'Y' CAMP HOST TO 100 BOYS SENT BY MRS. COUZENS

Camp Mahn-Go-Tah-See is entertaining 100 boys this week as the guests of Mrs. James Couzens, and special preparations have been made by the camp staff for their entertainment, according to Robert D. Lynd, director. The new guests arrived Saturday.

Among the features included in the program plans will be riding demonstrations and a gymkana, a soft ball league of nine teams, two water carnivals, including swimming, canoeing and canoe tilting, a track meet, an archery meet and two boxing shows.

Merlin Smiley has some novel plans for the arts and crafts group. He will take the boys on trips into the woods to gather birch, and will show them how many interesting things can be made in the craft shop.

Each boy will receive a horseback ride free and instruction in horsemanship from Clarence Hastings, riding master at the University of Michigan. Boxing lessons in the form of individual instruction will be given by Vernon Larson, also of the University of Michigan. Mr. Larson plans to present two boxing exhibitions as well.

The camp recently completed seven and one-half weeks of its season. There are 16 cabins, all in charge of qualified leaders. Campers at Mahn-Go-Tah-See were the guests of Camp Maqua, the Y. W. C. A. camp at Bay City, for dinner and a program, within the past week.

Siberian Sled Dog To Be Entered In Show

Included among the unusual entries in the Oakland County Kennel club dog show to be held Sept. 3 at the Bloomfield Open Hunt club on East Long Lake road is "Frosty," a female Samoyede owned by Mrs. Clarence G. Heinmiller of Townsend street.

This breed, which came originally from Northern Russia and Siberia, is used as a sled dog and to herd reindeer in the northern countries. More recently they have been introduced into this country from England where they are popular and well known.

Pure white, the Samoyede is a little heavier than the Spitz but not quite as powerful as the Eskimo husky. They grow to be about the size of a collie Mrs. Heinmiller said. This particular breed of dog is said to be the second oldest dog in the world, its forefathers being preceded only by the afgan hound, familiar in the desert countries.

"These dogs have never been known to turn on a human," Mrs. Heinmiller said, "and for that reason make very excellent pets for children."

Also included in "Frosty's" family are three puppies, just seven weeks old. These pups, Snow White, Prince Charming and Sire Frost, cannot be entered in competition until they are six months old.

TWO IN ONE

By Marjorie Elaine Porter

There's no doubt about it, Birmingham parents are indebted to the committee supervising the street dances, introduced as an additional feature to the summer recreation program.

Judging from results, encouragement from such a committee, is all young people need. They have taken to the plan like ducks to water, and have shown considerable initiative in taking hold and managing the affairs. The parties have been, and are, their own.

Miss Porter

At the three dances held so far, (there is one more to follow) the attendance has averaged 400 guests. This seems to be ample proof of the popularity of the plan among young people. Much of the credit goes to them of course, but the permanent committee should come in for a generous share. This group including Mrs. S. L. Johnston, chairman; Mrs. William E. Essery and Mrs. H. H. Corson, gave impetus to the idea by affording young people the opportunity to try it out.

When it was discovered how enthusiastically they responded, the committee appealed to the Board of Education to cooperate in a permanent program, which would provide similar parties throughout the fall and winter. That the Board was favorably impressed, is evidenced by the letter written by Supt. Howard D. Crull, in reply to the committee.

As the committee points out, and as parents should realize, there is scant entertainment offered young people here. For this reason, many seek it elsewhere, away from home and out of town. So far, parents at large have done nothing about it.

Some apparently feel that as long as their own young people and their friends are enjoying themselves, there is nothing to worry about. But fortunately for Birmingham, there are public-spirited persons, represented by the street dance committee, who feel that all young people should be considered in providing recreational facilities.

The dances were offered as an experiment, and the result is convincing proof that young people welcome this sort of entertainment when it is provided at home. They have thrown themselves into the plan with all the enthusiasm and energy of their age, as they always will, when an idea appeals to their fancy. But they do need an older group to stand by, to shoulder responsibility and to iron out any difficulties that might otherwise discourage their efforts.

This is precisely the sort of aid the permanent committee gave, and is giving the young peoples' committees in the street dances. It seems high time that Birmingham parents gave some thought to this matter, in the realization of the debt they owe the committee. To repay it, they may offer at least, their staunch approval and moral support to the plan for developing a permanent recreation program.

Would you like to sprout from Joe Doaks, widget-twister in a Widget factory, to a pampered darling of the upper classes? Would you like to be paid large sums for insulting people who'll love you for your rudeness? Follow the directions of our committee-for-exploiting-little-used-methods-of-making-a-fortune. Before you know it, you'll be fought over by high society, as Teinrich VonSatchelfut, Continental sensation.

Miss Dwelley

Your equipment consists of an erratic beard, peculiar clothes and a horrible accent. Go to Europe any way you choose, but be sure to come home on a large liner, bearing plenty of Americans. Sit around and look interesting and bad-tempered, and pretty soon you'll be approached by Mrs. Badminton-Faltz, of whom there is always at least one on any ship.

She's up to her neck in plans for the ball to aid destitute seabiscuits, because she just LOVES to ask people to give their all for charity.

"I BEG your pawdon," she coos, sidling up to your chair. "But we think it would be SO nice to have a little entertainment during the ball and I just know you'd have something interesting to do, Mr. . . . ah . . ." She's so busy acting coy that she doesn't notice your foot, which you have adroitly stuck in her way. Of course she trips and barks her shins, but you do all the yelling. "Iss it not enough that you make too much noise?" you scream. "Do you then, haf to schtep me all ofer mit your feet? Go avay and leaf me alone."

The other passengers are charmed. You're the first one who has DARED to defy the old battle-axe. Pretty soon, they're going to say: "Say, who IS he?"

Mrs. Badminton-Faltz could tell them. She's found out that you're registered as Heinrich VonSatchelfut, and she's simply buzzing with plans. After all, you're obviously a foreigner and anyone so rude MUST be important. Pretty soon she corners you again.

"How I envy you the thrill of seeing America for the first time!" she breathes, at dinner. "Your friends will probably show you everything. Of course you ARE heeting friends aren't you?"

"Nein," you growl, inhaling soup with a noice like a side-wheel ferry.

"Oh REALLY? How very daring of you! Now you'll probably think me too utterly naughty, but I'm SO interested in Europe—much moreso than my dear husband—anyway, all my friends say I'm almost too well-informed at times."

"Vell?" you growl, just as though you didn't know what was coming.

She flutters, but she's scenting the air like an old war horse, and you know she's figuring on using you as a sort of battering ram, with which to stun her rivals. She speaks.

So you go to their "little nest" which, apparently, occupies most of Long Island. You have a suite of rooms and the run of the house. Now and then, at her request, you come down and snarl at her guests. They love it. When you're alone you can read magazines or do cross-word puzzles or cut out paper dolls. It's marvelous.

Eventually you move on to the home of the richest rival. So that you can come back to the Badminton-Faltz residence if you want to, you tell your hostess that you must'nt wear out your welcome. It's the first civilized thing you've said to her and she's stunned. Meanwhile, you leave.

Pretty soon your kind American friends arrange a lecture tour for you. Don't worry about your unfamiliarity with Europe. All you have to do is growl and grunt and insult the intelligence of your audience. You're booked solidly all winter. And when you get tired of travelling about the country you can always settle down and write a book about America and its people.

This racket is equally good for women, too. The committee expects to publish its findings within a week.

What Your City Commission Is Doing—

August 22, 1938

Bills were approved in the amount of $9,472.41, including a payroll for the period from August 1st to 15th of $6,360.30.

On recommendation of the City Manager, and Shoecraft, Drury and McNamee, Consulting Engineers, a contract was awarded to the Banbrook-Gowan Company of Detroit, subject to approval of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, for the construction of the sewage disposal plant to be located at Cranbrook and 14 Mile Road, such contract based on their low bid of $159,836.

A hearing was held on an amendment to the zoning ordinance to permit the construction of Multiple Dwellings on the south side of Maple Avenue between Rouge Park and Baldwin Park. More than 20% of the owners of abutting property objected to the proposed change in classification, and the petition was denied.

A report was received from the City Manager relative to the future policy of the city of cleaning basements after floods. He also advised the Commission that he had received information from the State Highway Department indicating that work would be started in May, 1939 on the new Woodward Highway. The manager recommended against a W.P.A. application for the cleaning up of Quarton Lake due to the fact that such work would be a machine operation and would not be practical under hand methods employed under W.P.A. projects.

The manager was authorized to purchase 42000 sewer brick, at the best possible price. The Birmingham National Bank was named depository for Capital Improvement Funds.

Polling places were changed in Precincts 1 and 5 as follows:

Precinct 1—District North of Maple and West of Woodward, formerly voted at Holy Name School, will now vote at Quarton School.

Precinct 5—District South of Lincoln, on both sides of Woodward, formerly voted at Embury Methodist Church, will now vote at Pierce School.

Irene E. Hanley, City Clerk.

For as little as 25 cents you may insert a CLASSIFIED AD in the columns of The Eccentric. Try one when you want to buy or sell, locate a house or sell one, or for hiring a maid. Telephone 11 before Wednesday noon each week. —(Adv.)
