MUSICALE HEARS STATE CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Jolly Traces Foreign Influence On Music Of America

The story of the nymph, Egeria, whose tears for her departed lover transformed her into a fountain, as it has been told in music by the composer, Ernest Richard Kroeger, was one of the selections played by Mrs. Lucille Jolly in presenting a program on American music to members of the Birmingham Musicale last Thursday afternoon at the Community House.

Mrs. Jolly, who is educational director of the Michigan State Federation of Music Clubs, reviewed the history of music, and traced the influence of European schools upon American composers. Besides, "Egeria," Mrs. Jolly played "The White-Footed Booby" by Charles Tomlinson Griffes and two-

Vows Spoken At Evening Rites In St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit

Easter lilies in gold vases and palms backed the altar of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral in Detroit, Saturday evening, for the wedding of Helen Germaine Hammond, daughter of Norman Henry Hammond of Detroit and Robert Harold Richards of Dearborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richards, also of Detroit. White tapers in Negro chants by Blair Fairchild, Miss Valine Scott sang groups of solos by American composers. Mrs. Carl Burtle discussed current events in the music world.

Members of the Musicale will meet Thursday, Jan. 28, at the home of Mrs. D. L. Tate of West-Downing. The first meeting of the study group, Miss Dorothy York will speak on songs of the Douglahs; and Mrs. Victor I. Peck will sing a group of World War songs. A discussion of topics played "The White-Footed Booby" by the group will follow the program.

125 TABLES PLAY AT BRIDGE BENEFIT

Women Rally To Cause Of Star's Commonwealth At Annual Tea

Good weather and a good cause conspired to bring women from Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham and other points of the compass, en masse to the Community House Monday afternoon for the third annual bridge tea given for the benefit of the Star Commonwealth for boys at Alton.

Believe it or not, there were 125 tables in play, which multiplied by four amounts to 500 guests. You would have seen everybody you know there and they were all in the same rate, it was quite a responsibility for the general chairman, Mrs. Frank L. Alton, who was busy as the proverbial bear off the afternoon.

Attending her sister, an honor maid, Norma Josephine Hammond wore a gown of white chiffon with a cape extending to the floor. The bride was formed of double bands of gold and white chiffon, and carried a bouquet of roses, gardenias, orchids and valley lilies.

The flower girl, Maxine Richards, wore a quaint high-waisted white tulle gown with white tulle girdle. She wore a coronet of white freesia and yellow roses carried a bouquet of white.

A reception at the Wardell followed the ceremony. Left for New York, sailing Tuesday for a Mediterranean cruise. After the wedding, Mrs. Richards will be at home in Dearborn.

St. Margaret's Guild Reelects Officers For Year

Mrs. George D. Clark was re-elected chairman of St. Margaret's Guild of St. James' Episcopal church, Tuesday when the annual luncheon and meeting were held at the Parish House.

The entire slate was returned to office, including Mrs. Harold Middleton, vice-chairman; Mrs. D. S. Hestreiter, secretary; and Mrs. J. J. Morehouse, treasurer. Mrs. L. Ford Merritt was chairman of the nominating committee.

Assisting with the luncheon were Mrs. T. R. Stahl, Mrs. Fred C. Arnold, Florence A. Eason, Mrs. John H. Gordon, Mrs. Warren Pease, Jr., and Mrs. Hestreiter.

The Kitchen Korner

By Sally Loun

Now everybody knows that Jack Spratt could eat no fat, and few hearts are aware of the fact that Jack would eat no onions. At least, he said they were ready, excepting ahead of the star.

Mr. Spratt loved onions. She liked them in nearly every form, especially salad. So it was a blow to her when she discovered that darling Jack would have none of her beloved onions in his food.

One evening at dinner Mr. Spratt almost created a catastrophe. Mrs. Spratt had prepared a cabbage salad.

"What's this?" snarled the state Mr. Spratt, eating his salad. "Wipe—that's just—Mrs. Spratt uttered."

"It's onion," cried "DIXON" and he turned to Mrs. Spratt. "I don't have it, not in my salad. Not in my house. Before you can eat it, you must eat it with me." Mrs. Spratt said: "I don't care."

But Mr. Spratt was having one of his food tantrums, and they was no stopping him. The next morning the house was shattered. Mr. Spratt buried his face in her hair and cried and began to sob. Mrs. Spratt slipped on his forehead and began to cry. He was crying, "I don't care!"
