KALKASKA—A young fawn recently decided to take in the sights of Kalkaska, so ventured into the town and strutted up and down the street, not being frightened in the least.

PORTLAND—A safe, believed to weigh about 500 pounds, was found in the bottom of a three-foot-deep creek near Portland recently. The door had been blown off and the contents removed, making identification by officers impossible.

Michigan Mirror
 NON-PARTISAN STATE NEWS LETTER

LANSING, April 20—Like a financial juggernaut rolling down Michigan is the unemployment or welfare problem.
 Even with the federal government contributing 50 per cent of the WPA extra appropriation for use in Michigan, Governor Murphy was moved to release a statement to the press that he had talked directly to the White House and had appealed for a grant of 10 to 15 more millions. Cheerless newspaper headlines chilled the citizenry: "14,000 face starvation," says Murphy.
 Last week-end the governor came from Wichita, Kan. to Washington to plead personally for additional federal cash.
 Gone long ago was the hope that the state treasury would be balanced and that a huge deficit could be diverted. Turning the care of unemployment "the major responsibility of state government," the governor has let it be known that he insists upon full and adequate treatment of the jobless not only in food and clothing but in medical care.

Tax Sale Likely
Attorney General Raymond Starr's recent opinion that public officials "must proceed with their duties" in connection with the May tax sale is believed to have clinched the certainty that delinquent properties will go on the block as scheduled.
 The governor had previously hinted his intention of calling the legislature into session to authorize another tax moratorium. The idea fits in with labor's demands at Flint for a "debt moratorium."
Auditor General George Gundry discouraged Murphy. Few homes were involved in the tax sale, he said.
 Starr's logic, however, is coldly irrefutable. Property owners will have 18 months to redeem property sold for non-payment of taxes. Unless all signs fail, the tax sale will be held as authorized.
