Sweet Peas And Snapdragons Are Background For Nuptials

Against a background of banked white snapdragons and white sweet peas in the sunroom of the bride's home on Hillside street, Margaret Elizabeth Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Ross, and Howard R. Coe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Coe of Highland Park, spoke their nuptial vows Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Rev. W. Clarence Wright, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated.

The blonde loveliness of the bride was enhanced by a wedding gown of white satin made with a redingote of Chantilly lace. The sleeves were puffed above the elbow, and the skirt of floor-length. In place of a veil, she wore a Juliet cap of the same lace, and carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses with an orchid in the center.

Bess Vaughan, the bride's only attendant, wore a crown of peach lace, with high neckline and round collar. Her hat was an off-the-face model in peach and she carried a Colonial bouquet of tallman roses with pale blue streamers. Walter Guhrrie of Ann Arbor was best man for Mr. Coe. For the ceremony, Miss Irene Hanley played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Mrs. Ross chose for her daughter's wedding an afternoon gown of green lace, with which she wore a crage of gardenias. Mrs. Coe, mother of the bridegroom, wore dark blue lace, and her flowers were also gardenias. For the wedding supper at the Community House, following the ceremony, the bride's table was centered with the bride's cake, flanked with white tapers in crystal holders, and Lennox bowls of white sweet peas. The guests were seated at long tables arranged on either side of the bride's table, on which were bowls of white smok, white snapdragons, and white tapers in crystal holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Coe left for a motor trip after which they will be at home to their friends on Bloomfield Court. Mrs. Coe chose for her traveling costume, a gold-silk swagger coat, over a black redingote worn with a print dress. Her hat was a small black model, and her accessories also black.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Adam C. Lowe of Lakewood, O., Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ross of Grosse Pointe, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Demille of Detroit, and Mrs. Lloyd Richards, both of Detroit, and Mrs. Coe of Highland Park.

WOMEN VOTERS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Local Group Attends State Board Meeting Held in Lansing

The annual election of officers will be the outstanding feature of the meeting Monday of the Birmingham League of Women Voters to be held at the Community House following luncheon at 1 p. m. Mrs. Paul L. Penderf is chairman of the nominating committee, assisted by Mrs. Angus D. McJay and Mrs. Frederick B. Smith, Jr. Mrs. Forbes S. Hascall is in charge of reservations for the luncheon.
