Birmingham before today

By MINNIE HUNT SALTZER

There were no buildings on the south side of Brown street between Purdy and Pierce street until after 1900.

Frank Young and his wife later occupied a home, which they had built on the corner of Brown and Purdy streets. Later they sold this home to Mr. and Mrs. M. Levinson and built a new home on the west side of Pierce street, between Townsend and Brown streets. The Levincos were the parents of Aaron, David, Bessie and Hymie Levinson.

Mrs. Young was a sister of Mrs. Grace McKinney, James A. and John McKinney. The latter was an undertaker in Belle. His wife was Mrs. Mary Erwin McKinney. The Young children were Arthur, deceased; Carlisle, who is an undertaker in Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Emma Young Wright, who lives in Pontiac, with her son, Carlisle D. Wright. Her husband, the late James Wright, was a D. U. K. motorman for 30 years. Mr. and Mrs. Young lived on Pierce street until her death. Mr. Young spent the last months of his life with his daughter, Emma, in Pontiac.

The George Purdy home was on the south-east corner of Brown and Pierce streets. Brown and Purdy came to Birmingham, while living in the country, on several of their children with scarlet fever. George, Jr., Clara, John and Lester were their younger children. John died as a result of an injury received at school. Mrs. Purdy was the former Miss Belle Hanna, sister of William, David, Robert, John, Thomas, Annie, Mary and Sarah Hanna.

She passed away when Lester was quite young. Sometime later her sister, Sarah, became the second wife of Mr. George Purdy, and an affectionate mother to her sister, Belle's children. The children of Mr. George Purdy and Mrs. Sarah Hanna Purdy were Hugh, Isabelle and Maxwell. Clara and George, Jr., died before they reached majority. Isabelle passed away in her teens. Lester is the husband of Mrs. Celestine Green Purdy, daughter of the late Lyman Green and Mrs. Esther Beattie Green. The Lester Purdy live at Alma, Mich., and have four sons and two daughters.

Her mother, Mrs. Hall, was for years a valued member of the Baptist church.

'Talkies' Help Track Criminals

Newest foe of the gangster is specially built camera equipment for making talking pictures of lawbreakers. This camera, which can be operated by persons without technical training, completes identification of a criminal in about 300 feet of film. The pictures will acquaint officers with physical and vocal mannerisms of the "actors." Pictured inspecting the new equipment are, left to right, Col. H. Norman Schwarzenf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police who was not reappointed by Governor Hoffman when his term expired recently, and Capt. Russell A. Snook, and Trooper Hugh J. Boyle, both of the state police.

Local Youth Wins Bicycle Contest Held By Wilson's

"O-h, boy, is that a dandy!" said John Roy, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Roy, 233 Duane Street, when he came to Wilson's Drug Store Monday morning to claim the green "Dayton Flyer" bicycle which he won as first prize in an ink selling contest sponsored by the drug company. John received over 15,000 votes to top top rank in the contest which started six weeks ago and officially ended last Saturday. Eighteen boys and girls entered the spirited race.

The youthful winner sold 291 bottles of ink. "How did you do it?" we asked him. "Well," said John, "I averaged working about three hours daily and I canvassed house-to-house for sales." He bashfully admitted that he high-pressed his friends and relatives, explaining that while on a trip to visit his grandmother in Ohio, he carried along half a dozen bottles of ink and managed to dispose of five of them by debt of hard work. John will be in the 4-B class at Barnum this Fall. His record for the term just completed was excellent.

Angus McLay, runner-up, received 6,000 votes and an Eastman Kodak. "Boy, did I want to win that bicycle," said Angus, for a moment letting the Green Monster get a grip on him. "Oh, well," he explained, "I started late otherwise I think I'd have won. Next time I will." Angus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McLay, 715 Wintonfield Drive. He will be in the 7-B class at Adams School next term.

Watson Watts was awarded third prize—a satchel Dorothy Taylor, 724 Madison Street, was given a camera for fourth place. In addition, there were four consolation prizes. Those who received them included: Wiley Hitchcock, Mary O'Donnell, Glenn Watson and Eugene Hadjisky.

This new service provides an unlimited supply of hot water. Yet it is completely automatic. It requires no attention whatever. Whenever you need hot water, simply turn the faucet—and there is your hot water on tap.
