

RUSSIA, AFRICA LECTURE TOPICS

Julien Bryan And Captain Knight At Institute Of Arts Saturday

Political and economic progress in Russia and adventures of a big game hunter in Africa make up the lecture offerings at the Institute of Arts this coming weekend.

Saturday evening at 8:30, Julien Bryan, popular lecturer on Russian affairs, will speak on "The Latest from Soviet Russia."

Following all three of these lectures, the meeting will be open to questions from the audience.

The World Adventure Series, the civic, non-profit organization that sponsors these lectures, announces that almost fifty thousand persons have attended the Sunday lectures so far this season.

He was taking the state teacher's examination and doing nicely with all questions until he came across this one:

"Give, for any one year, the total amount of money spent for education in this state."

This baffled him. He scratched his head and fumbled with pencil and paper until a brilliant idea dawned. Then he wrote:

"In the year 1492—None."

Fifty-Fifty

Spender—I asked you for a loan of $20. This is only ten.

Lender—I know it is, but that's the fairest way—my ten and I lose ten.

PICTORIAL STORY OF FRANK KNOX OF ILLINOIS

From newsboy to famous publisher—the career of Illinois' favorite son candidate for the Republican nomination for president of the United States proves the door of opportunity is open to every boy in America.

Landing Fields Close Together

Landing fields and airports in the United States mathematically average only 13 1/4 miles apart, according to figures received by the operations department of Eastern Air Lines from the Bureau of Air Commerce.

A historian announces that women used cosmetics in the middle Ages. Women still use cosmetics in the middle ages.

A Split Second Later He Was Sprawling on the Deck

Slippery Later

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE The wiper had blown, the gong had sounded. From his post by the gang plank a sailor man had repeatedly cried "All ashore that's going ashore," and turned away to other duties.

Looking toward the shore I observed a human figure approaching and gesticulating as it approached. Its occupant wasted no breath in sound, but applied himself only to the serious and obviously important business of joining our vessel before it was overtaken by the sea.

The next day I found him engaged in polishing the brass work and other shining metal trimmings on the boat deck.

Having nothing of any import to tell about himself, I asked him to pick up his story from the time of their impertinence.

"What had become of the whale farming enterprise?" "He had got any steamship migrate to listen to his scheme to have a trout pond, and a ticket for horse shooting on a great line."

"And had he pursued any further his researches into the possible usefulness of electric eels?" "All of 'em was fops but the eel idea," he said. "And that would of been all right if I'd of had sense enough to get out in time. An' you can't hang that on me ver' hard, for look at all them birds in the stock market who thought

Jest For Fun

Look On A Map First Politician—I hear that there is one state where there is no graft whatever.

Recruiting Officer—So you want to enlist, do you? Are you sure? (Candidate—Yes, sir, I belong to the fighting MacGuire's and we never miss a scrimmage. I want to enlist for the duration of the war—or longer if it keeps up that long.)

Young Senator—When anybody comes around talking about some new theory you always endorse it.

Old Senator—Yes, I'd rather endorse it than have it explained to me.

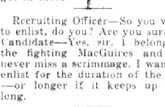

Calculating Youth "What did the small boy say when you told him he might be president some day?"

Happy in His Work "The guards—here, you band! What are you doing with that sponge?"

So It Seems "Who was George Washington?" "He was first in war and last who never told a lie."
