Frank Sterns says a customer came into his place and bought five different gadgets, each guaranteed to save 25 per cent of the fuel burned in a car. . . . Frank then was forced to sell the man a special tank cap permitting overflow (says Frank) . . .

Joe Stump still is in the Sunshine State with his wife . . . and Miss Musing, golf pro at the Birmingham Golf Club, is enjoying the "fire of Billy" along the Biscaya. . . .

Bill Oldershaw says he sent out a gentle reminder to one of his jowly what delinquent customers the other day and got back this: "I have your letter and am happy to give you the following information: We have divided our creditors into three groups which include Class A—those who will be paid promptly; Class B—those who will be paid some time; and Class C—those who will never be paid. In consideration of the friendly tone of your letter, we are promoting you from Class C to Class B."

Number 38 of the General Motors "thought starter" series is particularly interesting. It tells of professional caterpillars who feed on pine needles and move through trees in a long procession, one leading and the others following. . . .

The naturalist expected that after awhile they would catch on to the jabs and move in another direction. But not so. Through sheer force of habit, the living, crawling critter kept moving around and around the rim with the same relentless pace for seven days and seven nights and doubtless would have continued longer except for exhaustion and ultimate starvation.

The moral is: Don't follow instinct and just experiences blindly. You get nowhere fast if you do.

Help, Help—Phew—Help, Help!

A little school house located at the corner of Wing Lake Road and Maple Ave. stood deserted yesterday and a flock of children romped through the day with glee. . . .

The boys and girls were met at the door of the school Wednesday morning by the Monitor who announced that classes for the day were dismissed.

We don't know whether it paid or not to ask that question about the red stripes on the floor over at the first hall. When we went over there last week one of the men told us in NO uncertain terms that the stripes were there to prevent ants from climbing the poles in the summer time.

Seen From Behind The Veil: Little "Rayme" McBride, who is carrying on a very active candid camera campaign here in town, snapping pictures of Dick Painter and Jim Peabody who were "mugging" for him out in front of the store Sunday afternoon. . . .

Though it is only a cottage made of paving blocks, it is home to a family of seven, who are supported on the salary of the P. W. A. working father, and occasional material assistance from the Community House. Two cats, one the double bed are practically all of the sleeping and sitting equipment, though one straight backed chair from all appearances looked as if it might be used for something. . . .

The welfare department of the Community House is serving with Nurse Lela Richards of the W. N. A. in an attempt to bring a little order out of the chaos which surrounds this family. Each week Miss Richards calls at the home giving medical advice, and taking clothing, bedding and food that has been left at the Community House for just such a purpose, to them.
