The Editor, Birmingham Eccentric
Dear Sir:

I was sittin' over in Th' Oil Shug Rest'rant here a while ago and all the time I was there I kept thinkin' about Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Robb making all these speeches for President Roosevelt, and that old song gett' runnin' through my head:

THE OLD GRAY GOOSE IS DEAD
And I've thought since there must have been something a gnatkin about it because that was Primus Day.

Since then I've noticed in quite a few papers that Mr. Welsh took that suspicious occasion to fool his way out and leave the honor of being swamped in the Novem-ber election by Mr. Fitzgerald owing to Mr. Farley's Mr. Murphy or is it Mr. Farley?

It was a nice, courteous man, and Mrs. Welsh's part—and it looked like that, for a moment, as if Michigan had heard the last of its former players. But now Mr. Welsh says he is going to turn in and support Mr. Farley, or whatever his name is. So we'll have to listen to a little more sompin' on the ship-board until the Fitzgerald Flood in November.

The sun's a little tang of Autumn in the air. You can go past almost any kitchen and see your nose right and get a satisfactory sniff of some kind of picklin' goin' on. And when it gets this way I get sad—and start wonderin' whether because of that upstart whate'er his name is—Mr. GARNER.

Seems like one time we had a president for that name—a colorful figure. But I never hear about him any more since Fitzgibbon and Now began haulin' the Dem-ocrat Wag 'n. And I hate to loath talk on Solids like him. Any other time of the year I might not mind it so much. But now, with the picklin' season under way, I get downright awful about it. One of these days I'm going to write Washington and try to find out something from Frankie or 'Nony. But, on the other hand, maybe I won't. They'd probably write me back to let me for Mr. Garbly.

Whatever—that Primary Vote was convincin'.

Uncle Johnny Fitzgerald stood out like a graffe in a flock of sheep. It shows that nobody's goin' to change hearts 'white good' over Nig'ry Falls.

And it gets me to thinkin' about Uncle Johnny Whitehorse when Uncle Johnny lived up north and east of here and he was drivin' to do some tradin' one afternoon in the spring—and he drove through the Portage River and Uncle Johnny floundered there. When he got in the middle of the stream the water was so high it just lifted his wagon-box right off the runnin'-grod.

Uncle Johnny kept right on going and Uncle Johnny floundered there a mile downstream before he could land. And it took him two weeks to get home.

days to get his horses and his wagon-box back together again. The moral of this story is—ALWAYS BUILD A GOOD TIGHT WAGON-BOX.

And the primary vote indicates that this is the only thing that's there's that old tune again—"Go tell Aunt Rhodie, the Old Gray Goose is dead."

P.S.—An I suppose after the election when Mr. Farley is free again that he'll go down to the White House Softy fountain and say, "I'll take Mulla."

P.S.S.—That other old song was about Frankie and Johnny—not Frankie an' Nony.

P.S.S.S.—And with me a girl's a drat—just the same as it is a 'rk.

PLEA
You are not generous nor kind to tear. From out the depths and bow-derness of my heart.

All that I treasure best, I needs must part. With you in fresh loveliness, with all the fare, all the fair.

One perfect hour, one single gold- en day. In rathelike haste you sweep them all away.

You take my laughter and the stars I sweep. My thoughts, my loves, my dreams and every friend.

And you will give me this until life's end. Grant me this once a gift—you will not mind.

Harsh, stern King Time. Be gen- erous! Be kind! Appear my heart and staunch my aching hunger—

Let summer stay, this year, a little longer—

Beatrice McDonald.
