on the donkeys. Outfielders are permitted to take one step from their position to catch or receive and throw the ball. Infielders are permitted to take one step from their position to catch or receive and throw the ball, but must mount again before throwing or attempting to make a put-out.

The game would be funny enough if the donkeys could be trained to obey orders, but, being donkeys, they mean little of anything to them. It frequently happens that a batter hits a ball hard enough to make a home run, but can't get his donkey to lounge to wait first base. Just as frequently a batter, if he strikes, is in the middle of the field, and the ball, while the batter is covering around in a futile attempt to feed the ball.

The lineup for the two teams have not yet been selected, but the committee in charge promises plenty of thrills and chuckles each of the two evening's games are scheduled to be played. City Manager James W. Farley, representing the Boy Scouts, is captain, and Carl Egan of the American Legion are co-captains of the committee.

BLAZE PERILS TRUCK

Extincted at 5:45 p.m. Monday morning a fire which had broken out around the motor of a truck as it passed Maple Avenue on its way to the city hall. The truck, belonging to the R. C. WE HEARD IT SAID BY—
W. B. Harris, 101 South Woodward, "I think the City Board of Review used valuations on our property this year far out of proportion to the real value. Although our own valuations have not changed greatly since last year, the valuation of our lot on which our house stands was raised $1,100, and the lot next to it was raised $1,200. These increases in valuations, together with the higher tax rate, have exactly doubled the amount of our taxes."

Portrait of a lady cooking her DINNER!

Not staying in the kitchen today! There are so many other things one wants to do on a pleasant afternoon... and this charming lady has a capable electric servant—Dutch Oven Suetan—who will see that dinner is ready when she returns home. Dutch Oven Suetan is an Electric Cook! She cooks a complete meal for a family of six—two vegetables, a roast, potatoes and gravy—all at one time. You simply plug this handy electric appliance into any convenience outlet, and then go out for the afternoon. When you come home your dinner is waiting, perfectly cooked—peppering hot and ready for the table.

Dutch Oven Suetan will roast all kinds of meat to perfection, it will fry eggs, steaks, chops, etc. It will bake cakes, pies, cookies, biscuits and muffins, and it will hold half a dozen hot jars when coming from the old pack, hot water bath method. Yet it uses only about as much electricity per hour as an electric toaster.

Dutch Oven Suetan is available in several styles and sizes—one to fit your needs exactly. The medium size model will roast a 10-pound ham, a 6-pound chicken, or a large leg of lamb. The large size will easily accommodate a 15-pound turkey. And there is "Small Suetan" Suetan, an electric casserole with a two-quart capacity. Run Over By Car, Boy Slightly Hurt

Wheel Passes Over Head Of 18-Month-Old La. Boy, No Bones Are Broken

William Jeffery, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Jeffery, Jr., of 1744 Oak street, narrowly escaped serious injury last Thursday morning when he was run over by an automobile as it was being backed out of a neighbor's driveway.

The car was driven by Kenneth W. Kildenbrand, 37 years old, of 1742 Oak street, who told police he failed to see the boy in his rear vision mirror as he was backing out of the driveway, and noticed nothing wrong until he heard the boy's mother call out and start rushing toward the car.

One of the back wheels had apparently passed over the boy's head, according to Dr. O. O. Beck, but x-rays revealed no broken bones, the boy escaping with cuts and bruises. He was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital by Mr. Kildenbrand, and later removed to his home.

MAN, WIFE INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Polson of Southfield Township were treated for cuts and bruises at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital Saturday, after a car in which they were riding had been struck by another at the intersection of Crooks and East Long Lake roads.

The other car was driven by Jack R. Warden, 14-year-old son of Clark Warden, of Ambury road. According to Deputy Sheriff Laund Spivey, Warden was travelling east on Long Lake road and failed to stop at the intersection. His car overtook the collision, but Polson and another youth, who refused to give his name, were uninjured.
