Blind Pianist Will Appear in Detroit Recital on April 4

Alec Templeton, brilliant young English pianist who has been blind since his childhood, and who will be in Detroit in Orchestra Hall, Detroit, at 3:30 p. m. Sunday, April 4, is keenly toward (Blind) Beethoven, Mozart and Brahms among the classics. He especially likes the modern French school as exemplified in the works of Ravel and Debussy. Bachmann is his musical idol. Of him Templeton says: "He is not only the greatest composer and pianist of the modern day, but one of the greatest musicians of all time."

The April 4 recital will take place as the result of popular demand, following Templeton's successful appearance as soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra early in February in Orchestra Hall. Templeton's next appearance in Chicago appears to be his credit and at present is fulfilling an important engagement in Radio City, New York.

Born in Cardiff, Wales, the blind genius began his spectacular career at the age of two. At four he composed his first piece. Templeton, widely known both in Europe and the United States as a composer and arranger. He has had more than 100 compositions published. As a master of improvisation, he is said to have few equals.

Psychologist Will Discuss Spiritual Phenomena Sunday

Is there really such a thing as a ghost? Do the dead speak through mediums? How do mediums tell our fortunes when they do, not know who we are? How did the corpse of a New Hampshire manufacturer come to sit up and talk to his widow?

Dr. Howard Higgins, Boston psychologist and lecturer will answer these questions when he speaks on "Can the Dead Communicate With the Living?" at the Detroit Institute of Arts on Sunday, March 22.

Dr. Higgins, who investigated psychic phenomena and also studied magic as a part of his graduate work, will present a complete, demonstrating the most spectacular "features" of leading mediums. He will make state and spirit writing, reading of ead messages, spirit forms and spirit vision, automatic writing, etc., while the medium is securely bound. Special music and screen pictures will be a part of the lecture.

Open forums will follow each lecture, with Dr. Higgins answering questions from the audience.

Fashion Tips

A dressy touch for the tailored suit is a pin or clever catch for the lapel. The pin or ornament matches a ring or bracelet and as it is transparent, it traces on the color of the suit.

Another clever fashion is that of matching flowers on a hat with a boutonniere of real flowers.

Wear a black straw sailor with white pique trimming with a gray flannel suit and a pique blouse.

In England lace suits are being shown. They are quite smart. For instance, a creasy lace over a rose silk foundation is worn with brown and black accessories.

One sees black lace evening gowns over colored foundations.

There is a new shade of heavy which combines nicely with salmon color but the latest word in dark suits is a combination of black and beige.

Skirts are definitely shorter for daytime clothes, although costumes, for evening continue to sweep the floor.
