Good! It takes a mighty good book-keeper to make a deficit book for a surplus.—Tulsa (Okla.) World.

Lamentably "Cocktails do not make good daughters," observes a cleric. And the reverse is often lamentably true a well.—Punch.

All Wrong Anyway, the World Was taught that when all Americans agree about anything they are all wrong.—Lawton Sun.

Fretting Americans who once worried about not being able to buy an automobile are now fretting because they have to wait three weeks for delivery.—Newark (Ohio) Advocate.

Probably Three of four cats that inherited part of a $80,000 estate in San Francisco have disappeared. Probably afraid of being pestered by persons wishing to help them spend it.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

He Has Ohio inventor devises a bell worn on the Adam's apple to wake up dozing drivers. St. Peter has been using a harp.—Dallas Journal.

Humiliating The children of "trailer families" have become a school problem in California. It is humiliating when a third-grader begins teaching the teacher geography.—Detroit News.

Alike There is, so to speak, a greater resemblance than appears on the surface between prayer-meetings and peace conferences! The people who need them least attend.—Troy Record.

Peculiar These English-speaking countries are peculiar. The most popular American had to quit the United States and the most popular Englishman had to quit England.—Daily Oklahoman (Oklahoma City).

Where? The New York Girl who objected to finger-printing is added. She wouldn't care if they tattooed her where it wouldn't show. And where would that be?—Florida Times Union.

Must Be Ireland paid up her war debt restaurant, and at the same time celebrated her seventy-fifth anniversary of independence. Maybe her impatience in paying is due to debt and independence.—Omaha World Herald.

Jest For Fun

Error "Because of the way you spoke to her on the phone this morning, the cook has given notice."

"My gracious, I thought I was talking to you!"

Not Even Arms Lizzie—Has anything ever been discovered on Noddy?

Izzie—Not if the pictures of her are correct.

Dated "Could I have a date tonight?"

"Yes, if you could find anyone dumb enough to date with you."

"Well, I'll be around to see you about 8 o'clock then."

Steno's Delight Billers—This typewriter will revolutionize the industry!

Sellers—How?

Billers—Look at the adjustable motor, power compartment, manure set built in, and a hole-away for chewing gum.

Life's a Game of Chess "Stephen," said the parson, "the last time I sent you made me, the lapsed parson in the parish, because you were sober. But today you make me the most miserable because you are drunk."

"Yes, parson," said the impatient Stephen, "but you see today it's my turn to be happy."

Putting One Over Jones lay awake in bed as the burglar quietly filled his bag with valuables. Having exhausted the resources of the one room, the burglar moved into the next but left his gun on the bureau.

Jumping out of bed, Jones seized the gun, extracted the bullets and carefully replaced the weapon.

"There!" he exclaimed, "I guess that will teach him not to be so absent-minded the next time he comes."

Trend of the Times Overheard in a restaurant in lower Broadway in the luncheon hour:

"How's your new stenographer?"

"Phew!" exclaimed the other, clapping a hand to his brow. "I don't think she ever went to school. Why, just yesterday she addressed an envelope to Washington, D.C."

"Hang onto her," advised the other. "That girl isn't so dumb after all."

No Friend The man in the suitcase chased the train to the end of the platform, but failed to catch it. As he walked alone back, mopping his brow, an interested on-looker remarked: "Miss the train?"

"Oh, not much," was the reply. "You see, I never got to know very well."
