

LEAGUE HOLDS MUSICALE TEA AS YULE FETE

A tea of lovely appointments and a musicale, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. O'Connor of Avon lane on Sunday afternoon, proved a pre-holiday entertainment of note for members of the League of Catholic Women. The husbands and guests of members also attended the affair.

Carrying out the Christmas motif, Mrs. O'Connor laid her table in green, silver and white. Displays of greens formed a mound in the center, from which rose white tapers. Additional tapers in silver holders were also used. On the serving table and mantel, tiny Christmas trees and modern decorations in red, white and silver formed brilliant adornment.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Martin J. Wendell, president of the League, and Mrs. V. DeBauben, Mrs. Wendell chose a plum-colored velvet gown and Mrs. DeBauben wore an all-black ensemble.

Mrs. O'Connor greeted her guests in an afternoon frock of blue crepe. Mrs. Jack Leary, chairman of entertainment, enlisted the aid of several League members as assistant hostesses. Among them were Mrs. Thomas M. Cummings, Mrs. Frank T. Jarvis, Mrs. Frank J. McGinnis and Mrs. William B. Livingston.

GIRL SCOUTS

Troop B-7 has completed the inventory of prospective Tenderfoots. New Tenderfoots are Shirley Holland, Abigail Carson and Nancy Truitt. Troop B-7 is planning to give a Christmas basket. The Patrol bringing most canned goods to the meeting is Troop B-7. The Christmas party, to be held Wednesday, Dec. 21. Names were also drawn at the last meeting, to present gifts.

Prizes have been awarded to members of Troop B-7 who sold the most cookies in the recent drive. First prize, a Girl Scout charm bracelet, went to Katherine Gibbons. Second prize was won by Dorothy Jackson, and third by Freda Holmes. Both were Girl Scout "Don't Forget It" boys.

The second-class Scouts of Troop Two are working on handkerchiefs as part of their requirements. Members of Troop Five entertained their mothers at their annual Christmas tea on Monday afternoon, in the Girl Scout room at the Community House, Mrs. Thomas E. Navin and Mrs. Jean Main, joint Troop leaders, greeted the mothers. Those who poured were Jacqueline Buck, Troop president, and Ann Jean Stevens.

Girl Scout Troop Three wrapped dresses which they will give to children in needy families for Christmas at the last meeting. Working in the Safety field, some Troop members made safe toys for children such as bean bags. Other Troop members made scrub bags to give convalescent children in hospitals for Christmas.

Fashion Tips

And now we hear that Hollywood is paying no heed to the hairdressers' decree of upswait hair. We are not surprised, for the women who can wear their hair on top and still look their best are in the minority.

But after all, the upswait hair for evening is rather smart looking if it is not too severely done. Ringlets and soft curls near the ears and neck modify the extreme new style.

We notice that any number of the models are wearing the front part of their hair up on top and the back part down low.

However, we hear that Norma Macer is sporting a Dutch bob, while Grete Garbo and Ginger Rogers are going around with their crowning glory almost touching their shoulders.

At the London lingerie show held recently in Paris, some unusual but lovely gowns were displayed.

A high-waisted night gown of yellow wool tulle was displayed and piped in satin and had a matching bed jacket.

Another nightgown of pale rose wool chiffon had rather of a lovely wool tulle. This also had its bed jacket of rose wool chiffon.

Some of the Parisian houses are designing special dresses for small girls. They are handmade, of course, and only about six of a kind are made. They are not fancy but very chic.

For instance, a railroad dress of chambray has a train attached across the yoke and a heavy linen dress has a zany lace. Bunched by a pair of horse shoes as a yoke decoration.

Peasant embroidery is extensively used on dresses, bonnets and jackets.

Final arrangements are now complete for the feather party, which the Parent Teacher Association of Union School will sponsor at eight o'clock on the evening of Friday, Dec. 16. The affair, according to the ticket committee, is already a complete sell-out.

Among the most popular of the proposed uses for the proceeds derived from the affair are the purchase of a movie screen and a mimeograph for use in the school.

Sleek Satin

Sleek and smart is this afternoon dress of black satin worked on alternate mat and shiny sides. It has a new full front bodice with draped effect at skirt hipline.
