PARAGRAPHS

That Is
An observer declares that Mrs. Simpson will have nothing more to say. That is—publicly.—Manchester Union.

A Real Alibi
A science note says that brook trout lose 2.6 per cent of their length in death. There is a fisherman's alibi that is an alibi.—Detroit Free Press.

Why?
A Milwaukee jeweler suggests that a badge be given a person when he pays his taxes. In a way the idea has merit, but after a taxpayer paid his taxes, what would he have left to pay the badge to?—Washington Post.

Why?
A magazine success-story describes a girl who never went to school and writes Hollywood scenarios. But why expose the tricks of the trade?—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

It Is
An alligator may live 800 years, but he has no soul and death ends all," declares a writer. It's a long time to wait for a trip to nowhere. Jackson (Minn.) News.

Right
According to the way an American thinks, if he can't have any money it isn't because he's spending too much, but because he isn't making enough.—St. Louis Star-Times.

A Hard Life
A Hollywood actress's life is not so simple, after all. It seems she has to sit through every picture she makes at least three times.—Winona (Minn.) Republican-Herald.

Some Task
Jupiter, we learn, has not one moon, but ten. We are trying to visualize a choir of Kate Smiths helping the same over the mountain.—Newark (Ohio) Advocate.

Did It Work?
As a father, I'm deeply concerned over the charge that in Oklahoma City a school-teacher asked the lips of talkative children with clothes. What we want to know is: Did it work?—Baltimore Evening Sun.

Explained
"The process of thinking draws the blood from the feet to the head," an educator informs us. This explains, perhaps, why, in so many cases, if you think twice about a proposition, you get cold feet.—Atlanta Journal.

Just For Fun
Oh! England! "What a surprise! It must be nearly two years since you last called on me."
"But, my dear, consider the weather we've been having!"
"Lightfoot—I was just talking to the admiral."
"Yeah! What did he say?"
"Get out of my way!"

Courting Trouble
Lawyer—"They can't arrest you for throwing a party."
Client—"But I threw her out of a second-story window."
"Does the defendant understand what alibi is?"
"Yes! But's proving dat you was at a party-throwin' what you wasn't in order to show dat you wasn't at a crap game, what you was."

Rubber
Hubby—"The tank has returned that check."
Wife—"Isn't that splendid! What can we buy with it this time?"
Wife—"Sul! You've spent the night dividing your poker winnings with Charlie!"
Hubby—"Yes, my love, I've been splitting up with a sick friend."

Static Geography
Teacher—"Willie, where's Toronto?"
Willie—"Right between Davenport and Pittsburgh."
Teacher—"Where did you get that answer?"
Willie—"On our radio set—New York."

The Whole sky seems brighter
since I kissed you so long it's now morning."

Nothing Like Real Mutton
"Darling, I won a medal at the cookery school."
"Wonderful! But tell me, what is this I am eating?"
"Gross."
"Your diploma?"

Heavy Toll
"Mama, I've been mother reproving every time you are naughty, I get another gray hair."
"Wah! Mom, you must have been a sister when you were young, I got grandma."

American Tourist in Scotland
Say, folks, could you tell me if this is Abernethy?
Sonny—"Well, if ye gae me saxpence I'll tell ya."
Wife in Back—"Say—Drive on fear, it must be Aberdeen."

First Jump
A fire chief was inspecting a building against fire hazards. After a thorough check, he came to the manager and said: "I find this building safe except for one thing. You have no fire escapes." "Oh, don't you know," replied the manager, "this is leap year!"
