BEAVERS CONQUER FLINT EAGLE TRIO

Revamped Local Poloists
Win Fast Contest Here
Sunday, 11½ to 7

Showing a decided reversal of form, the Clausen Farm Beavers polo team defeated the trio of players representing the Flint Eagles Sunday afternoon at the Clausen Farm Field on Big Beaver Road by a score of 11½ to 7.

The victory Sunday gave the local outfit an even break with Flint teams during the past two weeks. The Flint Broncos humbled the Beavers here Sunday a week ago by the score of 11 to 9. In that contest the Clausen Farm contingent could not compete with the superior riding and mallet swinging of their opponents but in last Sunday's match they revealed splendid form in winning.

It was announced that a team from Saginaw has been scheduled to meet the Beavers early in September on the home field but the exact date has not yet been set. Birmingham boy scouts were the guest of the management and they thoroughly enjoyed the fast play.

Second Payment On 10-year Plan Urged

Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald today issued a statement reminding taxpayers that they must act at once, if they wish to take advantage of the savings offered by the 10-year installment plan of paying delinquent taxes.

"September 1 is the deadline," the governor declared. "Those who paid their first installment last year and those who wish to come under the plan by making two payments at once will find it to their advantage. I am sure, to visit their county treasurer."

While the state is standing the expense of the tax-collection drive, Governor Fitzgerald declared it was acting merely as a collection agent. Ninety per cent of the delinquent taxes collected remain in the local community where they originate. They are used for support of city, township, school district, or county government.

It was Governor Fitzgerald who championed the advertising campaign for tax collection last year, which resulted in the payment of $15,000,000 in first installments of which $13,500,000 went directly for the upkeep of local governments.

A YOUNG MAN ABOUT DOWN

By Kirk Martin

The call of the road sneaked into town early this morning so Bob Goode and Hall Packard pulled out in the direction of Cleveland. The fellows think they're going to hitch-hike to there. Here's hoping some one driving a car has the same idea.

May we pause to pay tribute to a well fellow, "Buck" Melius. The courage he showed during his long illness even when hope of recovery was almost gone, is a finer and better memorial to him than anything words can ever say. Taps, then, "Buck," and wherever you are, know that the memory of your friendship will be cherished always, and that one, at least, it will serve as an inspiration to carry on, when the going is tough.

Theme song: Johnny Hays "The peanut vender."

Ye homie lassie, Nancy Brewster, returned to her home, forsooth. My Lady hath been spending all of these summer weeks in yon camp which is located near ye rippling waters of ye lake or perch. Indeed, she is browned deeply, as if a well done hamburger, and a glint that doth sparkle in her eyes doth show, perchance, a summer well enjoyed.

Alice Botsford spent last week in Plymouth, and according to reports, will spend this one in Birmingham.

Men's hats have swiped the summer staff for winter styles, so the string hat band, inverted stitches, narrow brims and high crowns, in darn near any color you'd like will be available. It is sloppy but quite in vogue not to wear garters, too. Now that school is close by, you might be interested in the new "cribbin'" shirt. It has celluloid cuffs that revolve, a pleated front with pleats that flip back and forth, revealing first the photographed side and then the plain side, and a little X-ray machine to look through desks at books or paper underneath. There isn't a feat again you can't pass when you wear the "cribbin'" shirt.

Girls stuff in the new type is called a tunic dress, with a tight bodice (whatever that is) and flaring skirt. Not the purpose of this is, according to the board of strategy, the tight top will make your waist look slim; the wide skirt bottom will, by contrast, make your legs look slim, while the flare in the skirt—something or other to your hips. All of which shows that our poor mates are suckers, with a capital S. Why buy in a circus, and some demon of a dress designer will have her looking as though she'd never had a square meal in her life!

In keeping with the rest of her person a week or so ago, Barbey Rupp has taken up the anvil chorus for a theme song. You know, the one that goes "bang, bang-bang-bang-bang, bang." Lots of bangs, get it?

Modern "Iliad," Achilles Matshews vs Hector Monohome on account of their both have dates with Helen of Yorkshire (too bad she doesn't live in Troy) township to make the thing right) and Hector doesn't appreciate it at all.

"Honey" Walton, by virtue of her new hair.

A professional looking gent with a mouldy beard and a pin-nez pinch nose, if you want it that other day and announced himself as Dr. Hermy Blatt and volunteered to give a scientific diagnosis for the darn "knock knock" nuttiness. A plain case of paranoia; an manic eruption of euphoric jazz; quoth the great Blatt. "By the way, knock knock." "Who's there?" "Oh laws, you hit him, Duzan, my lub's broken!"

To make a hit at a strictly hen affair, you don't have to be educated nor witty, nor even play a good game of bridge. Just buy a good supply of "I wouldn't pass it along, but's." "She told me, and "Would you believe it's on hand, and gal, you'll be swamped!
