

Something Else
Fortune Teller—Madame, I see great happiness in store for you. In the near future you will marry a man who is young, handsome and wealthy. He will take you to foreign lands and you will visit royal courts.
Customer—Quick! Tell me how I can get rid of my present husband.

The Customer—Here you! Wake up and bring my dinner. I didn't order it for a late supper.
The waitress—Where's your manners? You're talking to a lady. I ain't your wife.
Chap—What happened to Frisby—he's all bunged up?
Pull—Tried to climb the ladder of fortune and there were a couple of broken rungs he didn't see.

A YOUNG MAN ABOUT DOWN

Hall Packard, Bob Goode, and Bob Martin are leaving Monday for the football camp at Howe School, a week of football prior to actual school opening. The Monticello contingent, including Ann Caldwell, Dot Kates, Ginnie and Betty Hart, Gimie List, and others, will be the first to start the great exodus, leaving for school Sunday. Royal and Bagby will be about the last to leave. Exeter opening on the 23rd of September.

Jenny Gay is home after a visit to Chicago, Kentucky, and points in between. Interesting sights seen were a lanky Kentuckian, a mountain dew factory, and the Mammoth Cave. Jenny brought the scourge of the middle west—the vicious gun moll that has all police gals between the Mississippi and the Atlantic seaboard shaky in the knees, and those in the west with slightly vibrating—Pat Haskley along with her. Fine stuff, this intercity relationship that is springing up late.

Overcoats and topcoats for gents won't change very much this year, excepting that they may be tailored a little more in the waist. Materials and patterns will remain about the same, and pleats in the backs plus fancy pockets will distinguish them as of yore. Waistcoats are experiencing a big decline in popularity so far, and the sporty half and full belt models are getting stronger with the buying public. All of which means not much as it's too early in the year to predict any style trends in coats, at least.

Pussy Wygant is getting all the light the local talent can glimmer up under the proverbial bushel basket and basking in the sun-lampish rays of one Arthur Fitzpatrick, who is, by the way, a fine feller and a darn good prospect in the body designing line although he's only a young-un as body designers go.

What a life! Just when Calvee is getting ready to start the year's activities the second violinist in the Pease orchestra gets a night job!

The old Spaniards took a lot of trouble to find that there fountain of youth so they could keep from growing old. The modern method of preserving eternal youth is trying to save that important half minute when drying an automobile.

Word comes by means of Phil Moses that the Babcock joint is flourishing with a vigor. Everyone thought the hideout was on one of the thousand Islands but it seems the location is a hundred or so miles north of there. It would be fun to get your mail addressed to Island 537, for example, though.

Scott Walker is chackin' rocks at the fenceposts on the farm in Ohio where the old man of the sea retires to recover from this race that kills about three times a year the Walker goes into berthing among the pigs and corn stalks and always comes back with a refreshed look and some wonderful stories he got from them country sikers.

Resume of a fall wardrobe of the top flight: brooks sweater, tweed skirt, brogue shoes, colored socks, silk socks (short), Menro tweed suit, light wool sport suit, pale coat, white tennis shoes with black saddles, low heeled shoes, string of pearls, pinkie gloves, "hat of the head" felt hat, brown and white golf shoes cardigan sweater, lipstick, little or no jewelry, wrist watch, club pin, no rouge, face slightly powdered, leather cloth coat, suede shoes, evening dress with jacket, Scotch plaid skirt. Aw phooey, wear whatever looks best on ya!

A letter from "Weenie" Cobb blew in the other day from Dallas, Tex. where dark and putty is spending the summer working the General Motors exhibit at the Texas Centennial. "What don't you send some of the Birmingham people down to see the Centennial" and "Give everyone my love" are a couple of quotes. "Am Louise. She lays claim to a southern drawl and darned if the letter doesn't sound like it! Hope to see you at Christmas, too, missy Cack, the address is Melrose Hotel, L. A., Texas for the benefit of those interested!

"What?" One arrived home from that catnip camp on Lake Tommagany (that's how it sounds, at least) looking hale and hearty with his nose upped by a sort of stringy looking nu-tache. Seems like Will Parker ought to be returning soon.

Richard del Kimbrough gotten cell back from the National Guard camp minus fifteen pounds but with enough stories to make up for that in several times. Among other things, Dick tells of the Colonel's salary, the dead guys he carried off the field, going for three days on a half canteen of water (those questioning reveal a milk-shake paradise nearby, so it might be true), and the trials and tribulations of one Dick Kimbrough.

Bob Goode, the bull-shevek of Wembleton was awarded the King of Bili-neechy crown last week after a spectacular comeback campaign against George Fremont. The two got together and although Fremont made a good showing, the Horror from Howe showed such splendid evidence of his recent training that the decision was unanimous by the three judges.

Somebody got out a pipe and started her boiling, so now the two got together and the hottest collection of chesse stick stalks that ever disgraced the face of the earth. Now is that all; the tents are coming about, and just "having a boy with a pipe in his yip."

Then there was the exhibition of strategy displayed when the two ill' gals called up the fellows to come over and see them when the other two ill' boys showed out. The only slip up was that the fellows thought it funny enough to talk about, so the two ill' boys got a hearty giggle.

Barby Tillotson should be getting back from Florida right about now, in fact, she is expected today, according to Herby Royal.

Knock knock. Who's there. Church Church Who? Stop sneezing, old man. K. K. Who's there? Ching Lung. Ching Lung who? Try it in English, I don't speak Chinese. K. K. Who's there? Swan. Swan who? I don't know.
