American Place Names
Presenting: Enough, Ma.

Blessed
Blessed are the poor. They can catch an old tire to get 2000 miles more.—Portland Express.

Spain's Chance
Given time, it is possible Spain will eventually hit on an acceptable form of government by accident.—Jacksonville Journal.

Cheer for Dieters.
A new Federal tax has been levied on fats, thereby producing another reason for being slender.—Indianapolis News.

Of Time and Change
Anita Loos says blondes are not preferred now as they used to be. She wrote that book. At least not the same blondes Rochester Times-Union.

Still Ickome
Fifty soldiers had to go to the hospital at Grand Rapids with stomach trouble. That's one thing Natchez knew about war that hasn't changed a bit.—Battle Creek Enquirer-News.

A Financial Depression
Over in Augusta there is a man, who is making payments out of his coat and on a furnace. Sold a second house to pay for a third house.—Columbus Dispatch (Mrs. Glabe).

One Very Small Unit
New York, we are told, consumes 816,000,000 gallons of water a day. But so far as our education goes, only an infinitesimal fraction of it is chasers.—Lowell Leader.

Accomplishment
Professor Warren, of Harvard Law School, received a master's youth a little. "An A. B. degree nowadays means that the holder has mastered the first two letters of the alphabet."—Detroit News.

Appropriateness
Speaking of a sense of the appropriate, the man who best qualifies as a professor thereof, in our opinion, is the Senator who read "Asop's Fables" in the members of his chamber. —Winston-Salem Journal.

Jest For Fun

Q: What is snark yarn?
A: Another name for a sea story.

Main Point
Butcher: "Round steak, ma'am."
Blonde: "I don't want it. I want one as long as my tender."

Dance
"Dance" is the sort of fellow you don't meet every day.
"Don't I know. He comes up often."

She's Safe

"I hear that Bill is really on his way up in the baseball world."
"Yeah, he's striking out in the big leagues now."

Plenty of Time
"Why don't you ask the advice of your husband?"
"Well, maybe I will after I bounce up my mind what I'll do."

"What shall I do?" I'd do the sweet young thing. "I'm engaged to a man who just can't bear children."
"Well," remarked the kindly old lady, "you mustn't expect too much of a man."

Poor Fellow
Pete: "When I arrived in Wash- ington I didn't have a single cent in my pockets. In fact, I didn't even have any pocket change."
George: "How on earth did that happen?"
Pete: "Oh, I was born here."

Excerpt from the letter of a queer-tempered man:
"My Autograph being a lady cannot transcribe what I think of you. I hope a gentleman can say it, but you being neither, will doubtless understand what I mean."

A Proposal
He: "I'm disappointed of young lady—Do you know what I like best about this machine?"
She: "No."
He: "You."

Some one was telling me that we are to have a new concrete station tax fall."
"Yes, the thing has decided to tax your heads."

First Charmer—I always feel better after a good cry.
Second Charmer—I get things out of my system."
First Charmer—No, it gets things out of my husband.

Something Wrong
Helen: "Now, Tommy, why don't you go and say with your little friends."
Tommy: "I've only got one little friend and it's his hair."

Keep His Word, Anyhow
Mrs. Foster: "Well, you married me after boasting that you wouldn't marry the best woman in the world."
Her Husband: "And I didn't. I know lots of better ones."

Armor Smith—Sure, I have come to collect for that last suit of armor.

Duke of Du-ham—Old Bodkins, know? How did you get across the moat and into my castle?

Armor Smith—'Twas easy, your honor. I caught the gate guard with his bridges down.
