VOWS TO BE TAKEN AT CHURCH RITES

Charlotte Whalen Will Wed At Ceremony In St. James'

St. James' Episcopal church will be the scene of a simple wedding ceremony Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock, when Charlotte Whalen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Whalen of Greenwood avenue and Alexander Gow, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Gow of Troy, Mich., speak their nuptial vows. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Warner L. Forsyth, rector.

Miss Whalen will be attended by Annie Laurie McIntyre as maid of honor, and David Gafill will be best man for Mr. Gow. The young couple will spend their wedding trip in Northern Michigan, staying at the hunting lodge of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Austin at Lewiston. They will make their home in Highland Park. A small reception for members of the family will follow the ceremony in the garden of the bride's home.

In honor of Miss Whalen, Margaret Ross of Willits street was hostess Friday evening at a miscellaneous shower and bridge.

A well known hobby of the bride-elect, the collecting of quaint little fish in the form of dishes and boxes, formed the motif for the decorations and refreshments. Centering the supper table was a house by a lake, and a huge blue and white beach umbrella, under which the gifts were placed, carried out the nautical scheme.

The guests were Miss McIntyre, Mabel Cook, Wenona Singers, Norma Martin and Mrs. Claude Mosher.

Friday evening, Miss McIntyre will give a picnic supper and miscellaneous shower at her home on East Maple avenue. In addition to Miss Whalen and Mr. Gow, the guests will be Mary Palmer, Virginia Packard, Jane Shepherd, Barbara McCutcheon, Robert Crombie, Howard and Henry Whalen, brothers of the bride-elect; Robert Herrick, David Gafill, Walter Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cofran and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith.

The staff of McGregor Library in Highland Park, where Miss Whalen is children's librarian, will give a luncheon Friday in the staff rooms, honoring the bride-elect.

WHERE LANDON WAS BORN

Fashion Tips

The smartest suits on the beach this year are the hand-knitted models. They are done on wool jersey foundation and are beautifully fitted.

Taffeta bathing suits have come in again and with those of cotton print they are in high favor. These, too, are made on wool jersey foundation.

Exposure is not the fad it once was. And the majority of the suits on the beach have their accompanying wraps or a hardy beach dress which may be worn over a wet bathing suit.

For a good many years now the smart sport costume has been the thing to wear even to afternoon parties and teas before six. But recently, one notes, that formality is returning to a certain extent. Not fussy formality, however, for even though milady wears a large hat and a chiffon dress, the latter should be well cut but not fussy.

One of the loveliest dinner dresses for the summer is made of black marquisette with shirt waist collar and cuffs and wide band at the bottom of the full skirt, fashioned of white, moussoline de soie.

Another lovely evening frock is made of uncrushable Irish lace and is just the thing for a summer week-end.

News comes across the water that smart women are again using the invisible hair nets of pre-war days at the seashore and in the country.

Mrs. Lee and Mrs. C. B. Mitchell were on the committee in charge of arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Knowles of Lincoln road had as their guests on a week's cruise on their boat, "Assama," Mr. and Mrs. William S. Travis of Cleveland. Their daughters, Patty Knowles, entertained as her guest, Marjorie Hackett of Dayton, O.

STAR DUST

★★★By VIRGINIA VALE★★★

IRENE DUNN has just returned from Europe with a lot of interesting information regarding the famous Madame Curie, whom she will portray on the screen.

Most of us have thought of the famous scientist as a solemn sort of person, but Irene has discovered that she most decidedly had a lighter side. For example, she was the best dancer in her village, and loved music.

Incidentally, Irene has drawn another plum out of the motion picture pie. One of the three pictures which she is to do for Paramount is "The Count of Luxembourg." Gladys Swarthout seemed to be all set for it, but, although she is beautiful and has a lovely voice, she is not too good in pictures. Her technique seems to be better suited to opera than to the screen.

Marlene Dietrich finally got off to New York and then to Europe, with 19 trunks, she took an extra room on the train for the trunks, so that they'd be handy whenever she wanted to change, various gowns and attendants, and her daughter.

Marlene Dietrich

Interviewed on her arrival in New York, she said all the right things—that American women were the most beautiful in the world, that Garbo was her favorite actress, etc.

If you love thrills and automobile racing, be sure to see "Speed," with James Stewart and Wendy Barrie. Young Mr. Stewart is climbing fast, perhaps because he's so natural, perhaps because all of us who go to pictures seem to be getting tired of too-handsome men.

As for Wendy Barrie, she is charming. Incidentally, she's been seen around again with the young millionaire whom rumor had her all set to marry when she landed on these shores.

TENNIS MATCH TO OPEN AT PINE LAKE

Pine Lake Country Club will stage its annual invitational tennis tournament Saturday and Sunday, with the finals to be played Sunday. Mrs. Ted Fearnley, Detroit, will be referee for both the men's and women's singles.

Among the early entries in the women's singles are Virginia and Mary Louise Hills, Janet Trowbush, Cynthia Adamse, Dorothy Boman of Grosse Pointe, Nancy Strehlinger and Jean House of Detroit.

Entries for the men include, George W. Wolfe, Jr., Bradley Adams, George T. Nickerson, Gunnar George, Bob Mazzy, George R. Page, Edward Yates, Nathan Waring, Roy Gibson, John Lehner of Mt. Clemens, and Jerry House of Detroit.

Among the events of interest at the club this month is the bridge luncheon to be held Wednesday. Birmingham women on the committee are Mrs. George M. Dweller, Mrs. H. H. Kendall and Mrs. Wilfred R. Milner.

Parents Announce Betrothal

The engagement of Janice Rickley to Russell Dickson of Pontiac, son of William Dickman, also of Pontiac, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rickley of Lincoln avenue. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Rickley attended Baldwin High School.

Club Holds Dance

Ray Gerrell and his band will provide the music at the buffet-dinner dance to be held Saturday evening at Oakland Hills Country Club. Dancing will begin at 9 and continue until 1.

The club will have a buffet dinner this evening also with a limited orchestra. Thursday evening affairs are regular events during the summer season.

Betrothal Made Known

Announcements are made by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lefebvre of Oakville, Ont., and Birmingham, of the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Allan Aubrey Rowland-Legg of Galt, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Berndt of Wallace street have as their guests for this week, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Smith of Richmond, Ind.

Warren Hall is both resourceful and sensible. His young sons wanted a swimming pool, but Hall is one parent who refuses to have a pool—and what with the cost of the pool and the cost of keeping it filled, who can blame him?

So he did what fathers all over the land have done, had a tank built, seven by nine, that can be filled, easily with the garden hose, and now everybody's happy.

Joan Crawford's favorite records are no longer those made by Bing Crosby. She's switched to operatic recordings, and likes to sing along with the soloist.

And as for Bing—"Pennies from Heaven" is his next picture, and he's doing good work in it. His family is all settled in their new home, his horses are settled at his ranch, he's established as a big attraction on the radio—and how's that for a lad who'd never amount to anything, according to the prophets of not so many years ago?

Auto trailers are becoming more and more popular in the movie colony. Twentieth Century-Fox went in for them heavily a while ago — the Jones family used six to get to the location site of "See America First," and during the making of the locations scenes for "Ramona" Loretta Young, Kent Taylor and Director Henry lived in them.

Loretta Young

Somebody had the "Ramona" cast worried by arranging for some peacocks to be used in the picture —not that anyone would come right out and admit being superstitious, of course, but they all recalled the fact that peacocks are supposed to bring bad luck.

So—somebody else just "forgot" to bring the peacocks along.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Don't blame me if You miss "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford"—it's great . . . Cora Sue Collins has autographs from all the famous folk she's worked with . . . Evelyn Venable recently bought her infant daughter her first bonnet—but the baby won't wear it . . . George O'Brien is working hard on "Daniel Boone" . . . George Raft is going to try his hand at pictures in England . . . Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable did their hitch-hiking scene from "It Happened One Night" at the Actors' benefit show the other night and the audience all but rolled in the aisles . . . Maureen O'Sullivan may marry John Farrow when "Tarzan" is completed . . . The next Quintuplets picture will be "Reunion," with Jean Hersholt again playing a doctor.
