DON'T LAUGH—

SUPERSTITIOUS BELIEFS

—By Blumey

PARAGRAPHS

Apparently
The only way to prevent hatred of the upper class is to restore everybody's chance to get in it.—St. Louis Star-Times.

Awful
A Boston experimenter prescribes a salt shaker for the morning after. The New England conscience in the grip of remorse is a harrowing sight.—Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch.

Could it?
A writer on India repeats the one about no one knowing where an elephant goes to die. Could it be Vermont?—Huron.

A Royal-Breaker
With the advent of radio, sale of talking machines has declined. Radio may be regarded as the greatest record-breaker.—Dallas News.

Try It
If you think punctuation doesn't matter, try shifting the comma in just news head: "Alice Marie, Chapman."—Sales Management.

Paras
A Wisconsin youth shot himself in the leg so he could look like a hero to his girl. The latest St. Louis types, we understand, receive pay-as.—Boston Transcript.

Certainly
"Do you know what becomes of your money?" ask an insurance company in an ad. Well, certainly. It's bound to go. Let us let you have it.—St. Louis Star Times.

Even the Jitters
The technique of sending photos from Europe by radio has been found beyond belief. Even the government's wires are transmitted. Atlanta Constitution.

Jots 'n' Jest

THAT DREAM, O boy who lost his dog, Zero, can't be convinced that he has lost nothing.

Then there was the girl who bought the International Date Line and the dog who...

University of Minnesota Student organization groups have established 50-50 fund clubs, having only women. They hope to figure out how to make men change them to 60-40 club.

That man who successfully sent a page to a friend in Australia, in an ordinary envelope, must have at least found a good, little "bygone" age.

Twenty employees of two Cleveland paint companies were hospitalized in the company's hospital, which might be considered safe but not so for pointing the local fire.

A college football crowd was the most important factor in a good football team because the boys must like to play football. In other words, they must like their work.

The University of California believes it has the best fish story yet, a story of a fish caught in a tomato. It was a foul. The angler must have used a stone bait.

"Towa Advance Wrestling as School Sports." It would seem the game is taking a hold.

That Wellsburg, W. Va., woman who boasts that she is 120 years old makes us wonder where the turning point is that makes it safe to ask a woman's age.

Most
"Yes," the teacher explained, "quite a number of plants and flowers have the word 'most' for instance, the dog rose and the dogwood are well-known. Can you name another?"

There was a young man, then a happy look illuminated the face of the girl, then the girl's eyes.

"Please, Miss," he called out, proud of his knowledge, "tell me the name of the..."
