 A MAN ABOUT TOWN

Offer something worth while FREE, and see what happens. The other day we dropped in to see Charlie Wright, over at Mulholland's, and could hardly get in the door. Mothers with their babies were crowded around the front part of the store, and all the mothers seemed to be primping their "darlings" to the Nth degree. We made a detour around the crowd and found two cameramen busily at work taking pictures of the children. . . . And—the pictures were taken FREE OF CHARGE. Of course, the studio which was doing the "picture taking" hoped, we feel sure, that the Free Picture of the baby would be so enticing that the proud parents could not help but order a few for their friends and relatives. Birmingham surely has a bevy of "cute" babies . . . and they are not all under twenty-one, either.

▲ Dominic Caputo has a smart little daughter for her tender years. The other day she was down to her Grandpa Bruni's store and apparently thought she should be helping out a bit. She approached a friendly lady customer and asked her if she might "wait on her." The lady, noting the childish enthusiasm said, "Yes, I believe you can. I was going to get nothing but some ground meat this time, but, as I am afraid you could not get that for me, I'll take a loaf of bread." The child SOLD her the loaf of bread.

▲ Mrs. Erik Bergshagan besides being a lover of fine dogs, loves fine music. She is a pianist of no mean ability, so naturally attended the Percy Grainger piano recital held at the Community House the other evening. While there, she slipped up to Mr. Grainger and talked to him in her native tongue. While Grainger is a native of Australia, he spent several years in Denmark during his early life, so he conversed with the local pianist fluently in her native language. It was, undoubtedly, an interesting experience for Mrs. Bergshagan.

▲ It was graduation time over at Cunningham's again the other day. Paul Lenz, dean of the local Cunningham School for Store managers, handed out another diploma. The most recent graduate of the school was none other than Les Bergman who has been "studying" under Prof. Lenz for the past several months. So well had he learned his lessons and so diligently had he applied himself during the course of instruction, that he was sent over to A. J. Athor to manage the Cunningham Store which caters to the college boys and girls of the U. of M. Nice going, Les . . . and nice work on your part too, Prof. Lenz. Every assistant Paul has had as far back as we can remember has been "graduated" to a nice store of his own.

▲ The boys of the local Exchange Club went "collegiate" at their mid-week meeting last Tuesday. It was NECKTIE DAY, and most of the boys sported bright bits of adornment around their necks. Walter Parmenter came through and won the prize offered for the "screaming" tie. It was a snappy love model of a civil red tie, and boy did it scream. In attendance at the meeting were three boys from the Oakland County Juvenile Home, who had been brought over by Ross Tenny, guest speaker for the day. They carried home most of the gorgeous ties, so if you wondered at some of the local business and professional men going about town without a tie, wonder no more . . . they gave their ties to the boys who really like bright neckwear.

▲ Birmingham's vest-pocket tenor, Joe Purvis, has finally received his just reward. After being the assistant to the head man over at the Goodyear Station for a number of years, he has now been made a full fledged manager and IS the head man over at the corner of Martin and Pierre Streets. After showing the various managers, who have been stationed here from time to time, all the inside workings of the local Goodyear store, we would say that it really is about time for Joe to get his promotion. Congratulations, Joe, and we hope no old meany steals your flowers next summer.

▲ Emerson Brown proved himself to be a regular two-tisted gambler the other night at a little "git-together" held by some of the directors of a local men's club. He consistently bet TWO CENTS on every hand, whether he "had them" or not. The boys finally plotted against him however, and forced him to lay out three matches instead of two. Some fellows are SO careless with their money!

▲ Some men just won't stay home when they have one, and then again, occasionally we find a fellow who wants to stay at home but can't. Ralph Wilson, jovial druggist over on the corner of Woodward, is in just that fix. It seems that one of his sons came home from school with a border-line case of one of the springtime children's diseases, which resulted in a little colored card being tacked on the front and rear doors. Ralph is locked out for about four weeks and is now on his own. In looking about for a place to rest his weary bones, he answered a blind ad in the town's best "rooms for rent" columns, and found on following up the ad that the room offered was in the home of Dave Kennedy, who is greenskeeper at the Birmingham Golf Club. Ralph happens to be the President of the Club.

▲ Mark Hardin, one of Birmingham's staunch Democrats, is still supplying the answers to questions put to him as a result of the talk given last week by Walter L. Frey, the nation's No. 1 Sit-Down Boss. Mark is a good scout and takes all the bantering good naturedly. He did say however, that he did not like to have a speaker mix his political words with those usually associated with Sunday Schools. If you know what he means, well, maybe he HAS got something there!

▲ C. C. Bradner, radio newscaster of WWJ, Detroit, was the guest speaker at the Pythians Banquet over at the Community House last Friday night. He was in "rare" form and kept his listeners in continuous laughter throughout his talk. He said he was known to have a bit of Scotch in him . . . and didn't mind it a bit. He went on to remark that Scotch "straights" did have a warming effect on the system when living home from Birmingham on a cold, wintry night. It was almost a direct appeal, and we wonder if it brought forth any results. He is quite a "rambler" as far as conversation goes, and seems to believe in discussing the less serious sides of life when away from the "mike," rather than the "recession . . . depression . . . and suppression" side of the news of the day. The folks seemed to like it.

▲ So . . . in bringing this bit of rambling to a close for the week, we'll just suggest that you all devote a part of your chatting to the lighter things of life. It will probably be as refreshing as Spring, and will mark in like April Showers. No fending . . . we all need some "light hearted" tonic these days. Bid a Grand Slam—and hope you make it. Don't take things too seriously!
