PACKED HOUSE ENJOYS PLAY

Ruth Hull Does Splendid Job In Producing 'Tiger House'

If a passerby strolling near Baldwin high school Thursday night, February 20, happened to be startled out of his senses by shrill screams of terror coming from the building, to the accompaniment of gasps of fright and expressed laughter, you should assure him that murder, mayhem, and the like were not being committed in actuality but only in imagination within the building's confines.

The Junior-Senior play "Tiger House" was being enacted that night. And it was all that was required to be and more. A capacity audience chuckled, roared, and gasped its way through three thrill-packed, laughter-filled acts, and when at last the final curtain was rung down the crowd heaved great sighs of relief and expressed its hearty approval in the most emphatic terms.

The large auditorium was well-filled before 8:00 o'clock, and when, after the high school band had entertained the impatient spectators with several pieces, the lights dimmed and the curtain was raised, one and all leaned forward on their chairs.

Inspired by the enthusiasm generated in this first club, the founder began efforts to organize Rotary clubs in other cities. It was three years before the second club was organized in San Francisco, but within five years, sixteen of the largest cities in the United States had Rotary clubs.

(Concluded 2 from Page 1) Ash Wednesday was not included in the Lenten period during the fifth and sixth centuries as Lent then began on the succeeding Sunday, lasting six weeks.

Air-Wise Birmingham

Birmingham is rapidly getting sticky. No longer are its citizens content to breathe air that is full of dust and germ—no air that is too dry or too moist. Neither will they tolerate homes where there are blasts of hot air, drafts of cold air and corners where there is no circulation at all.

That's why so many Birmingham people are turning to Gar Wood. The air conditioning system that warms, humidifies, filters and ventilates—and tempers the sultry days of summer.

(Concluded 1 from Page 1) Rotary has attained, and by a sense of the important part which it is playing in the councils of the nation.

"That this great world-wide organization has been able to develop as it has, that its members have become close friends by understanding one another better, in a time when the general tendency has been just the opposite, is a testimony to the vitality of Rotary and to its efficacy as a unifying and integrating force."

International friendship is the anniversary theme for the meeting of many Rotary clubs this week, focusing attention upon the advancement of international understanding, goodwill and peace as a change in the business and professional men of the world.

The friendships developed between Rotarians at international conventions and conferences, by the visits of individuals and groups to Rotary clubs in other countries, and in many other ways, are helping to build international understanding and thus provide a foundation for discussion and settlement of previously difficult questions.
