Sweet Adeline's Singing Father

At 60, Harry Armstrong, above, can still sing "Sweet Adeline" well enough to qualify for any barber shop quartette. Harry wrote the music for the famous ballad as a lad of 17 in Meadford, Mass., but it wasn't until a New York music hall acquaintance, Richard Getard, created "Adeline" that the song became popular.

Varsity Club To Stage Fashion Show For The School Set Of Baldwin High

One week from today in the auditorium of the Baldwin High School at 11:15 in the morning will be staged what promises to be one of the finest and most brilliant displays of current men's and women's fashions ever to be witnessed in the City of Birmingham.

Models for this extravaganza will be drawn from the smart young set of Birmingham and its vicinity. With this select group of models and with ushers and an announcer dressed in tuxedos, it should be one of the outstanding social events of the week.

Tickets for this magnificent showing will go on sale the first of next week, according to the sponsor of the affair, the Baldwin High Varsity Club. As a fancy attraction, each ticket will have a blank in which the purchaser may write the name of the high school girl he thinks should be crowned Baldwin's "Beauty Queen."
