

QUARTON PTA TO HEAR HOBBY TALK

Amateur Scientists To See Loan Exhibits From Schools

An evening of two-fold interest is in store for the members of the Quarton school Parent Teachers Association, at its regular monthly meeting, to be held at the school Monday, November 1, at 8 p. m.

Mrs. William E. Essery, of Aspen Road, is in charge. Following the business meeting, the audience will hear a discussion of "Natural Science Hobbies For Parents and Children," delivered by Theodore Czerkowski, instructor in natural science at Brookside school, Cranbrook.

Mr. Czerkowski was an instructor at Merrill-Palmer Institute before coming to Brookside, doing graduate work after matriculating at Wayne University. He also supervised recreational activities at the Merrill-Palmer camp for young children. He will be remembered in Birmingham as "Caesar," the popular director of the Saturday Club for children, at its inauguration in 1935.

A feature of the program will be an exhibit of scientific hobbies, falling into the four divisions of zoology, botany, astronomy and geology. Parent and child hobbyists will bring their collections and equipment to the meeting, and explain their fields to would-be hobbyists.

The interests of amateur hobbyists will be further aided by a collection of books, pamphlets, maps and charts. Miss Adeline Cook, librarian, will be in charge of the Baldwin Public Library's loan, and will explain library facilities for science hobbyists.

The Cranbrook Institute of Science will loan a group of slides to be used with Mr. Czerkowski's talk, and will also send one of its staff to supervise its loan exhibit.

Others who will loan materials include Brookside, Baldwin and Quarton schools and LaBelle's book store.

KITCHEN KORNER

By Sally Lunn

Dear Everybody: Here are a few hints I picked up hither and yon, which you may want to jot down on your kitchen memo pads. It's little things like these that make French chefs so famous.

For instance, those of you who like ripe olives will find that their flavor will improve if you remove them from the tin and place them in a glass container. Pour in enough brine to cover and drop in a clove of garlic for additional flavoring.

Here's another! Minced onion, for salads, may first be softened in cream or oil, or made milder by rinsing in cold water and wringing dry in a cloth. And speaking of onions, you can peel the big ones without weeping if you hold them under a cold-water tap while doing so.

You should know also that melted butter which is to be served as a fish sauce, should stand until the next settles. The clear oil poured off is called clarified butter.

Here's a different dressing for fruit salad. Instead of ordinary French dressing, try cream and lemon in place of oil and vinegar, add a little powdered sugar. A delicate onion or garlic bouquet may be added to French dressing or mayonnaise if the bowl in which it is to be mixed is rubbed first with a slice of the desired vegetable.

You may be surprised to know that flavor is what determines the price of salad oils and consequently their value. No matter what the advertisements say, olive, peanut, corn, cottonseed and blends of oils are equal in food value.

Spiced prunes go well with roast veal. Heat the softened and peeled prunes in a syrup prepared as for pickled peaches.

A good way to use up tiny potatoes, and one your family will like, is to boil them in their jackets, peel when cool and brown in deep fat.

Mulled grape juice is as good as hot lemonade for warming up those who have been out in the cold. And, by the way, whether you're shivering or not, heat the diluted juice with stick cinnamon in a double boiler, strain, and drink very hot.

In cake making, warm the sugar if the shortening is hard. You may also substitute water for milk if desired, without questioning the results.

To get the better flavor when using neutral fats, additional salt is necessary. Coloring will improve the appearance of the finished product.

Smaller tins give a maximum of crust with a minimum of effort. On muffin and cup-cake centers.

A sheet of cake bakes with half the fuel and attention of a thick loaf, but the latter keeps fresh longer. Consider this when "just whisking something up for dinner" or during the rite of serious weekly baking.

Yours,
Sally.

Obituary

DR. ORVILLE LOGAN BROOKS
Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Bell Funeral Home for Dr. Orville Logan Brooks, former resident of Birmingham. Dr. Brooks died at Harper Hospital, Detroit, after an illness of five months. He and his family had recently made their home in Detroit.

Besides his widow, Neva H., Dr. Brooks is survived by three daughters, Lois, Phyllis and Jean; two brothers, Dr. Clark D., also of Detroit, and John H., of Southfield and two sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Parks, of Ypsilanti and Mrs. Mary E. Parks, of Birmingham.

A graduate of the class of 1900 at Baldwin high school, Dr. Brooks died at the Detroit College of Dentistry, from which he was graduated in 1906. He practiced dentistry in Detroit until the time of his illness.

Dr. Frank Boyd, pastor of the Southfield United Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the services, and burial will be in the Southfield Cemetery.

CORRECTION.
In last week's issue of The Eccentric, the listing of Oldershaw and Wood was included in the members of the Retail Merchants Assn. That was in error, the correct listing being, Oldershaw Motor Sales, and Glushtek & Wood, two independent automobile sales organizations. The former handle Chrysler products and the latter represent the Pontiac Motor Car Co. in this locality.

500 DEPRIVED OF '37 DEER LICENSES

Conservation Department Refuses Permits To Former Law Violators

LANSING, Oct. 28.—Thousands will get their bucks during the Michigan deer season this year, but nearly 500 others who have hunted in the past will have to leave their guns in the racks.

These are the 495 who are not eligible for deer licenses this season because they were found guilty at some time within the last three years of a major deer law violation, or were involved in the death or injury of another hunter. Any hunter who manages to obtain a license though on the prohibited list, is subject to a stiff penalty for making false statements.

The records show that several non-residents as well as veteran hunters are banned and that 10 of the 495 are on the list because of implication in hunting accidents.

The plans for the Recreation Commission's dance, by means of which it hopes to pay off its remaining debts from last summer's activities, are now complete, according to Mrs. Julia K. Lally, chairman of the dance.

The affair will be held in the Community House, Friday, October 29, from 9 until 11. Bill Kurth, a highly-recommended Detroit musician, will bring his hand out to play for the dance.

Acting as patrons for the evening will be Mayor and Mrs. John E. Martz, Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. White, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Hendrie and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Navin.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—
John E. Martz, Mayor of Birmingham: "Birmingham's two supervisors have really established themselves in the confidence of the entire County Board of Supervisors. Four of our supervisors, David Levinson, Luther Heacock, Elmer Haack, and John S. Black, have served for some time; the newest member is Robert K. McLellan, appointed a month ago when Birmingham's share of the County Board was raised from four to five. Before becoming a City, Birmingham, as a village in Bloomfield Township, had but one supervisor to represent us on the County's governing body."

Lindy Will Keep His Status Quo

America will not lose her leading aviation figure to England, it was indicated by Col. Charles Lindbergh, above, who is expected to retain his U. S. citizenship, and not become a British subject, as previously reported. The "Lone Eagle" is shown climbing from the cockpit of his plane on arrival from England, in Munich, where he attended a meeting of the Lilienthal Aviation Society.
