Michigan Football Star Of Yesteryear Talks On Individuals

Sports-minded Baldwin students will be interested to hear that Tod Rockwell, noted Detroit Free Press sports writer, spoke before the local Exchange Club last Tuesday, March 31, at the Community House.

Rockwell spoke on the darker side of sport, recalling instances of ignorance, superstition, unfair dealing with capable men, and particularly emphasized his dislike, and just reason for his dislike of Maxie Barr.

He said that the actions of the club since Frank Navin's death show that the club is without a head.

SCHOOL NEWS

Baldwin Senior High

Some of the Baldwin alumni now enrolled at Michigan State are spending some of their vacation by renewing their Baldwin friendships.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Root and Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. White received letters of commendation from Registrar Ira Smith for the work Bennett Root and Elizabeth White did during their first semester at the University of Michigan.

Bill Cruickshank, a graduate of Baldwin now at Ypsilanti, gave a very interesting talk before the 11th grade homeroom yesterday on his experiences in a C. C. Camp.

Dr. Frayer, executive secretary of Cranbrook School, was the principal person on the program held during the Senior High assembly last Thursday.

Shan Rosso and Victor Peck opened the program with a couple of songs. Mrs. Fossenkemper, accompanied by Shan Rosso, closed the program with a violin solo.

Baldwin Junior High Last Thursday Rev. W. H. Aulenbach spoke before the 9E and 1A homerooms on the subject, "A Vocation."

He used his own autobiography as an example. In his speech Rev. Aulenbach stated, "When you get an idea, if it is a good one, go ahead and follow it through."

All the homerooms enjoyed the speech very much. The assembly March 25 was a "Vox Pop" program put on by the 9B homerooms.

The reporters were Martha Phelps and George Austin, the announcer was Janet Branstetter. Various members of the audience were picked out for the different interviews.

Those who were interviewed received samples of toothpaste. A ping pong tournament, sponsored by the Baldwin Junior High A. A., is being held from March 24 to April 9 to determine the Junior High champion.

This champion will play the Senior High winner. Thirty-one entries have been received for the tournament will be played. One of the most interesting and popular assemblies ever to make

Sixth grade pupils who have received 100 in Spelling all last week were: Patsy McGrath, Paul Verneer, Doris Somers, Gerald Wether, Ruth Berg, and Viola Papadakis.

The staff of "The Builders," ninth grade newspaper which was published for the first time last week, is busy preparing for next edition. It's a fine work.

Miss Maud MacMichael, 8-B homeroom teacher of Cranbrook, other members of the 8-B, and the remainder of the room which helped in the planning of the party, etc., certainly are to be congratulated upon the splendid work they did.

As the Model Airplane Club is the newest organization in Birmingham, it is the Maple Leaf, semi-monthly publication of the organization, the oldest, having operated since 1910.

The students, in a mad whirl of enthusiasm, requested a school paper. Dean Beier, a June graduate of Baldwin in '30, and former member of the staff of the Eccentric, was elected first editor.

Mr. Eddy is a great singer in his own opinion, of course. One of his best points is his complete lack of that so-called temperament that so many great stars think it necessary to possess.

Whenever we can hear Nelson Eddy or see him in a movie, or on the radio, we are sure to go to see him or to buy one of his records, we jump at the chance.

Experiences Of An Autograph Hunter

By Bill Aweall "Mr. Eddy, will you please autograph my program?" We asked in our weak voice.

"Why surely," answered Nelson, taking pen and program in his hands. Well, believe it or not, he actually autographed my program.

Sunday we went down to the rehearsal for the Ford Sunday Evening Hour. This was about a week in the making.

STUDENT CHATTER

A school book talks back: "Take a look at me, you're the one who so carefully filled in all the O's on my pages, who tore and dog-eared my page corners, who soaked my pages with water and stuck them together with gum."

"I am mute testimony for your habits and care of other people's possessions. When you go on, you leave me behind for other students to see and say, 'He's unappreciative of other people's property.'"

"Are you playing fair to yourself? To your parents? To your community? To future students who really want an education? You are hindering some boy or girl attempting to get an education."

"Do you see how you spoil me? You are throwing away your parents' taxes. You are marring property that belongs to your community. And worst of all, you are stamping yourself as a slovenly, wasteful, careless person."
