A local citizen burst into the office of a railroad official and demanded:
"I want you to give orders that the engineer of the express that passes through Elm Grove at 11:15 be forbidden to blow the whistle on Sunday mornings!"
The railroad official retorted: "Why that's impossible. What leads you to make such an unreasonable request?"
"Well, our preacher preaches until he hears the train whistle blow—and that confounded express was 35 minutes late last Sunday."

NON-PARTISAN STATE NEWS LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Michigan Press Association
LANSING—Commercial exploitation of Michigan's scenic resources by garrulous billboards that obstruct the tourist's view will be put under public control by Senate Bill No. 72, introduced by Senator Lammeaux, in a measure by the state legislature here.

The measure, sponsored by the Garden Clubs of Michigan, but is being vigorously opposed by powerful outdoor advertising companies whose business would be regulated and reduced in the interest of public welfare.

Being one of hundreds of bills now jamming the legislative hoppers, Senate Bill No. 72 faces the prospect of being buried and forgotten about unless Mr. John Public and the misandic do something about it. If you are one of Michigan's thousands who are irritated by billboards that exploit local sights and lake shores, request your senator and representative to keep Senate Bill No. 72 revised and alive. . . . to see that the worthwhile measure is passed prior to the tourist season.

Legislative Jam
The legislative jam at Lansing was never so apparent as last week when representatives convened daily at 2 p. m. and then adjourned a half hour later with few apparent results on the record. Speaker Schroeder proposed a steering committee to pry bills out of committee and upon the house calendar.

In the meanwhile futile efforts were made by financially harassed legislators to increase their pay. Rep. Philip Rahof of Iron Mountain sponsored a resolution for a constitutional amendment providing a 5 day pay for members of the legislature.

The resolution was tabled, following shipping by critics who insisted that the primary function of a legislator was to provide constructive legislation rather than dip into the public treasury. With this repulse, the pay increase attempt is expected to die.

A spotlight of publicity was focused upon gambling in Detroit by Rep. John F. Hamilton of that city in a measure that would penalize gambling houses with licensing fees ranging from $3,000 to $50,000, instead of the "split" being taken by politicians and others who connive with the house of ill repute.

Representative Hamilton justifies the plan with the claim that the licensing bill would raise $6,000,000 annually, to be divided between the state, the county, and the municipality.

Detroit itself were embarrassed. An old-fashioned crusade followed. Radical radicals, 250 persons . . . attempted to clamp down on the bill. . . . turned on the "heat." Newspaper headlines screamed: "Threaten Legislator in Gambling War."

Farm Co-operatives
Meeting this week at Michigan State College are leaders of the agricultural co-operative movement in Michigan who see a need for instituting special courses of instruction at the college. Michigan's 400 co-operatives are, for the most part, production and marketing associations. Consumer co-operatives are few in number.

President Roosevelt sent a commission to Sweden to investigate consumers' co-operatives. Washington reports state that this group is divided in its belief that consumers' co-operatives offer an economic panacea, and that the likelihood of a large federal subsidy is rapidly fading.

Michigan business men and retailers, who approve production and marketing co-operatives, find satisfaction in recent statements of H. Matthews, co-director of the Consumers' Research Inc., following a 10,000 mile tour of the United States, that consumer co-operatives throttle consumers' choice, do not guarantee quality and are an illusion of economic democracy.

Miscellaneous
Farm financed while a problem in the South, is no menace in Michigan, according to Dean Ernest L. Anthony of the Michigan State College agriculture department.

An apprentice of Calvin Coolidge eight years ago will take office this month as the newly appointed warden of the Jackson prison. Joel R. Moore of Hillsdale was the choice of Governor Murphy for this post, an important key to penal reform.

"Newspapers are the head educators," says Henry Ford who declared 20 years ago that written history was "the bunk."
It is pretty hard to mail a letter, asked Paul McNutt, Philippine's new high commissioner, to Governor Murphy during a conference in Detroit. The governor's response was: "I thought so until I came to Lansing!"

Yale Historian To Lecture Mar. 10 On Medical Fads Today

"The Medical Fads and Superstitions" will be discussed by Dr. Howard W. Haggard, noted medical historian of Yale University, before the Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher Theatre Wednesday morning, March 10, at 11 o'clock. In his lecture Dr. Haggard will show how the modern medical fads, quackery and superstitions are all persistent forms of old and discarded rites of primitive man to the "health appeal" of modern advertising, presenting a mode of analysis which the listener himself can apply to evaluate all medical fables.

Widely reputed in the medical profession as a distinguished scholar and scientist, Dr. Haggard has a following of patients through his national radio talks and his many books. His recent work on the platform has been brilliantly successful. After his appearance in Philadelphia last season, the Philadelphia Evening Post wrote, "We will definitely want Dr. Haggard next season for his first talk in Philadelphia. The nearly 2500 members of the Forum who heard him were so captivated by him that it would be certain no one else gets in ahead of us." He has made the same kind of a hit the country over.

Dr. Haggard's popular books include "Devils, Drugs, and Doctors," "The Anatomy of Personal Hygiene," "The Doctor in History," "Are you Intelligent?" "The Science of Health and Disease," "Dr. Haggard was educated at Phillips Exeter Academy and at Yale University. In 1917 he was physiologist for the United States Bureau of Mines and during the following year was captain in the Chemical Warfare Service. In 1918 Dr. Haggard became an instructor at Yale University. He is now associate professor of applied physiology.

"Will be there in an hour"

The telephone's great contribution to modern living is convenience. In a way that nothing else can, the telephone saves time and effort; it takes much of the drudgery out of housekeeping; it runs errands quickly and dependably; it makes social life easier, more flexible; it can forestall anxiety over a delayed arrival and arrange a last-minute change in plans.

In supplying telephone service to the people of Michigan, the constant goal of this Company is to make that service represent at all times the highest possible degree of convenience.
