The Importance of Spinal Therapy

In Sickness

THE treatment of human ailments by manipulation of the spinal column and of other parts of the body is not new. The physicians of ancient Greece—Hippocrates and his contemporaries—made extensive use of this kind of treatment.

In a book written by Dr. K. Ligeros, of Athens, Greece, "How Ancient Healing Governed Modern Therapeutics," and published recently by Pulnam's Sons, the author offers undoubted evidence by reproduction of illustrations and manuscripts found in European museums that the father of medicine had a thorough knowledge of the mechanism of the Spinal Column, of its close relationship to the Nervous System and of its influence upon the whole organism.

For over forty years, the chiropractors have been practicing to the sick world these principles proving by their wonderful results the efficacy of Spinal Therapy in the treatment of human ailments. People who never had experienced with chiropractic think that it is good for conditions of the Spine alone. This is a misconception. Chiropractic adjustments can reduce high blood pressure, can relieve and, within certain limits, can cure appendicitis and gall bladder infections—Results obtained through adjustments in nervous cases stand prominently.

Thousands of persons, particularly women, who pass or are passing menopause (change) will testify to this effect. Can chiropractic relieve stomach, kidney and intestinal disorders? It can. It can, because it deals directly with the cause of the trouble thereby assisting nature which does the curing.

College Knowledge

By SOPHIE MORE

Francis C. Bagby, of Dorchester road, is one of a stag party making a stop at St. Louis during a month's visit. The itinerary will include sojourns in Miami and perhaps a stop at Ft. Lauderdale, where Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gilray have taken a house for the entire winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Woodruff had 16 dinner guests preceding the Barn Dance, which was held at the Methodist church at one p. m. last Wednesday. A program full of interest to the group followed the luncheon, with Mrs. Earle Cunningham presiding.

First on the program was a group of solos, offered by Mrs. Lucille Campbell Stockman, of Lansing, and Mrs. Young L. Moore. The songs preceded an address entitled "What the World Needs is Love," delivered by Miss Jennie Dean, of Detroit. Miss Dean was formerly a missionary to China. She outlined to her audience some of the acknowledged conditions in the Orient today, including Japan, with which she is most familiar. The regular business of the organization and announcements concluded the meeting. The Rev. Joseph A. Meaze, of the United Presbyterian Church, led the prayers, which drew the meeting to a close. The Methodist church will also be the scene of the group's next meeting, which will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 9.

Two popular house guests have been those of Mr. and Mrs. James Schermerhorn, Jr. They are Mrs. Schermerhorn's niece, Marjorie Vinton, of Louisville, Ky., and Frank Hardy of Detroit. The round of informal parties inspired by the visitors included a dinner given by their hosts on Thursday night, followed by games. In the early hours of the following morning, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dalbois, Mrs. Julia K. Lally, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vinton, of Louisville, Ky., and Frank Hardy of Detroit, on Sunday the Schermerhorns held an informal open house, during which the visitors enjoyed toboggans and skis. They were also hosts at dinner for a few friends before the Barn Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon R. Noble will be hosts at a family dinner Saturday night in their home on Safford, where the Honorable Mrs. Noble's father, Charles D. Bennett of Detroit. Mr. Bennett will leave for New York Sunday to embark on the following Wednesday for a two month's European tour.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Warren Peace Jr., who left Sunday for an extended trip through Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Farrell were hosts at a dinner for a large number of guests Saturday night, in their home on Safford drive. Besides the honorees and their hosts, the dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. George Howard Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie S. MacVettr, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Manning, Mr. and Mrs. John Z. Lander, Mr. and Mrs. Rockwood A. Bullard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Clark E. Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alders, of Grosse Pointe.

The Birmingham colony at Miami now includes Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Heil of Cranbrook road, who will remain in Florida for another fortnight, according to their plans.
