

THIEVES LOOT HOME

AND SERVICE STATION
Two breaking and enterings were reported to Birmingham police over the week-end. Sunday evening, Alex Harris reported that his home on Monnier road had been entered by someone who broke the glass out of a front window and stole a man's gray overcoat, a light gray suit, and a heavy winter overcoat. The house was completely ransacked, police said.

The Kaiser Gas Station at Fourteen Mile road and Woodward avenue was entered Friday night or Saturday morning. A rear window was broken and 15 repair tools, valued at $2.25, a quantity of tire patching equipment, a tool box, and peanut, gum and candy machines were stolen. The break-in was reported Saturday morning by Wand Tracy, 628 Bird avenue, an attendant at the station.

May Concerts To Be Given By Students Of 4 Schools

More than 1500 local grade school and junior high school students will participate this month in the annual May Festival, sponsored by the music department of the Birmingham public schools. Concerts will be held in four local school buildings within the next two weeks in observance of National Music Week.

All of the performances will be under the direction of Mrs. Edith R. Corryell, supervisor of vocal music in the Birmingham schools. Mrs. Corryell has announced that this year all of the programs will be built around folk music of many lands. Vocal choruses will be assisted by dancers from the physical education classes of Miss Jeanette Krickard. Accompanists will be Mrs. Paula Hartman and Mrs. Geraldine Forsythe.

The series of four concerts will

House is a matter for conjecture. They say it's a small world. Twenty-four dinner guests that evening were entertained by the popular radio musician, Eddie Pershey, who plays practically every instrument in the band. After he, a call went up for Dorothy Harry L. Hopkins and Rexford Tugwell, who rushed gallantly to the place in a better position. We guess that she dashed off those Spanish numbers with a bit of something extra in inspiration.

The Big Moment
All that was jolly and informal, but on the next day, Tuesday, came the big moment. The musicale in the afternoon was really a beautiful affair from every standpoint. I can't imagine a more perfect setting than the East Room. It is truly beautiful in its colonial dignity. Fragrant apple blossoms added their loveliness to the simple, white and gold of the room, and two marvelous full-length portraits of Martin and George Washington added their own calm and serene presence to the setting.

Musically, of course, it was delightful. Dorothy responded to her surroundings, with her absolute best. Mrs. Roosevelt radiated gracefulness and informal hospitality.

which has just come from the press. This is the sixth volume of the work to be issued, the first published every two years since the Golden Syndicate Publishing Company of Chicago, La. is edited by Albert Lawrence. Dr. Ericsson has written extensively on the subject of medical and historical subjects.

Children of Franklin Village, Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills have become air-minded again with the announcement of the third annual kite contest to be held on Saturday, May 18, at 2 P. M.

According to George Wellington Smith, who sponsors the contest annually, there will be no change in the rules this year. As usual, the contestants will be divided into classes, according to age. Last year there were two classes for girls and two for boys. Winners by first and second place will compete again for the grand prize, a silver cup presented each year by Mr. Smith. It is now in the possession of Bobby Wise of Birmingham, who carried off first honors with a huge box kite in last year's contest. Individual prizes will be awarded to winners in each group.

Water department employees were alarmed last Friday by reports that three small children had entered an opening to a large sewer near Canbrook and Maple roads and failed to come out again. When no parents reported their children missing, the department figured either the boys had emerged from the sewer without being seen, or had come out at another opening. To prevent further alarms, the sewer was closed up.

My New York

JAMES ASWELL
By Central Press
NEW YORK—Interview With a Trap Drummer
Q. What are your hours here?
A. Seven in the evening until four in the morning. Sometimes, when the customers aren't coming, I get away at three.
Q. You like taxi dance hall work?
A. Why not? I collect my $40 a week regular and the foot work just as steady as a drum. The hours are for the taxi dancers as for the Metropolitan Opera.
Q. I suppose you set out to become a symphony musician and are marking time until things pick up?
A. No, sirree! I set out to be the hottest, bluest trap drummer in New York, with drums that can go to town like nobody's business. Say, have you danced to any waltzes? You oughta hear these babies (indicating drums) get married!

Q. Are you married?
A. Yes. It won't pay for a taxi man to get married. The hours are too funny in a joint like this. And then I like to ask one of the girls out for a smoke late at night now and again. Making what I do, I can afford a little amusement, you see.

Q. How do you like the girls who work here?
A. Well, they don't quite stack up to the girls who tamed in a place in Cincinnati where I worked, but they will do. That little Betty, now, she's a looker.

WILL MARRY IN PROFESSION
Q. Do you intend, some day, to nick a wife from the taxi dance hall girls?
A. Why not? Say I'd hate to marry some girl and then find out that she didn't know the difference between hot and sweet on the drums. A good dancer, that's what I want, somebody who can do the new steps, a looker and a girl who can hold her liquor without showing it.
Q. Wouldn't you rather have a wife who didn't drink at all?
A. Not me! I'd grab a couple of whoopie songs, and then the wife would feel so shy she'd be preaching at me for a week. Now, if she liked a glass now and then herself, what could she say? I'd have the ground covered.

NOT FOR THE CLASSICS
Q. Do you like Brahms, Mozart, Beethoven or any of the classical composers?
A. I'll take George Gershwin with a dash of Cab Calloway any day for mine. Those other old guys went to sleep and they didn't give a heck of drumming a chance. Like a piece I can get my feet into—something you can boss a few sticks in the air over. Have you heard Duke Ellington go to town? Boy, he can turn in a set of drums. That's what I like.

Q. What about old wives? Have you made any provision—avoid anything—for the time when you won't be able to be a drummer in a taxi dance hall? I don't mean to sound preachy, but it is a question that occurs.
A. Sure. Why, I can't spend $10 every week, man! Nobody but a crazy fool could do that. I have enough left over to make my very happy for the rest of my life.
