

Hills Women Center Interest on Horticultural Display at Community House

UNIT AIDS PLANS FOR FLOWER SHOW

Two Bloomfield Groups Will Sponsor Annual Fall Garden Exhibit

The Bloomfield Hills Unit of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, will lend its support again this year to the annual flower, fruit and vegetable show sponsored by the Bloomfield Hills and District Horticultural Society. The show will be given Sept. 11 and 12, at the Community House, and will be open to the public.

Among those of the Hills' Farm and Garden Unit taking an active part in arrangements are Mrs. W. D. Thompson, Mrs. Edith M. Forbush, Mrs. William Purves and Mrs. Louis Kahn.

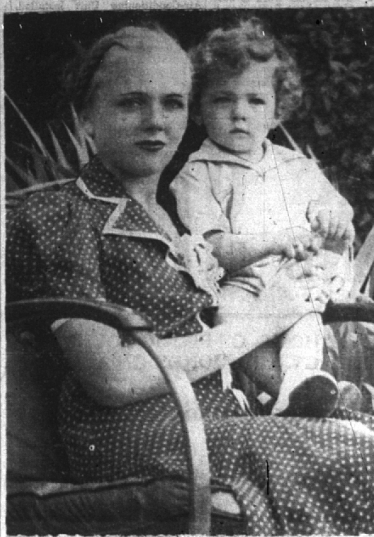

Exhibits will be classified as cut flowers in collections, vases of perennials, vases of annuals, roses grown out-of-doors, dahlias, gladioli, fruits and vegetables, artistic arrangements, and open classes.

17 Open Classes
The two latter divisions include a wide variety of classes. Only members of either organization may enter the artistic arrangements group, but non-members are eligible to enter any of the 17 open classes. These include virtually the same as the other groups, such as vases or bowls of asters, sinias, dahlias, gladioli, collections of perennials and annuals, and arrangements of fruits, vegetables and potted plants.

One class will be open to school children only, a basket of flowers arranged for effect. Any foliage desired may be used in the arrangement of the basket.

In the group for members of both societies, the classes provide for the artistic arrangement of shrubs with berries in a large vase or basket, the arrangement of flowers in small baskets, flower arrangements in the Japanese manner, and the best collection of marigolds.

Attractive Matron and Son

Mrs. Rene Paul Joubert and her small son, Robbie, of Argyle drive, enjoy their Birmingham garden. Her curly-haired son is two years, ten months old.

MANRESA WILL BE SETTING FOR FAIR

Bloomfield Matrons Take Active Part in Plans For Benefit

The grounds at Manresa in Bloomfield Hills will lose their sylvan tranquility temporarily on the evenings of Sept. 11 and 12. On those evenings, they will assume the bustling activity of a Country Fair, when such an event will be given as a benefit for Manresa, a retreat for Catholic laymen, conducted by the Jesuits.

Acting as co-chairmen of the Fair are Charles Palmer of Grosse Pointe, Mrs. Charles Fisher of Detroit, and John R. MacManus of Bloomfield Hills. Mrs. John R. MacManus is among the Hills matrons prominently identified with preparations for the fair, serving on committees for patronesses and entertainment.

In the group assisting Mrs. MacManus are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Briggs, Jr. and Mrs. Frederick Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wingham, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. MacManus, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Leland, Mr. and Mrs. James Vhay, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Blake, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Luce. Mrs. Frank Couzens and William R. Yaw are cooperating in arrangements for a booth. Another group of young matrons and girls in the Hills will assist by taking part in the Fashion Show to be given at the main events of Saturday afternoon. With the grounds as a natural setting, the matrons will promenade beneath the trees wearing new modes for the fall in dinner, evening and street costumes.

The fair will open Saturday at 2 p. m., and continue through Sunday evening. There will be supper both evenings and luncheon Saturday. There will be a good orchestra for dancing, according to the committee, and many other booths and features of interest.

Washington Coat of Arms on Way To France as Token of Good Will

By Marjorie Elaine Porter
Securely wrapped, and entrusted to international mail service, the coat-of-arms of George Washington, as executed in water colors by Mrs. H. B. Shuart of Adams road, is on its way to Paris as a token of international fellowship.

It is being sent by Mrs. Shuart to Dr. A. Bruno of Paris and Neully, as a bond in an international friendship which started early in the summer when Mr. and Mrs. Shuart were in Paris.

The story began by chance when Mr. Shuart hunted through a list of American physicians living in Paris, one day, when Mrs. Shuart became ill and was in need of medical care. By chance, he selected the name of Dr. Bruno, consulting surgeon of the American Club at Neully.

A French Mr. Vernean, following Mrs. Shuart's recovery, the American-born physician and the visitors from his native country became interested in one another. An invitation to tea at the Doctor's country home one afternoon brought the travelers face to face with a startling discovery.

On their arrival at the Doctor's estate, they were astonished to find a replica of Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington. There was the same facade, the familiar pillars on the broad piazza, even the same garden. Dr. Bruno revealed to his guests that he purchased the "Mount Vernon" erected on the grounds of the Paris Exposition, because of his love for his native land.

Although Dr. Bruno's wife is a Parisian by birth, he is endeavoring to make the atmosphere around his "Mt. Vernon" as much like Colonial America as possible. He related to Mr. and Mrs. Shuart his plans for the completion of other wings on the house, and for furnishing it throughout in the early American period.

Work Shows Skill
When Dr. Bruno expressed a desire for a copy of the Washington coat-of-arms, Mrs. Shuart recalled that she had cherished such a copy for years, and offered to reproduce it for him. Another interesting angle of the little story happens to be that one of Mrs. Shuart's hobbies is copying crests and coats-of-arms. In the past she had done the same for various families, contributing the money she received for the work, to church funds.

It was really a pleasure to do the Washington coat-of-arms, Mrs. Shuart explained, "the colors are beautiful, and the heraldic bearing particularly interesting. I hope it carries the message of international good will that Mr. Shuart, who is a staunch Rotarian, and I wish to convey."

The work done by Mrs. Shuart shows skill and artistic fidelity. Although many of the lines in the heraldic bearing are literally of hair's breadth, Mrs. Shuart reproduced them with a fine bush as

PARTIES BEGIN FOR SEPT. BRIDE-ELECT

Mary Louise Johns Is Feted By Friends Prior To Wedding In Hills

Social affairs are beginning to buzz again for Mary Louise Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Johns of Breckner, fete, formerly of Birmingham. Miss Johns will become the bride of John L. Shephard, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Shephard of Bates street, at a ceremony in Christ Church Cranbrook Saturday, Sept. 18, at 4:30 o'clock.

Barbara Spalding, one of the wedding party, will be hostess Saturday, Sept. 11, at a cocktail party after which Eleanor Swain of Sherwood Forest will entertain at dinner.

Mrs. Shephard's sister, Mrs. Lucille Fisher, Mrs. Walter Hickey, and the Misses Marjorie and Helen Shephard will be hostesses at a luncheon at Devon Gates, Monday, Sept. 13, in honor of the bride-elect. The guests will include Adelaide Ely, Alice Osterman, Betty Jane Johns, Miss Spalding, and Miss Swain.

Miss Osterman has planned a luncheon and shower for Tuesday, Sept. 14, at her home on Babbswood drive. Betty Jane Johns sister of the bride-elect, will be hostess Wednesday, Sept. 15, at the trousseau tea at the home of her parents.

The spinster dinner will be given Thursday, Sept. 16, by Miss Ely at the Walden in Detroit. Afterwards, Miss Ely will take her guests to the Cass Theatre to attend the performance of "The Women."

Mr. and Mrs. Johns will be hosts at the rehearsal dinner Friday evening, Sept. 17, at the Fox andounds Inn.

Betrothal Made Known

The engagement of Jean Ransley to John A. Williams of Detroit is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ransley of George street.

Miss Ransley is a graduate of Baldwin High School. Mr. Williams, who formerly resided in Birmingham, also attended Baldwin.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson of Merrill street, Mrs. Wilson's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C. Earl Jacques of Los Angeles, Cal., who left Wednesday following a brief visit, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and their family, will leave Friday on a trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, where they will attend the National Exhibition, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith of Dorchester road. They plan to return Tuesday.

Mrs. Farrar Home From "Pine Woods"

Mrs. Fred D. Farrar, accompanied by her daughter, Diggins, has returned to her home on Kennewood road after spending two weeks of intensive study in the east—and having a grand time doing it! The locale was Pine Woods camp, near Cape Cod, which is the summer headquarters of the English Folk Dancing Society and three enthusiasts from all over the country congregate to learn new dances and exchange ideas and experiences. Mrs. Farrar's study is a preliminary to her classes, which she will re-open early in the fall, assisted by her daughter.

An interesting note is that one of the teachers at this summer's convocation, Douglas Kennedy, of London, is an old acquaintance of Mrs. Farrar's. "I've never seen anyone who can teach as well as he," she said, "and I ought to know. When I first became interested in this work and studied at Stratford-on-Avon, Mr. Kennedy was one of my teachers."

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Seager, of Bloomfield Hills, were hosts to Mrs. Farrar and her daughter for a few days, at their summer home at Laurel Glen, Conn., and following this, accompanied their guests to the camp, where they paid a short visit.

Mrs. Frank J. McGleims of Shirley drive will be hostess at tea 30 guests Friday in honor of Mrs. Wilson Flugstad of Aspen road, who will leave next week to reside in Denver. Col. Mrs. Shelton Wright will preside at the tea table.

VOWS/SPOKEN AT EVENING NUPTIALS

Descendant Of Pioneer Family Becomes Bride At Rites In Detroit Church

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Strate of Detroit, was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when their niece, Marion Alberta King, member of the pioneer Birmingham family, became the bride of William John Sinclair, Jr. The bride was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur King, and great-granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Patchett, who settled in Bloomfield Hills 100 years ago.

The marriage service was read by the Rev. Richard E. Plummer of the North Woodward Presbyterian church in Detroit, before members of the immediate families and a few close friends. The young couple spoke their vows before the fireplace, which was banked with ferns and large bouquets of white gladioli and pink larkspur. Tall candelabra holding burning tapers, were placed on either side.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white lace, simply fashioned. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a cap of white satin bands, fastened with clusters of large bouquets of white gladioli and pink larkspur. She carried a bouquet of baby breath and madonna lilies.

The bride was attended by her sister, Esther King, as maid of honor, whose frock was fashioned of embroidered net over a light shade of ivory blue. She wore a cap similar to the bride's, of blue satin bands, and carried pink roses and white baby chrysanthemums. Margery Lethemon, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and Gordon Garlick, Nephew of the bridegroom, acted as ring bearer.

Edward Light was best man for Mr. Sinclair.

An informal reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair left on an eastern motor trip.

Lillian Heth To Wed Oct. 2, Parents Reveal

A bride of October 2, will be Lillian Heth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heth of Pleasant street, whose engagement to Don Swaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Swaney of Toledo, is announced by her parents.

Miss Heth was graduated from Baldwin High School and attended the Missionary Training Institute at Nyack, N. Y. Mr. Swaney is a graduate of the same institute. Following their marriage the couple plans to do evangelistic work in Ohio.

Mrs. Clifford West of Lincoln avenue gave a farewell tea last Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Thoma Thomas of Chicago, who has returned after spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Raymond Gage of Henrietta street.

Fashion Tips

A new shoe being shown for wear at this season of the year and which can be also worn later on in a high-cut dress of soft suede with perforations.

A new color being shown is that of ocean blue. It is a greenish blue inspired by northern waters.

August showings of fur coats reveal that they are keeping step with the fashionable silhouette. Furs are very pliable and are getting unusual treatments this season. Black leads in popularity but the browns are also in demand.

Perkins, caracals, beaver marketa, and mink are a tria and safari seal are smart. Gray furs have their following, too, and are quite good.

An expensive but popular new fur is gumbaca, a yellowish tan skin with long silky hairs which hails from South America.

Oven Canning
Is Now So Easy and Sure

Even sterilizing the jars, and rubbing the tops, and setting the heat, controlling the temperature, that's not a lot of trouble. That's why it does all the work for you. After cleaning the jars, you can put them in the water bath, and let them boil for 30 to 45 minutes, depending upon the kind of canning and recipe.

W. H. The timer does the canning. The jar tops are sealed securely by steam rising from the range.
