

Mary Louise Hills Is Extensively Entertained as a Bride-Elect of Midsummer

CALENDAR FILLED TO WEDDING DATE

Cocktail Parties, Spinster and Rehearsal Dinners To Come

With time growing shorter until her wedding date, on July 10, Mary Louise Hills, daughter of Dr. H. B. Hills of West Long Lake road, is a much-feted bride-elect. She was honored Wednesday at a luncheon and musical shower, which Yvonne Scott gave at Orchard Lake Country Club.

Miss Hills will be both bridesmaid and honor guest in Port Huron over the forthcoming week-end. As the former, she is to be a member of the wedding party of Margaret Windham, who will become the bride of Jack Bremer, June 26. Friday, Mrs. Winifred Partridge of Port Huron will give a luncheon honoring Miss Hills at her beach home.

Mrs. Gerald F. Richardson of Palmer Woods will be hostess Wednesday at a tea and canned goods shower, and July 2, Mrs. Joseph A. Hinnah and her daughter, Mrs. Ralph C. Manual will entertain jointly at a luncheon and personal shower at the Detroit Boat Club. Saturday July 3, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Klingensmith, Miss Betty Klingensmith and Charles Klingensmith will give a cocktail party for which the date will be announced later.

Frances Virginia Hills, to be her sister's maid of honor, will be hostess at the spinster dinner at her home on West Long Lake road, Thursday, July 8. The rehearsal dinner will be given Friday evening, July 9, also at the home of the bride-elect.

The wedding will be solemnized in Christ Church Cranbrook at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rev. W. Hamilton Allen officiating.

Mrs. E. W. Brehm of Hawthorne road was hostess Wednesday to eight guests at luncheon at Orchard Lake Country Club.

Ancient and Modern Theater Are Combined In Classic Performance

By Carol Dewley

In a weirdly beautiful setting, on a starkly bare stage, St. Dunstan's Guild presented Masterlinck's "Pelless and Melanide" at Cranbrook's Greek Theatre Friday night. It was modern theatre all the way through, presented with a shrewdly modern eye towards the startling effects to be gained through skillful lighting and off-stage music, a modern eye which happily didn't lose sight of the fact that the play was laid in the age of King Arthur, and was to be presented in the manner of the classic Greek tragedies.

In explanation, Kinross Friar, who directed the play, laid, "The characters and actions of Pelless and Melanide are their veils, through which may be discerned the disquiet of universal mystery. Action is rarely placed on human motives or events, but upon the unembodied forces of a supernatural world, which seems to control the destinies of humanity. Every scene, almost every speech, is suggestive, elusive, freighted with symbolic meaning. The action, simple to the verge of bareness, is a framework, through which the essential spirit of the play is apprehended. Everything seems to throw faint gleams of light into the dark pool where humanity has lost its golden crown. The march of events is but a passing show, in no distinct time or place. The characters do not bring things to pass; they are set in a maze of tragic destinies. Action is but the seeming; emotion is the only eternal reality. Deeds are but the evanescent expression of the temporary; feelings are the repository of immortal truth."

Three weird robed figures, portraying three fates and played by Mrs. Donald Height, Mrs. Linton Hart and Mrs. W. Hamilton Auland, set the somber and detached mood of the play in the opening scene. The plot, taken from the role of Melanide all the delicacy of interpretation of which she is capable. In her flowing satin robe and shining crown, she stood the one bright note in the gloom of her surroundings. It is fortunate that, with so difficult a role, she could let Melanide will and be without losing any of her fire.

Harry Hoy handled the male lead, Golaud, Melanide's tragic husband, with the true touch of a master. Playing restrained at first, he worked himself into the audience up to a gripping climax of agonized humanity ruled by emotion. His mother, Genevieve, was played by Mrs. Hart.

TAG DAY WILL AID CHILDREN'S CLINIC

Committee Of 50 Birmingham Women Headed By Mrs. C. V. Gardiner

The children's clinic at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital will benefit from the proceeds of Tag Day to be held in Birmingham Saturday under auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Clarence V. Gardiner is general chairman of arrangements, and co-chairmen with her are Miss Virginia Moore, Mrs. Arthur Gillespie, Miss Florence Lawler, and Mrs. Harvey Swift. In addition, about 50 Birmingham matrons and young girls will assist in the sale of the tags, which will continue throughout the day.

Plans for Tag Day will be discussed this afternoon at a tea Mrs. Gardiner is giving at her home on Pilgrim road for the chairman and other workers. Mrs. Perry S. Vaughan of Vaughan road is chairman of Tag Day for Bloomfield Hills. Contributions may be mailed to Mrs. Vaughan, with checks made payable to the Auxiliary.

To Study Abroad

Miss Gay

Miss Yvonne Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gay of Wilmont drive will sail from New York, Tuesday, to spend the summer studying dancing and traveling in England and on the Continent. Miss Gay will leave Birmingham Saturday to join a group of dancers in New York, under the direction of Miss Gladys Heigh, with whom she will make the trip.

While crossing, the dancers will be given a training course in the dance of from four to six hours daily on shipboard. After landing at Plymouth, the group will continue for London to study for several weeks with Marie Rambert. On completing this course, the party will travel on the continent through Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany and France. On their arrival in Paris, they will continue their studies with the noted teacher, Mme. Pelegrin. They plan also to attend the International Dance Congress in Paris, during which performances will be presented by the Ballet Russe, the Joze Ballet and the Soviet Ballet. Miss Gay will return to Birmingham in the early autumn.

Teachers are Honored At Community Luncheon

CHURCH ADORNED FOR NUPTIAL MASS

Birmingham Couple To Reside On Townsend Street After Honeymoon

Baskets of pink and white peonies and American Beauty roses were used to decorate the altar at Holy Name Catholic Church Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Helen Muriel Skuse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Skuse of Smith street, and John Henry Savage, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Savage of East Maple avenue. The Rev. James W. O'Leary celebrated the nuptial Mass at 8 o'clock.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a tailored costume of heavy white silk, with small white felt hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white roses. Miss Audrey May Skuse as her sister's only attendant, wore a similar tailored costume in yellow silk, with small hat of yellow felt and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. Charles Savage was best man for his brother.

Mrs. Skuse, mother of the bride, chose a gown of beige lace, with which she wore a white straw hat and corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Savage wore an afternoon gown of powder blue crepe, made with matching cape, and large white garden hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Savage left immediately following the ceremony at the church on their wedding journey. After their return, they will make their home at 504 Townsend avenue.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Mead of Puritans road is one of those to carry out early summer plans. Mary Ann will leave Friday for Higgins Camp. Kitty Mead will leave Monday for Ann Arbor where she will continue her studies in organic piano at the University school of music throughout the summer. Bill Mead left Monday for Edward Wilson of Bloomfield Hills for a visit at the latter's summer home at Walloon Lake.
