Memory of McGraw and Earlier Days Crowds Out Present

WHEN memories stick with you while you should be doing something else, there is only one solution. See you are stuck with them today.

The time when Benny Leonard, who must have weighed 100 pounds, was obtaining publicity for his vaudeville tour by letting it be known that he might soon defend his lightweight title.

There was the year when I was a very young and wise apprentice reporter in Baltimore. There I thought that all New York sports writers must be phonies.

There was the time when I first met John McGraw. A ninth-inning decision had cost the Giants a ball game while they were battling for the pennant late in the season.

The time when, after a very delightful evening with Jim Thorpe, I shook hands with him at A. M. and solemnly promised that his football career would be crowned by an opportunity to play against Bradley in the professional contest that afternoon.

Don Petrin, the light-heavyweight, wants the world to know that he now is the daddy of a nine-pound boy.

George Fremont will be awarded the crown now held by a resident of Bloomfield, and last year, well on the way to Orchard Lake. A fine gal, indeed a fine gal. Answer him, you know.

Girls with dolls that do not look like dolls will have to get you out of it if they want to be smart. Not only that, but for some reason or other, dresses and coats will have lots of animal skin on them and bright metal ornaments will be in lots of new as well as the old conventional places.

The recent drive for color in men's clothes continues into fall, and plaid shirts will walk hand in hand with new and different stripes and checks as well as various fancy fronts on men's shirts.
