SHAKESPEARE IS EASY WAY OUT TO ANSWER STICKERS

tough question to answer in any man's office, but it just happened that the one who drew it was an ardent fan—he had the information right at hand, and delivered the verdict with a speed which must have left the caller aghast. After a moment's silence a weak "Well—thanks," came back over the wire, and another notch was carved in the notch-reserved-for-such-things. Baseball addicts seem to practice a fiendish ingenuity in asking their questions. Someone else once called when only one person was around—a woman at that. She was petrified to be asked: "Can you tell me when Ty Cobb's birthday is? I want to settle an argument." He settled the hash of the poor gal as well, for she was forced to tell him that she hadn't the faintest idea, and it ruined her whole evening.

One of the funniest requests that ever came in was from a literary female whose identity to this day is shrouded in the dark mysteries of time and space. She had a voice like a machine gun though, and her question was: "Would you say 'a flock of girls' or 'a bevy of young ladies?' I'm trying to write something and I want to make sure it's correct. You write more than I do, so let's see what you can do with this one." She saw. Whatever the outcome was we were never to know it, but if she, or anyone else has any other sticker, they're welcome to stick us with it. As one low heckler once put it, "Information is cheerfully given—but that doesn't mean it's right." Anyway, we at least do our best.

Pair's Dazzling Golf Shots At Lions Club Picnic Bring Fame, Lasting Recognition

By E. G. Whitney

According to unreliable information, D. A. Green and Mrs. Emmerson (Dorothy) Brown have agreed to appear in several exhibition golf matches with Jimmy Thompson and Ralph Guldahl, a couple of fellows who play a fair game. Late press releases ascribed the local pair's sensational rise to fame to their magnificent demonstration of distance driving and putting at the Lions Club picnic, held at Springdale Park yesterday afternoon and evening.

Both Green and Mrs. Brown astounded their closest friends when they hit the little white pellet far in the distance to win the driving Contest Green, after half a dozen swipes at the pill, which he claimed were only practice swings, finally connected for a terrific drive of 205 feet down the fairway. This mark is something of a record being within about 250 yards of Thompson's best belt.

After several unsuccessful attempts to tee off (she mistook the park rake for the driver) Mrs. Brown propelled the ball 85 yards in a long graceful curve that landed the pellet in the woods.

Other club members and their wives also gave miserable showings in the kickers' handicap and in the pitch and putting contest. Bill Spence and Peg Wingerden topped the field in the handicap events and finally won the cheap prizes after considerable wrangling while Green popped up once more to cop the pitch and putting affair for men. Mrs. Carol Fleming, after several questionable moves with her feet, captured the same event for women.

Claude Morrow and Eleanor Bearss were credited with first places in the shuffleboard contest after they walked off with the prizes although several posted better scores.

Ella Engle and Bob McGaughey gnawed their way to victory in the corn eating contest and were awarded the title, "Klassiest Kernal Katchers." In the treasure hunt, held in the dark, Paul Averill and Myrna Smith were the first mixed couple to stumble on the final clue. Paul's prize happened to be a flashlight. Mrs. Smith refused to identify her prize, all of which reflects discredit on program chairman Dick Fleming and his three helpers who bungled their assignments, Don Bell, the same Green mentioned before, and Art Wingerden.

Twenty dozen rolls, an equal number of ears of corn, three big hams and 80 salads were devoured by the half-starved guests. About 65 Lions and their wives participated in the games and contests, later stumbling around the dance floor of the club house until way too late.

Church Students To Consider Theme

Presbyterian college students will consider the theme, "Is Christ The Answer," at a special worship service which will be held in their honor in the church school at 9:45 a.m. Sunday. Charles James is the leader.

Betty Wilson, Fred Schwarze, Mary Ormond and John Neerkin will participate in the service, followed by Mr. C. S. Kinnison, teacher of the young Men's class in the school. Mr. Watts, general superintendent, will make a presentation to each student.

Welfare Drive For Caddies At Oakland

Oakland Hills Country Club's Caddie Committee, composed of nine members headed by Chairman K. A. Moore, has set aside the period, Sept. 5-18, as caddie welfare drive in cooperation with the Detroit District Golf Association which sponsors the work.

This laudable undertaking was originated the past year and it was successfully carried out at Oakland Hills. Bundles of clothes, shoes, and other wearing apparel will be accepted from members during the current drive.

Shirley Changes Her Usual Role

Shirley Temple reversed the usual procedure while on her vacation in Hawaii recently and instead of being photographed, became the photographer as she aimed her candid camera above, at a tempting subject. The little movie star kept a camera record of people and places rather than a diary.

But It's True——————!

Mr. Farmer was the seventh son born to Mr. and Mrs. Headrick Farmer. The parents had wanted a girl. Finding it was a boy, they decided to call him Mary Ellen anyway. He has tried to live down the whole matter by being an outstanding athlete in school. Right now he is captain and pitcher for the Des Moines Tigers, a semi-professional baseball team.

Unexpired Contract Is Barring Terry From Other Offers

BILL TERRY did ask for a new contract and a raise. He told Giant officials that he had several other good offers. They informed him that they would not stand in his way of bettering himself but refused to tear up the old agreement which has another year to run . . . Fighting Fox, two-year-old brother of Gallant Fox, is an uncle of the five-year-old Omaha and of the four-year-old Granville . . . Harry Vardon is generally considered one of the greatest of all-time golfers yet few recall the man was one of the worst putters who ever foozled a short trap.

Sol Saperstein, who weighs 190 pounds, stands six feet four inches and is nineteen years old, will journey from his native Bronx to become a member of the University of Baltimore basketball team this year . . . Baltimoreans insist that Pitchers Vandenburg and Lohrman, who will come to the Polo grounds at the end of the International league season, will be as good for the Giants as Cliff Melton has been . . . Dixie Howell is through with baseball and has signed with Washington's pro football team . . . The Cincinnati Red Stockings, winners of organized baseball's first pennant in 1869 and also undefeated that season, had an annual pay roll of $9,300. The season started March 15 and ended November 15. Shortstop George Wright, who died several days ago, was the highest salaried performer. He received $1,400 for the year.

Youthful clients of this department are complaining about the baseball-bat situation. They insist the big-bat manufacturers do not make proper ones for youngsters any more. Instead they try to sell major-league models which are too heavy for the average kid to swing even if he can raise the price . . . Jackie Farrell may soon get a fall sponsor for that Jersey radio spot . . . Julius Solters of the Indians has not been much of a success with his new club as has Vosmik for whom the Browns traded him. Players say Solters is fence shy in the field and not of the winning type and that Cleveland will probably pass him on next winter.

Cobb Was Swat Champ at Age of 21

Ty Cobb was only twenty-one years old when he won the American league batting championship in 1907. The ages of other A. L. batting champions since then, Manush and Appling, twenty-five; Lajoie and Foxx, twenty-six; Sisler, Heilmann, Goslin, Simmons, twenty-seven; Fonseca, twenty-nine; Speaker and Ruth, thirty; Cobrig and Myer, thirty-one. Cecil Travis, the Washington youngster up with the leaders now, is twenty-four.

Don't fall for any of that hokum about Pompoon being pointed for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. He's definitely retired. Indeed recently almost passed out . . . Did you know that Frank Moore, who is doing such a fine job as assistant to golf pro Jimmy Farrell up at Quaker Ridge, is a brother of Cards' outfielder Terry Moore?

Guys to watch this fall—Eric Tipton, Duke's triple threat fullback; Andy Bershak, rugged North Carolina end who should cause N. Y. U. no end of woe; Bud Toebe, a great kicker and fine defensive player who will return to one of the Princeton wings after a year's absence due to injuries. Merrill Davis, Dartmouth captain and end. He weighs 205 pounds and is heavyweight boxing champion up at Hanover . . . Sad news emanating from New Haven—Merri Scott, who should have been one of the East's best tackles, has quit Yale. Gallagher, considered a sure bet to carry on where Bob Beckwith left off at center, probably will be ineligible. Several of the best hopes from a fine frosh line also should have studied harder last winter.

The name Pinelli may bob up in the major league box scores once more in five years . . . It will be Ray Pinelli, who'll be a freshman at Notre Dame this fall . . . Roy, an older brother at Notre Dame, is a footballer . . . Ray is a shortstop . . . "He's a six-footer and can do everything," says Papa Pinelli.

"Jones wants to borrow five pounds from me. Is he good for that amount?"

"Yes, with proper securities."

"What do you suggest?"

"A chain and padlock, a pair of handcuffs, and a watch-dog."

Yearnings

"Do you ever have any yearnings?" he asked the soulful girl, "that you know can never be realized?"

"Yes, I realize that I can never get enough shortcake."

Love . . . ?

Love is like an onion.
We taste it with delight;
But when it's all over,
We wonder what made us bite.

A Difference.

Mother (visiting co-ed)—"I see the streets are filled with students."

Co-ed—"Oh, no, mother. Those are just college men."

Scandal!

The emigrant was buying his ticket at the shipping office.

"And wha tabout your trunk?" demanded the clerk.

"For what would I be wantin' a thrunk?" asked the bewildered emigrant.

"To put your clothes in, of course," replied the clerk.

"What?" cried the scandalized emigrant, "and me go naked?"

Change

"It is estimated that by the end of 1940, 12,000,000 people will be living in auto trailers."

"Yes, all the houses will be vacant and the vacant lots will be occupied!"

HARD SOIL

Georgetown, Ga.—Taking what he thought was a sack of fertilizer, a Negro farmhand on farmer Joe Gary's place, proceeded to mix it with the soil. Imagine his consternation when he discovered, after a rain, that the sack had contained cement instead of fertilizer and the land became practically a sidewalk.

ENGLISH SETTER CAPTURES FIRST HONORS AT SHOW

"Bess of Bloomfield" was shown by George Johnstone, also of Southfield Road while Mrs. Loretta Langlois, of N. Woodward, had the only St. Bernard entered in the show, "Champion Darwin Waldeck Regent," bred by the Waldeck Kennels.

Two other local persons exhibiting dogs included E. V. Vincent who showed "Princess Flush," a female English Springer Spaniel, and J. C. Zimmerman, president of the Oakland County Kennel Club, owner and breeder of the Doberman Pinscher "Mia of Rheingold," shown by the Rheingold Kennels.

Champion Robin Hood followed up his victory here by walking off with major honors in the Sunday show in Pontiac, sponsored by the Pontiac Kennel Club. Officers of the Oakland County Kennel Club include, in addition to President Zimmerman, William J. McCartney, of Royal Oak, vice-president, George H. Johnstone, treasurer, and John P. Hackett, local chief of police, secretary.
