Local Woman Is Co- Author Of Novel, "Valiant Dust"

The literary world finds two new stars rising over the horizon of the novel. For Mrs. Helen Genung took her husband's pen to write, instead, and in collaboration with Mrs. Carl May Hayes of Lawrence, Mass., she wrote a book called "Valiant Dust" and sub- mitted it to the Pictorial Review's Novel Contest. It was rejected there, but when it was submitted to a publisher, the 20,000 word story of a Detroit Irish family living through the 80's, 90's and hectic teens, was snatched up and its two co-authors met two novels immediately contracted for. The one of Mrs. Genung's short stories, "Not Wanted," will appear in the This Week section of the Detroit News.

It was pointed out by Mrs. Genung that she has been given too much credit for writing the novel in recent weeks. Her co-author, Mrs. Carl May Hayes, "wrote" the story, every bit as much of the novel as I

In fact, there is scarcely a sen- tence in the whole manuscript that we did not write together," Mrs. Genung said.

Mrs. Genung is a typical young and pretty American housewife. She likes golf, horses, and vol- leys. She has a small 12-year-old daughter, likes to play bridge, set-back and likes to be dressed in a hearty check to emphasize it.

Mrs. Genung started writing as a reporter and through papers. It was a natural thing for her to take up writing entirely for her own pleasure. She has been married ten years after she married and she has a son and a daughter. She is a short story course at the Women's City Club in Detroit, and prior to the writing of Mrs. Hayes and her novel, Mrs. Genung had several short stories printed in national magazines.

Strangely enough, Mrs. Genung stated that it isn't so easy to write a story to take up for a short time and now that I'm doing it, I haven't time for anything else. I have to say, both to my husband and to my friends, that I'm doing it for my own pleasure. It's a natural thing for her to take up writing entirely for her own pleasure. Enjoy the CARESS of Soft Water

• If you have always used hard water, you may not even realize how good soft water feels on your body. How generously soft water yields its lather. How soft and clean it leaves your skin and hair. Nothing ever gets really clean in hard water. It reacts with soap to form a sticky, insoluble curd that no amount of rinsing removes. You can see the curd on the tub, on dishes, on clothes and linens ... feel it on your body after a bath. But, fortunately, the hardest water can be tamed. A Permutit Water Conditioning installation, attached to your household water supply pipe does the trick. The water goes in hard. It comes out softer even than rain water. And the most surprising part is that this greatest of household luxuries is not expensive. You can install it under the FHA plan and the savings will meet the payments. Learn all about conditioned water. Write for free booklet.
