Delicate Pastel Tints Are Chosen For Gowns Of Bridal Party

The traditional dignity of canelabra and cythotian fern, against which were banked white peonies, gladioli and daisies, formed a stately setting for the wedding in St. James' Church Saturday evening, of Frances Elizabeth Quail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Quail of Ravine road, and William Frederick Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer M. Eaton of Detroit.

The Rev. Warner L. Forsyth, rector, read the marriage service at 8:30 o'clock. The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory satin, fashioned on slender princess lines, with a long court train adding to its stateliness. The bodice, quaintly styled, was snugly fitting into which the sleeves were set with charmingly lace. A coronet of duchess lace held in place her long tulle veil, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses, gardenias and valley lilies.

Light blue net was chosen by Mrs. Rudolph John Fabel, who was matron of honor for her sister, for her attractive gown with skirt and double cape bodice banded in rose tulle. Completing Mrs. Zale's costume was a pale sunshine in matching shades. Her flowers were a sheaf of pink roses.

The brides of the bridesmaids, who were Mrs. John L. C. Cowen and Genevieve Madex, were similar to those of Mrs. Zale, except that the color scheme was reversed, with gowns of pale pink trimmed in blue. They also carried roses, but in a deeper shade of pink.

Mr. Cowen was best man for Mr. Eaton, and seating the guests were Paul Barthol of Kalamazoo, cousin of the bridegroom, and Edmund J. Quail, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Quail wore a gown of hyacinth blue tulle, with a single orchid on her shoulder. Mrs. Eaton's gown was of coral chiffon, and she wore a corsage of orchids.

A reception at the Community House followed the ceremony. Daisies of white peonies, iris and daisies were used about the rooms.

KITCHEN KORNER

By Sally Lann

The Crowd had gone into a huddle. Mary was the first to break their spindly ranks. They must do something about a shower. The vote was tentatively for a kitchen shower, but they wanted it to be different.

"Will it be a 'kitchen shower'?" Mary will get about 47 pot holders, and a bag of silly gags and never uses in any woman's kitchen," Cynthia pointed out.

"Yes, I think we should call it something else. Of course, as Cynthia says, we don't have to insist upon a kitchen shower. But miscellaneous showers never did appeal to me. Betty, haven't you any original ideas, you're usually popping with them?" Ellen asked.

"I don't know, this might not appeal to you at all," Betty who had been scribbling on a bridge score, looked up, with a smile, "I think we should give her a wooden shower."

"Wooden?" chorused the group. "What did you have in mind, wooden legs or something?" Jean asked.

"Crutches for your brain," Betty flung back with a laugh. "Don't you know that some of the most useful and decorative things about a house can be made of wood? Start with the kitchen, for instance. One never can have too many wooden spoons. You need large ones for beating cake, middle sized ones for stirring vegetables because they don't cut and break the way metal spoons do. In mixing salad dressings or making fruit dishes, wooden spoons are just the thing because they won't corrode. Wooden spoons are—"

"She was a nice girl but the 'wooden spoon,' Jean facetiously interrupted.

"Will you give your funnybone a pill until I get through," Betty retorted. "Then there are different sizes and kinds of boards that are no end useful. A large bread board for pastry and cookies, and small cutting boards for meats and vegetables. If you try to pare vegetables on plates or pans, you're going to dull the best of knives."

"And when I was in New York," Betty babbled on, "I saw the most adorable things in wood. There was one set I was crazy about. It had a low wooden bowl for flowers, low candle holders of wood to match, and two carved wood birds. You never saw anything smarter!"

"And since I've started looking around for wooden articles, I've found just sleep of them!"

"Betty, I think you've got something there," Ellen exclaimed. "Personally, I'm in favor of a wooden shower."

"So am I. It's really different!" Cynthia was enthusiastic. "Sweet idea girls, everything goes but wooden nickles!"

"All right, Jeanie, all right. Take your bow. That was your act, I've got one more idea to shoot," Betty proved the bridge score she had been scribbling upon. "Now that we've decided to give Mary a wooden shower, I dashed off this epic, to send as an invitation:

We want it to be good. We've planned a bridal shower. So shop around and try to find a useful gift in wood."

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

FIVE small boys have just about disrupted Hollywood. They are the young stars who played on the stage in New York in "Dead End" and who now are in Hollywood playing the same roles in the picture.

They don't like Hollywood, they think acting in movies is pretty silly, and their complete lack of reverence for glamorous stars frequently makes the girls furious or tearful. One of them will go up to a famous star, and out of kindness let us call her "Miss X," and say politely, "Is it true that you get paid two thousand dollars a week?" At her nod of assent, the little tough will look at her over critically from head to foot, and say "But why?"

"This is My Affair," a Twentieth Century-Fox picture, has Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor as its stars, which is enough to cause a stampede at the box office any time, but in addition this has some gripping historical scenes. It must be thrilling enough to the old folks who can remember Tedd y Roosevelt and Admiral Dewey to see them represented on the screen, but for those to whom these two great historical figures are just a legend, it is downright throat-choking. Barbara, as usual, gives a beautifully sincere and moving performance. As for Taylor, he is his usual charming self.

If you like Navy pictures with lots of sea braving, hammering engines, wonderful marine views, and terrific drama, there is "Wings Over Honolulu" for you. It is a Universal picture with Wendy Barrie, Ray Milland, and Bill Gargan and it is so exciting that I just had to stay and see it a second time and am sure I may go back again.

Incidentally, Bill Gargan is now making a picture on the Universal lot called "Reporter Mazing" and he has been taking the thrills of the picture so seriously, that when a burglar-alarm salesman walked into his house he found Bill a willing customer. Bill had an electric eye also installed so that anyone entering the house in the dark late at night would pass it and set guns and bells to ringing an alarm.

Any week now Don Wilson may have to break down and sing a few songs on the Jack Benny radio program. When Jack had to bow out of his usual Sunday night radio appearance because of flu, Wilson subbed for him and threatened to sing. "Phil Harris, Kenny Baker and the rest implored him not to—and a few days later protests by the bushel poured in from Detroit listeners. They didn't realize it was all kidding and they resented it. They remember, you see, that Don Wilson used to sing with a vocal trio at a Detroit station and they know that he has a glorious voice."
