

Husbands Guests at Dinner and Program Planned in Honor of 'Men's Night'

BRITISH CONSUL ADDRESSES CLUB

Sir Leslie Hughes-Hallett Lauds International Good Will

"What Detroit thinks today is what Washington will say tomorrow," said Sir Leslie Hughes-Hallett, British Consul in Detroit, when he addressed members of the Birmingham Women's Club and their guests Tuesday night, at the Comstock House.

The occasion was guest night, when members of the club might invite their husbands for dinner at the evening program. Mrs. Leland Bunyan opened the program with a few words of thanks before dinner. Following this, Mrs. Frederick A. Prothero, accompanied by Mildred Green Ritten, sang three vocal selections: "Nocturne," by Pearl G. Curran, "My Lover Is a Fisherman," by Lily Strickland and "Love Is the Wind," by Mitchell.

Teresa Way Merrill, dean of chairman of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, was next introduced, by Mrs. John S. Black, chairman of the program. Mrs. Merrill welcomed the guests with "It's a man's world tonight," and then introduced Sir Leslie, principal speaker of the evening.

Sir Leslie opened his remarks by explaining briefly, the distinction of his type of "menial" as compared to the other sort. The "menial" in foreign cities were merely coming to British cities whose residents happened to be in the particular city, and who received no remuneration for their services. As international politics grew more demanding, it became necessary to appoint special emissaries, and there was born His Britannic Majesty's "Consular Service," composed of carefully selected and trained men.

Chicago was Sir Leslie's first post, when he was a vice-consul, 25 years ago. In less than three years he was transferred to Jutland, Denmark. It was soon discovered that there were no British citizens there, so he journeyed next to Galatz, Roumania.

During the World War his post was Munich, Bavaria, and a ticklish one it was, the diplomat assured his audience, in his dry fashion. His duties there were largely political, trying to pacify the feelings of both sides for two years.

Cuba was his next stop, and he was at Santiago during the great hurricane in 1926. Sir Leslie was full of praise for General Knoch Crowder, of the United States Navy, for the way he cut red tape and made it possible for Lady Hughes-Hallett to commandeer all the assistance from American marines that she needed for her relief work. In the speaker's opinion, much of the alleviation of suffering was due to the fine spirit that prevailed between the American and English workers, and the cooperation each side displayed.

He also explained that, since coming to Detroit, Ohio has been included in the territory in which he must "aid and protect His Majesty's Subjects." There are 150,000 English-born residents of Detroit, and 37 English societies in Michigan alone. The work of a consul includes everything from appearing at the meetings of such societies to tracing down birth certificates or attending funerals. Sir Leslie closed his remarks commending the small group that prevails at the present time between America and England. He promised to devote all his tact and understanding in interpreting the attitudes of one country to the citizens of the other. His conclusion was a quotation from "Britannia," Ralph Waldo Emerson's tribute to England. He commended the poem's, "Hall, Mother of Nations! Hall, Mother of Heroes!" one of the finest ways in which the American poet could have expressed international friendship.

Poem Tells Guests How Goblins Frolic

A poem vividly depicting the activities of Halloween goblins was one of the unique favors planned to thrill the small group at the Halloween party, Saturday afternoon, given by Mrs. H. D. F. Ingram of Yorkshire road for her daughter, Marjorie.

The poem, which was written especially for the occasion by Mrs. Ingram's mother, Effie Alger Allen, who resides in Birmingham, aided in creating a real Halloween atmosphere. It follows:

On Halloween
When I hear a rustling
Under trees,
I detect that goblins hustling;
On their knees,
Gather leaves
Into sacks,
Making leaves
For their backs.

On Halloween
Mother didn't know she sinned
When she said it was the wind
In the leaves
On Halloween
But the goblins heard and knew,
So they kicked up quite a stew
In the leaves

On Halloween
Queer! the way that goblins
prance
In and out and roll and dance
In the leaves

On Halloween
Guests at the party included
Mary Katherine Smith, Alice
Schweizer, Lois Steele, Harriette
Brettmeyer, Mary Wall, Carol
Chambers, Ann Snyder, Susan
Hubbard, Patricia Mallen, Deborah
Edmonds and Joy Ann Stack.

St. Dunstan's Will Play 'Dear Brutus'

St. Dunstan's Guild will present Barrie's rollicking play "Dear Brutus" as its November show, Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 20, at Cranbrook school. Mrs. Maurice W. Cochrane will direct the production assisted by Mrs. Frederick Booth. The cast includes such able names as Dr. Campbell Harvey, Edwin M. Beresford, Mrs. Fred C. Peve, Mrs. Marjorie E. Neff, Mrs. Waldemar P. Adams, Mrs. Pat Eden, Temple Lichtleiter, Waldemar Adams, John Mulock and Mrs. Zoltan Decepesky. The juvenile role will be filled by little Carol Matherwell, a student at Kingswood school.

GIRL SCOUTS

Statting next Tuesday, November 9, and continuing weekly until the end of the month, there will be a series of training classes for Girl Scout leaders. Miss Elizabeth Olmstead, of Royal Oak, who is a Scout Director and who has had national training, will give the course locally, in the Community House, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The course is sponsored by the national Girl Scout Organization, and is open to anyone interested in the work.

The first class will be preceded by a supper, to be held in the Girl Scout room of the Community House at 6 p. m. It will be attended by members of the local Council to leaders and troop committee members. Between 40 and 50 guests are expected by the committee in charge, which is headed by Mrs. Richard K. Fowler. Others on the committee include Mrs. Clarence G. Heimiller, Mrs. Orren Andrews, Mrs. F. W. Duflos and Mrs. Charles S. Kinnison.

Members of troop 87, under the leadership of Miss Watson, will take a trip to Kingsville, Ontario, on Saturday, November 6. They will visit Jack Miner's bird sanctuary, and, if possible, a government fish hatchery.

W. C. T. U. TO HOLD ALL-DAY SESSION

Group To Convene At Baptist Church For Work

An all-day meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Wednesday, November 10, at the Baptist church parlours. Mrs. John Martin will lead the devotional service at 10 a. m., followed by Mrs. Charles J. Shain, who will address the meeting on international affairs at eleven. The rest of the morning will be occupied with a dues roll call and rally.

Following the luncheon, which will be served at noon, there will be a Scripture roll call. Mrs. Elizabeth Erwin will deliver a report on the World Convention, and Mrs. Clara Patterson Todd will report on the State Convention of the organization. Mrs. Earl Cunningham and Mrs. Esther Purdy, who are in charge of reservations for the affair, re-

American Legion

Members of the Birmingham post of the American Legion who attended the 17th district meeting at Farmington Friday were M. Ray Cook, Dr. C. P. Hamill and Gordon L. Bailey.

Ray Cook is receiving the congratulations of his fellow-members on the Legion post's bowling team, for the highest score of Thursday's meet.

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold an Armistice Day luncheon at the Legion home on Wednesday, November 10. Plans are being discussed for the formation of a junior group for the coming year. The first meeting of this group is called for Friday, November 5, by Mrs. John Gill, president of the local Auxiliary. Later in the season, Mrs. Gill will appoint a chairman whose sole duty will be the administration of the group.

Soroptimists Will Have Guest Dinner

One of the most anticipated events on the winter program of the local Soroptimist club will be held at the Community House on Thursday, November 11, at 7 p. m. At that time the group will hold one of its special guest dinners.

Dinner will be served to the group, and at 8 p. m. Harry Mack will present one of his usually clever puppet shows for the assembly, in the Ruth Chair room. The play will be a full-length version of Shakespeare's universal drama, "Romeo and Juliet."

Miss Laura Schroeder, general chairman of the Soroptimist's entertainment committee, has appointed three helpers for next Thursday's affair. They include Mrs. Frank Packard, Mrs. Gertrude Hicks and Miss Mary Wenzel. Mrs. R. K. White, of Abbingdon road, was hostess in her home Tuesday to her banquets group, for luncheon and bridge.

MRS. HUFF ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Emma Sly Huff was hostess at 108 Saturday at her home, for about 30 friends. Seated at the ten table were Mrs. Stanley Kroeger, Mrs. J. R. Weeks, Mrs. Bruce Anderson and Mrs. Hugh Hagerly, who poured. The table which was laid with a cover of vanilla lace was centered with eucalyptus and roses, in a crystal bowl. Carrying out the autumn table motif were the napery, in matching crystal holders. Instead of one solid color they were in various warm autumn tones.
