VOWS ARE SPOKEN AT HOME NUPTIALS

Wedding Journey To Mackinac Island Followed Reception For 50 Guests

Against a background of palms and pink gladioli, Miss Greta Hoover and Roger Toothacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Toothacker of Merrill street, spoke their nuptial vows Friday evening, at a quiet ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hoover of Townsend street.

The Rev. L. Earl Jackson of the First Baptist Church read the marriage service before a small family gathering.

Miss Hoover was simply attired in a peach crepe frock, made with a tunic, high neckline and long sleeves. Her hat was a small model of white crepe, and she carried a colonial bouquet.

Miss Grace Nelson, of Royal Oak, the bride's only attendant, wore a gray crepe frock and small blue felt hat, with which she carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride.

Mrs. Hoover selected a summer print in voile for her daughter's wedding, and wore a corsage of roses. Mrs. Toothacker's gown was of black and white figured silk, with which she wore a white hat. Her flowers were also a corsage of roses.

Sanford Toothacker performed the duties of best man for his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Toothacker were hosts at the reception, which followed the wedding ceremony. Disposition of garden flowers adorned the rooms where the bride and groom received the best wishes and congratulations of the 50 guests.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Toothacker left for Mackinac Island and a motor trip through northern Michigan. On their return, they will occupy their cottage at Walnut Lake for the remainder of the summer.

Helen Bradford Becomes Bride At Rites In Alpena

A lovely midsummer wedding was solemnized Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil George Bradford in Alpena, when their daughter, Miss Helen Bradford, became the bride of Frederick Driggs Whitteley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew B. Whitteley of Bloomfield Hills.

An aisle of ribbons marked a pathway for the bride, leading from the spiral staircase to the fireplace, which was banked with ferns and tall standards of Bermuda lilies. On the mantel above the fireplace, white tapers burned in candelabra of seven branches, placed at either end, and in the center was a low bowl of lilies, against a background of greenery and sprigs of baby's breath.

Standing before the mantel, the bride couple spoke their nuptial vows, which were read by the Rev. Rollin D. Maloney, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church of Alpena.

Princess Gown
The bride wore a gown of cream satin, fashioned on princess lines, the skirt falling gracefully into the full of train. Her hat was of ivory tulle, with a coronet of Duchess lace, and she carried a bouquet of the valley.

The bride's only attendant, Mrs. George H. Whitteley, as matron of honor, was attractively gowned in coral-dotted Swiss, with cream roses as her flowers. Mr. Whitteley was best man for his brother. As dainty as summer brides were the four small girls who held the ribbons through which the bride passed on her way to the improvised altar. They were Ruth Whitteley, daughter of the bridegroom, and Mary Richards, Sally Wellington and Ann Harris of Alpena. Ruth and Mary wore pink and blue point d'esprit, and Sally and Ann wore frocks of yellow and blue organza. All carried bouquets of lilies.

Wears Blue Chiffon
Mrs. Bradford was gowned in hyacinth blue chiffon, and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of orchids. Mrs. Whitteley chose a gown of flowered chiffon in shades of blue.
