

ALASKAN POWWOW AT STATLER HOTEL

George E. Buchanan's "On To Alaska" Plan For Boys Explained Nov. 21

The third annual Alaskan Powwow and "Potlatch" put on at the Hotel Statler by George E. Buchanan, Detroit coal dealer, who is known as the "boy's friend," takes place November 21 at 8 p. m.

Mr. Buchanan and his "On to Alaska" trip for boys and girls have gained considerable fame here and in other states. Some 10 years ago Mr. Buchanan recognized the need in boyhood generally, for a well-defined, workable but attainable, objective set far enough into the future to allow free play in the development of the virtue of thrift. Mr. Buchanan also sensed an advantage in providing an outlet for the adventurous spirits which are present in all healthy, red-blooded kids. Boys under the plan "On to Alaska with Buchanan Incorporated," earn and save their share of the money to take a priced trip to Alaska, the Land of the Midnight Sun.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—Elmer C. Huston, local hardware dealer: "For those who like the 'out-of-doors,' Michigan offers a wide variety of sport. I like to go into the north woods and hunt—there is something about the silent, open spaces, where woods and rolling hills beckon to adventure. It is regenerating to get away from the busy city—and equally nice to get back again."

Reservations for 1000 to 1100 boys between the ages of 7 and 12 are being made at the Hotel Statler, and for 300 to 500 young girls. Ella Kuhn, wife of Dr. Charles E. Kuhn of Detroit, will have charge of a similar pow-wow and potlatch. After the potlatch or dinner, the pow-wow will consist of sound moving pictures and tales of the Alaskan trip by boys who have been there. Mr. Buchanan will be chief of ceremonies at the Statler.

JUNIOR REPORTER "COVERS" PARTY

(Continued from Page 2, Part 2) Now long it would be before your cider spilled up your coat sleeve. The crowding glory was added when someone tucked an apple under your arm.

You then stumbled away, blinded by smoke, to seek the refuge of a running board; and there to eat in peace.

After everyone had finished eating, some of the crowd adjourned to the dance, held at the Community House.

The rest went to Baldwin, to impatiently await the opening of the doors, where a movie was in order for the evening.

Every man, woman, and child that entered that building alive should be crowned with a wreath of glory for the hardships he endured.

The staggering line rocked back and forth as every newcomer tried to squeeze in. After about ten minutes of this, when everyone was about ready to give up and go home, a full settled over the crowd.

But it was too good to last. Relief from the silence came in the shape of a huge firecracker that someone set off. Everyone jumped out of his skin, and the pushing began again. Now it was combined with a yell of "WE WANT IN!" In another five minutes, they got in.

It is estimated that eight-hundred people jammed the Baldwin auditorium.

Mr. Cooke, in charge of Adams school, was in charge of the program. After everyone had found seats, Mr. Cooke took the stage.

"We've got the picture 'Play Ball' and we've got the pictures of the last World's Series."

I thought the roof would collapse when he finished his statement.

The picture "Play Ball" was presented first, and while the audience was waiting for the next picture, they sang "Pack up Your Troubles" and "Home, Home on the Range."

When the recent World's Series picture began, it was impossible to hear because of the shrieking that filled the room.

Joe Louis Popular Here As a picture of Joe Louis at the game was flashed on the screen, it developed that Joe is quite as much of a hero in the eyes of Birmingham youth as the best of ball players.

It was rather interesting to notice which ball players were most popular with the audience. Hank Greenberg, Goose Goslin, and Charlie Gehringer seem to be the general favorites.

At the conclusion of this picture, a parody to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw" and "America the Beautiful" were sung.

The first of two cartoon comedies, called "The Haunted Ship," was shown. This was, of course, more entertaining to the younger children present.

Between pictures, an announcement was made:

"There has been a rumor going around that there will be no school tomorrow. This is not true. There will be school!"

A murmur of disappointment ran through the crowd.

The second comedy was then shown. It was called "Laundry Blues," and when it was over, everyone was speaking in Chinese dialect.

From the opinions I have heard expressed from all sides, I feel that I can speak for all Birmingham in giving a hearty vote of thanks to those who made Halloween night a success for the young folks of Birmingham, and a night of undamaged property and peace for the adults.

Flash! Miss Wygant is getting fan mail from an ardent admirer down south. Although she still is thinking of Harrington she is still getting mail and that requires encouragement.

Flash! Why didn't Brehm break her date with Walton last weekend so he could have a date with a certain girl who came home from school? Too bad, Tim.

Flash! Martin and Goode were home from Howe Military Academy last week. Kirk was on the Howe team and he sure got a big cheering section from Birmingham when they played Cranbrook. Nice breakfast, Steel!

Flash! Baker was out of town last Saturday and was not at church Sunday. Johanne, am shocked!

Flash! Miss Marjorie Smith is nominated the "Best Looking Girl in Baldwin" this week.

Flash! Vickie and Bill honored us with their presence last Saturday night by dropping in for a dance or two.

Flash! Something must be amiss in the D. B. S., if their members are really dropping out as reported.

Flash! At 11:00 o'clock last Monday all was silent for one minute while the Armistice was observed, by the students.

All the homeroom programs were moved up two days this week, which enabled the students to give Armistice day programs. Quite a few rooms had such things as readings, discussions or debates. The students were also honored by two speakers, Mrs. Charles E. Kinnison and Detective Earl Moody, who gave talks to the session.

Flash! This will probably be the last you will hear from me in a long while, so, I wish you a delicious Thanksgiving dinner with no remarks.
