

Jessie Lucille Wilson to Wed at Christ Church Cranbrook

CALENDAR FILLED FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Reception At 'Longmeadow' Followed by Journey To Bermuda

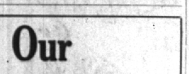

Two parties this week are added to the gay calendar of events leading up to the wedding on Oct. 2, of Jessie Lucille Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Erwin Wilson of "Longmeadow," Bloomfield Hills, and Edgar Curtis Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Matthews of East Brown street.

Mrs. R. J. Emmert of Berwyn was hostess Wednesday at luncheon at Bloomfield Hills Country Club for the bride-elect and members of the wedding party. Saturday, Mrs. Ralph Mansel of the Hibbard apartments in Detroit, and better known as the former Katherine Hinshaw of the Hills, will entertain with a bridge breakfast at her home.

Miss Jeanne Wilson, who will attend her sister as honor maid, and Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson, sisters-in-law of the bride-elect, who will be matron of honor, will be joint hostesses at the spinster dinner, Thursday evening, Sept. 30, at "Longmeadow," Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will give the rehearsal dinner Friday, Oct. 1, also at their home.

The wedding will be solemnized at Christ Church Cranbrook at 4:30 o'clock, with the Rev. W. Hamilton Aulenbach, associate rector, officiating. A reception at "Longmeadow," the home of the bride's parents, the couple will leave on a wedding journey to Bermuda. On their return, they will make their home in Toledo.

CHAIRMAN NAMES BALL COMMITTEE
Hills Group Seeks Donations For Junior League's Venetian Fete

If of one of a certain group of attractive young women descends upon you suddenly and asks for contributions to the "Postoffice," don't think the government is running low on funds and that you are being asked to help erect the proposed postoffice for Birmingham.

No indeed. Instead, you may wager pretty safely that the solicitor is a member of Romayne Thompson's committee seeking donations for the postoffice at the Junior League Venetian ball to be given Oct. 8 at the Book-Cadillac Hotel.

The postoffice will be one of the novel features of the affair. The guest merely presents his ticket, gives his name and asks for mail, in return he receives a gift. No telling what he will receive, and that's what makes it so exciting.

Miss Thompson has asked to assist her on this committee a group including Mrs. John Blanchard, Mrs. W. D. Hoover, Miss Barbara Traub, Mrs. West Galligly, Mrs. Waldemar P. Adams, Mrs. Paul B. Hoffman, Mrs. Thomas Nalle, and Mrs. Vernon B. Myers.

Tea on both afternoons, will add to the hospitality of the Market in the church school building. Mrs. D. S. Hasterfer is chairman of the tea committee. E. Bullock has the important role of ticket chairman and Mrs. R. E. Kearns, Jr., is filling the equally important part of publicity director assisted by Mrs. W. A. P. John.

All the groups got together Friday for a complete campaign plan at the Parish House. That is all but Mrs. Sitta's committee, which met at her home on Oak street.

When everyone pips off to the halls of learning, and leaves Becham as lonesome as can be, he has no consolation in that you have so many more friends on whom to descend for the week-end and dance, but entertainment. And oh boyboy, is there a lot doing! Actual studies are in progress at Michigan State, which lured us up last week-end, but all the Birmingham kids are hopping like fleas on blue plates, making the most of the last days of freedom.

Whether you have a great-grandchild or a great-grandmother attending college—you will want to know Sophie More, the College Correspondent. She travels from campus to campus and reports—and oh how she reports—in a breezy, newsy, rosy letter, of which this is the first in a series. We have an exclusive line on C. C., and will get the goods before all competitors on a coast-to-coast hook up. But—All hot tips on Birmingham collegians on any campus, will be joyfully received. Just call The Eccentric and Sophie More, the College Correspondent.

Four fresh who seemed to be attracting a lot of attention at the rush teas were Virginia (Deedle) Farrar, Noel Dweilley, Marjorie Baldwin and Jane Hart. We saw them up at the Alpha Phi house first, where they all looked very fresh in their black and white. The first three were in black, and Noel and Marge were both sporting the trickiest little veils. Deedle's chapeau was black too, a mouflou felt beret and smarter than anything Janet was wearing the most delicate suit, ecoco brown, with a lighter stripe and a hued collar of what looked like racyon from the glimpse we had.

Eleanor Bishop, who is rushing chairman again this year, was much in evidence at the Alpha Phi tea too. All the sorority gals wear long dresses, and Blah and her roommate, Jane Lyons, from Cleveland, whom most of you know, looked like twins in their

Birmingham Women Attend Club Bridge

Among the Birmingham women and their guests attending the bridge luncheon given by the Birmingham Golf Club Friday, were several informal groups. Lunching together were Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell of Glenhurst drive, a recent arrival in Birmingham, and Mrs. William A. Kent with her house guest in another party, Mrs. J. B. Harris and Mrs. G. C. Witham had as their guests, Mrs. Arthur L. Genung and Mrs. H. S. Burlingame. Mrs. George R. Norton of Riverchase avenue entertained her mother, Mrs. Robert Loehr, Mrs. J. W. Taylor and Mrs. J. H. Taylor, at luncheon. Also at their table and playing bridge with them afterwards, were Mrs. Karl G. Miller, Mrs. E. L. Conroy and Mrs. Orville H. Foster Jr. At another table were seated Mrs. Maurice Miller, Mrs. Walter Cory and their guests.

College Knowledge

By SOPHIE MORE
Full skirted black gowns and short little jackets. Bish's was black velvet, with white dots, and June's gleamed with black sequins. Betty Spinning whose activities in Tower Guard, freshman woman's honorary, are keeping her spinning, indeed, was there too. She looked her usual smooth self, in a royal blue crepe number. And Maize Kidder, who returned from her job in Hudson's long enough for the week-end, was also in blue—mousseline de soie, to be accurate. Carol Dweilley came up too, and wore a black and white crepe job with a red sash.

Betty Sears is treasurer for Chi Omega this year, just as if she didn't have enough else to do. The Chi O's didn't give their tea till Sunday, so we didn't have time to see her. We did hear that sister Barbara Sears, also a Chi O, was at last found a berth in the house, much to everyone's delight. Barb's Tower Guard too, and is vice-president of her class, sophomore, so she hasn't much spare time either.

Wotta Jam!
They say that Lucille Hallett is widely missed over at the Alpha Chi Omega house, though she's having a smooth time in Tucson, no doubt. Celia Merrill is there however, and busier than ever. She's a very talented violinist, you know, and a Thespian of no mean renown.

Slav Jane Pope for just a snatch, over at lovely East May, where she has a very nice job, and reports that everything is under control. Jane's an artist, in case you didn't know. And now someone says that Fayne Smith and Sara Deoman are freshmen this year and that they were at the teas too, and a credit to the old town. All of which goes to prove that it really was a jam. Oh yes, two more former State gals bressed in for a few hours in Saturday. They're both Alpha Phi and their names are Betty Peabody, commonly known as Peter, and Harriet Brelsford. Both of 'em are working in Detroit now. Peter at Sigel's and Harriet at her old job, whatever it was, and where it is. Anyway, she loves it.

We're going to try ambling up to Michigan very soon, and will be sure to tell all about everyone we can dig up. 'Til then, have fun. Sophie More.

Barbara P. Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Horton of 1414 Virginia road left Sunday for the University of Michigan, where she will complete her senior year.
